R-101 BLAST PUZZLES EXPERTS

REVEAL RUSSIAN PLAN TO INVADE RUMANIA IN 1931

Moscow Wonders if Powers Will Fight.

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A code telegram sent more than a month ago from Moscow to the soviet ambassadors at London and Paris is likely to determine whether or not there will be a war in Europe again in 1931.

The telegram contained a question which Red diplomatic agents abroad are now trying cautiously to solve through secret approaches in high official circles.

What of Europe?

The question was:

"What will the rest of Europe do if a soviet army invades Rumania next spring and takes back Bessarabia as far as the old frontier line along the river Pruth?"

Upon the answer hangs a definite plan for war. I heard this two months ago in Moscow but was unable to investigate it there. Since leaving Russia I have obtained information which not only confirms the report that the Kremlin is seriously considering an armed invasion of Rumania, but also reveals both the theory and practical plans for such an adventure.

Prepare Detailed Attack.

I will describe the political aspects later. The military aspects are these:

A detailed scheme for the proposed attack on Rumania was drawn up last June at a secret war conference held in the soviet city of Kharkov. Seven Red army experts worked out the plan. These experts were, chief of the soviet general staff, Clement Voroshilov, five operations specialists, and the military commissar Yakir, who now commands the Red forces in the Ukraine district.

Himself a native of Bessarabia, Yakir has made a long scientific study of the problem of conducting a war there.

May Begin Next March.

The program as drafted by the soviet experts schedules the operations to start not later than March 20, 1931.

According to the plan the Red army will deliver a triple blow after crossing the Dniester. The city of Kishinev, in the heart of Bessarabia, will be the first principal objective and the Red center will concentrate on the Bender-Kishinev line. Pivoting from that point the right wing of the Red army is calculated to sweep northward in a circling movement aimed at the city of Chotin, 150 miles from Kishinev. At the same time the left wing is expected to carry out another circling movement toward the south for the purpose of taking the city of Akkerman—the Black sea port commanding the mouth of the Dniester, 90 miles from Kishinev.

Intend Swift Mass Attack.

For political as well as military reasons it is considered imperative to make this attack short, hard, and decisive. In order to attain maximum speed from the outset it is planned not to use heavy guns or trench methods but to employ large units of cavalry, field artillery, high speed tanks, and bombing planes. The decision to exclude heavy artillery comes from the Red general staff's opinion that Rumanian frontier forts are not formidable enough to offer stubborn resistance.

They count on putting over a whirlwind campaign which will not take longer than six weeks from start to finish. To do this they estimate they will need three cavalry divisions with corresponding units of light artillery and tanks and five squadrons of planes.

While these swift military operations are going on Moscow plans to give Rumania another kind of surprise party. The big trick will be played by the Red infantry.

Disguised Peasant Army.

It is planned to fling a vast horde of soviet foot soldiers into Rumania disguised as Bessarabian peasants. They are to be divided into small bands carrying concealed arms but led by soviet officers also in peasant disguise.

According to the scheme the part to be played by these masked regiments will be vitally important. As the Red cavalry advances they are to march in, declaring a peasant uprising and demand an independent government for Bessarabia. It is calculated that they will not only assist the soviet forces as active fighters but will also spread revolutionary fever through the country, thereby creating an internal crisis which will enable Rumania to accept Moscow's peace terms quickly.

CARDINALS BEAT MACKS, 3-1; EVEN SERIES; CUBS WIN

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 1, yesterday and made the standing in the world series two victories each. Jess Haines permitted the Macks four hits, while Lefty Grove allowed the Cards one more. The fifth contest will be played in St. Louis today, with Burleigh Grimes of St. Louis and George Earnshaw of Philadelphia slated to pitch. Score:

Athletics	100	000	000	1	4	1

Batteries—Grove and Cochrane; Haines and Wilson.

Extra base hits off Ted Lyons enabled the Cubs to whip the White Sox, 6 to 4, yesterday at Wrigley field in the fifth game of the city series. The Cubs now lead three games to two and need one more victory to retain the city title. Score:

Cubs	210	020	10*	6	13	0

ROCHE SEIZES 8; SUBURB COURTS SET THEM FREE

All Out on Bond in Sunday Hearings.

Twelve detectives from the state's attorney's office, headed by Pat Roche, chief investigator, and Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney, swept through Chicago Heights early yesterday and arrested eight men for investigation as hoodlum suspects. Among the eight were two reputed gunmen and another man believed to be a henchman of Al Capone.

All of the eight men, however, were liberated under $200 bonds on charges of disorderly conduct after two special sessions of court held on Sunday.

Roche, who had intended to put the men through the bureau of identification and otherwise examine their activities, characterized the method of freeing the suspects on minor bonds as the "worst procedure I ever encountered." He added: "From now on I'll make it tough for the hoodlums in Chicago Heights."

Two Previously Arrested.

The eight men arrested were Joseph Guzzino, George Montesanti, Genaro Roberto, Daniel McElroy, Frank La Porte, Al Saldone, Harry Douglas, and James Robbins.

Roche said Montesanti and Roberto had been arrested three days ago by his men at the Pioneer hotel, in Chicago Heights, each of them armed with a pistol. Other weapons were found in a raid on the hotel, Roche said. Both men still face charges of carrying concealed weapons. Roche said La Porte had been seen frequently loitering about Chicago headquarters of the Capone gang.

Attorney Robert Meier Jr. of Chicago, representing all the eight men, first obtained their freedom on writs of habeas corpus at a special hearing before City Judge Craig A. Hood of Chicago Heights.

Rearrested and Freed Again.

As they left Judge Hood's court the eight men were rearrested on charges of disorderly conduct by Police Chief H. B. Stafford, who had been instructed to take the prisoners to the bureau of identification yesterday afternoon. When booked on the disorderly charges, the men became eligible to release on bond and their bonds were approved by Police Magistrate A. I. Zeller at another special hearing. They will appear on Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Frank J. Synakiewicz in Blue Island.

Five women, arrested in the same raids in which the men were caught, were ignored in the habeas corpus proceedings and left in the Chicago Heights jail. Later they were taken to the bureau of identification.

Investigators Question Bell.

Roche and Prosecutor Rathbun went ahead with their investigation into the revelations of Frank H. Bell, county jail prisoner who has confessed that he drove the automobile used by the killers of Alfred Lingle, and who on Saturday gave information that resulted in preventing the escape from the jail of William Lenhardt, a murderer condemned to die in the electric chair.

Bell was placed in a cell apart from the other prisoners and given a special guard to prevent any assault on him as a result of his disclosures.

His story regarding the Lingle murder is being carefully investigated in every particular. The officials said they were also inquiring into all the available information concerning Richard Sullivan and Joe Traum, who were named by Bell as accomplices in the Lingle plot and are now in cells, Sullivan in the county jail and Traum at Leavenworth penitentiary.

The investigators fear Bell's death

Glorious Fall Days Are Here; Also Vandals

BY HAL FOUST.

A quarter of a million Chicagoans drove from the city yesterday to enjoy the autumn coloring of the countryside, the yellows of the frost nipped maples and poplars and the reds of the sumac. A couple of thousand other Chicagoans drove from the city to tear limbs from trees and cut down bushes to decorate their homes for a few days.

The great majority of the motorists rolled over the highways, feasted their eyes on the tinted woods, the brown meadows, and the yellow pumpkins in the corn fields, leaving the roadside as they had found it for thousands of others to enjoy before it is covered with snow. But there was this minority which killed and crippled young trees and bushes, leaving scars on the landscape.

Forest Preserves Suffer.

Public property and private were violated by men and women with knives and hatchets. The forest preserves suffered. Some of the landscaping on the highway right of way was attacked. Fences were climbed to get into farmers' groves and wooded country estates.

There were children accompanying their parents in these raiding parties, children getting a practical lesson from their parents in nature appreciation, highway beautification and the rights of private and public property owners.

For those who came to look and leave for others, the countryside offered its seasonal treat. The woods are just beginning to assume their fall colors. Another frost and the tapestry will be complete.

Linger on Side Roads.

The autumn scenery is viewed from the secondary roads better than from the main highways. On the busy pavements a motorist is obligated to keep moving at a reasonable speed so as not to block progress and create a hazard for fast through traffic. On the secondary roads there is lots of opportunity to loaf along at twenty and twenty-five miles an hour without infringing on the rights of fellow motorists.

Furthermore, the main roads in the vicinity of Chicago have many of their most attractive settings ruined by billboards.

BOSTON COMMON IS TURNED INTO A DONNYBROOK

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Aloysius McCarthy's week is just dreary days stretching between Sunday afternoons when he joins the public forum on Boston Common and decides affairs of moment.

Aloysius wags a mean tongue. He wags it equally well on either side of any question. His opponents call him many things, but what they mean is that he is controversial, polemic and contentious.

Aloysius was delayed in reaching the Commons today. An earlier speaker had extolled the idea of changing the Volstead act. So Mr. McCarthy, perforce, became dry, an ardent though temporary exponent of prohibition.

When Mr. McCarthy becomes vocal he will stretch a point to make a point.

"The old saloon," said he, "was a terrible thing; it bred evil; and shame to tell it, nine out of ten of the old bartenders were Irish."

A brick looped out of the audience and hit McCarthy; by-standers said McGoorty shied it. Kelley's fist reached McCarthy's right eye and O'Brien's foot crashed McCarthy's shin. Then there was confusion.

Up drove four patrols and out poured uncounted Dugans, Moriarities, Foleys, Cassidays, and McGuires. Boston Common became a Donnybrook fair, but Aloysius McCarthy's life was saved.

SURVIVORS TELL HOW 46 DIED AS AIRSHIP BURNED

Most of Passengers Trapped in Beds.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 5.—While French authorities were extricating from the twisted wreckage of the R-101 the charred bodies of 46, including some of Great Britain's finest air experts and airmen, whose lives were snuffed out when the world's largest dirigible crashed against a wooded ridge near here, eight survivors today told the story of the catastrophe.

One of the crew virtually returned to life late tonight, when Beauvais police announced that Rigger W. G. Radcliffe, reported dead at the hospital, was alive and probably could be saved. Thus, the official death list was reduced from 47 to 46 and increased the survivors to their original number, eight. The report of the rigger's death was ascribed by police as a mistake on the part of the hospital.

Tell of Escape from Flames.

The survivors of the airship, which was en route from Cardington, England, to Karachi, India, told their story as well as their puffy scorched lips would let them.

Each man recalled vividly how he himself escaped from the crater of blazing gas and crackling flames, but none knew exactly what caused the disaster, which totally destroyed England's "pride of the air," estimated to have cost before it finally started on its first long flight, close to $8,000,000. British official investigators admitted the cause of the explosion was still a mystery.

Most of the forlorn band of survivors wandered about sleepless and unnerved throughout the day, with their hands and faces swathed in bandages.

They were unable to tell what caused the disaster, because it came too suddenly.

Uncertain Over Cause.

One minute the dirigible was nosing through the thick night at a normal speed, the next minute it was a jumble of steel on the hillside, wrapped in blue flame and wrenched from nose to tail by a series of violent blasts. It is impossible to ascertain whether the explosion preceded the crash or was caused by it. From the account of most of the survivors, the latter version is the most likely.

The ship was flying low in the blind night and apparently crashed into the slope of rolling Bois de Feck, which is 700 feet above sea level. The bag ripped and sparks from the motors set off the inflammable hydrogen gas, which burns explosively when mixed with oxygen.

All the survivors—only one of whom is in a critical condition—belonged to the crew and owed their lives to the fact that they were keeping watch forward or in the rear compartments in the hull of the ship.

Killed While Asleep.

The officials and passengers, including Lord Thomson, minister of air, and Sir W. Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation, with the exception of Flight Lieut. H. C. Irwin, captain of the R-101, and the navigating officer, Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, were asleep when the crash came and were burned to death in their berths. The rest escaped by clawing their way through the flaming wreckage.

Engineers Arthur V. Bell and J. A. Binks owe their lives to a water tank which split from the concussion of the blast, drenching them. Bell had just finished his watch and was waiting for Binks, who had overslept and arrived four minutes late to relieve him. That delay saved Bell's life, for he stayed a minute to talk with Binks.

"I was in the after engine car chatting with Binks," said Bell, "when the ship went into a forward dip at a sharp angle. She rights herself and then a few seconds later went into another dip. There was a hard bump, then a grinding crash.

Drenched by Water.

"Then I do not know what happened exactly. There was a terrible explosion, maybe several of them. All I could see was flames and could even feel the flames lick my face. The water tank above us burst and wet our clothes, so they did not burn. I could

Golfing Party Held Up; Lose $8,000 Gems

Three Chicagoans, with their wives, were held up and robbed by three armed bandits last night of jewels and cash to the total value of nearly $8,000 on a gravel road just outside the grounds of the St. Andrews Golf club on St. Charles road, six miles northwest of Wheaton. Those robbed, who were on their way home after an afternoon and evening at the club, were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Pellar, 6259 Sheridan road; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pellar, 5022 North Harding avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Newman, 35 West Washington street.

Stopped to Change Tire.

The party had stopped to change a tire when the robbers' car drove up. Two of the bandits sat in their car while the third leaped to the ground and relieved their victims of their valuables.

From the Sidney Pellars the robbers obtained two diamond rings valued at $3,600 and a wrist watch worth $1,000; from Ralph Pellar, brother of Sidney, and his wife they got two rings valued at $3,000, and from Mrs. Newman the robbers took a wedding ring worth $300 and from Mr. Newman $60 in cash. After the bandits sped away Sidney Pellar reported the robbery to Deputy Sheriff Walter Dierschow of Du Page county.

Active in Business.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY GUNMAN HE SEEKS TO HALT

Policeman George Weber, 35 years old, of the East Side police district was shot in the thigh and left ankle last night by a gunman who opened fire when Weber attempted to question him in front of "The Barn," a roadhouse near 114th street and Avenue G. A motorist took Weber to the South Chicago hospital, where it was found that his injuries were not serious. Weber said that after shooting him his assailant seized his gun and fled toward the state line, five blocks away.

4 of 5 in a Fishing Party Drowned as Boat Upsets

Ipswich, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Four of a fishing party of five men drowned today after their small motor boat was swamped by heavy seas in Ipswich bay. The dead were Joseph Gaffney, 44; his son, Joseph Jr., 20, both of Ipswich, and William G. Hayes, 62, and William McDeavitt, 58, both of Lowell. The fifth man, Ernest Hayes, son of one of the victims, was rescued by a coast guard patrol boat.

HOLD REGISTRATION TOMORROW IN ALL PRECINCTS OF COUNTY

Tomorrow is the last chance for qualified voters who are not registered or are not correctly registered to get their names on the poll books for the election of Nov. 4.

This year, for the first time, the registration law applies to all voters in Cook county. There was one registration day for the suburbs outside the jurisdiction of the election commission on Sept. 27. Voters in all country towns except Berwyn, Chicago Heights, Cicero, Evergreen Park and Summit who did not register on that date must register tomorrow.

For voters in Chicago and the suburbs listed above, tomorrow is the only chance to register before Nov. 4. Voters who were correctly registered for the primaries last April need not re-register. Those who must register are voters who have moved, voters who have changed their names, and new voters—the latter including those who have come of age, those who have recently met the residence requirements, and those who have just acquired citizenship.

Grain Broker, Ill, Shoots Self to Death in Home

Carroll L. Frank, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, shot himself to death yesterday in his home at 7637 Crandon avenue as the result of despondency over illness. His wife, Alice, heard the shot and found him dying. Mr. Frank was 51 years old.

Bandits Slay Youth; He Had Only 40 Cents

Edward Fitzgerald, 25 years old, 7031 South Carpenter street, an oiler employed by the sanitary district, was shot and fatally wounded early yesterday at Peoria and 70th streets by one of three men who sought to rob him.

From the story of Burel Huff, 7023 South Peoria street, friend of Fitzgerald and the first to reach him after the shooting, Englewood police were convinced that he was slain when he told the robbers the truth that he had only 40 cents in his pocket. Fitzgerald died in St. Bernard's hospital a few hours after the shooting.

Left Friend at 10 P. M.

Edward Breitenbach, 7124 Emerald avenue, told police that Fitzgerald left him at 63d and Halsted streets at 10 o'clock Saturday night, saying he was going home. Police are puzzled, however, about where he was during the three hours that followed before he was shot.

Miss Helen Cartwright, 843 West 70th street, said that from her window she saw three men drive away in a small car following the shooting. This was corroborated by Philip Bellone, 1002 West 70th street, as well as by what Fitzgerald told Huff.

Similar to Fiddelke Case.

Since Fitzgerald with his brother, Joseph, was the support of his parents and two sisters, police believe the case essentially similar to the murder of Willis Fiddelke, who was shot by robbers in his drug store at 6560 South Western avenue because he had only $40 in his cash register.

TUNNEY, GENE'S BROTHER, SAVES LIFE WITH FIST

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—With a pistol held close to the breast of a brother officer, and a thug's finger curving over the trigger, Detective Thomas Tunney today delivered a blow worthy of his brother Gene, ex-world's heavyweight champion.

There were no million dollar gate such as Gene fought for, but the reward of Tom was to save the life of Detective Edwin Goodwin and arrest four stickups who just had relieved a crowd of lower west side poker players of $2,500 and $3,000 in jewelry.

W. K. Levering Killed by Fall from His Horse

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Wilson K. Levering, president of the National Sash Weight company and nationally known horse breeder, was killed today in a fall from his horse.

He had taken his horse from the stable and a short time later the riderless animal with broken bridle was found roaming about in a field.

He was the owner of Royal Duck, which ran second to Billy Barton in the Grand National in 1926.

Offer Wide Selection in Women's Coats for Fall

The American language is losing many words and phrases which for many generations have enjoyed considerable usage. Take, for instance, two famous old standbys—"Sunday clothes" and "glad rags." The former has become the almost exclusive property of the very young, and the latter is used almost entirely to indicate the outfits worn when you go out into formal society.

Today nearly everybody wears as good clothes on week days as they do on Sundays. The change is particularly noticeable among women. Anything used to be good enough to wear around the house or at the office or in the store. But women don't stay at home so much, nor do they feel properly attired for the business world in the dress or suit that has become a little too shabby for Sunday.

All this, of course, demands more clothes. The stores have harkened to the increased demand. A trip through any of them will reveal a variety which was unknown in former days. To prove the point it is necessary only to inspect the current offerings in one line of women's apparel alone—fall and winter coats.

not see nor breathe for a minute. Then the flames seemed to die away and I looked at Binks. He was all right, too.

"We started to climb out, but the hot girders were crackling all around us and the flames were closing in on us again. We tried to climb through a hole in the wreckage, where we could see a little patch of night, but the flames drove us back. I thought it was all over then and said to Binks, 'Guess we'd better give up the ghost.' A few seconds later the fire had partially blown away and I again said to Binks, 'Let's have another go at it,' and then we both dove through the flames and came out rolling on the grass. We walked around the ship trying to see if we could pull out some of the others, but the heat drove us back.

"Go Slow!" Was Order.

"We had a little trouble at the start of the flight with the oil pressure, but got it fixed up," Bell continued. "We were traveling at cruising speed until just a minute before the crash. Then the ship shot to a terrible angle, and an order was phoned through to us to run slow. I thought I saw flames above just before we hit."

Binks is convinced the accident was due to flying low.

"We had very little altitude coming over the channel," he declared. "We could see the breakers plainly. The altometer was showing 1,000 feet, but it looked a lot less to me. The ship was going badly. She shot down once at 65 knots and leveled out, then headed down. I think the captain saw it coming, that's why he gave us slow speed signal. Ithink Squadron Leader Johnston and Flight Lieutenant Irwin were in the control car at the time of the crash. I am not sure but I was in the control car a short time before and they were both in there then."

Pilot Tells His Story.

H. J. Leech, engineering expert who is in the Beauvais hospital with slight burns on the face and body, escaped because of his tremendous strength.

He is a huge fellow with shoulders like an ox.

"I was piloting," he said. "It was midnight and all aboard, except twelve officers and the men on duty, were asleep. The wireless operator was sending out messages every ten minutes. The navigator was in his cabin behind me. Four men were making the rounds. We all had dined well and had a smoke.

"We ran into a bad storm over Crevecoeur, a little before Beauvais. Gusts of wind whipped the ship about and seemed to drive us down. The rain was terrifying. At 1:43 a. m. we communicated with Le Bourget for the last time. They gave our position as a mile and a quarter south of Beauvais.

Fight Wind and Rain.

"The wind and rain tore at the ship. It was then the disaster happened. We had already nose-dived twice, but I succeeded in getting the ship back. The third time we hit the earth violently. The explosion came almost instantly and the ship burst into flames. I don't know how I got out. I threw myself at a partition and forced a hole and found myself in the fields."

One of the most interesting accounts of the accident was given by S. Church, 25 year old rigger. He said he clearly heard something which sounded like a fractured girder before the crash, and the crackle of the girder was followed by an explosion on the forward part of the ship.

"I am not sure the explosion preceded the crash, but that is the way it seemed to me," he declared. "I think there were several explosions afterwards. I do not really remember. I was dazed, but do not think I was burned by the first explosion. I think I was burned when climbing out. Just before the crash I had gone forward to release some water from the ballast tanks. The ship was out of trim and I was ordered to lighten the ballast to right her. Then I first heard a tremendous crackling somewhere overhead. It sounded like one of the big steel girders had broken and the envelope was being ripped open. Then came deafening, blinding explosion, and I do not remember anything else."

Tried to Save Comrades.

Practically all the survivors had to be supplied with clothes, their own garments having been burned off while struggling to ge free from the wreckage of the dirigible. Even those, who were almost killed by the blast, insisted on staying by the ship and trying to save their comrades, and several suffered their main injuries while trying to help their comrades.

The three least badly injured, Bell, Binks and Leech, returned to the scene of the disaster at 6 o'clock to try and help identify the bodies and explain the accident.

Crowds of morbidly curious peasants and tourists picknicked this afternoon around the jumble of scrap iron which yesterday was the famous R-101, Great Britain's pride and the greatest airship in the world while gendarmes went grimly about the business of recovering the bodies of the victims.

Coffins Hastily Constructed.

By dark all but two bodies had been removed from the wreckage. As each body was brought out it was covered with a white cloth and laid in a hastily constructed coffin of white wood. During the early part of the day the bodies accumulated faster than coffins could be provided. They were laid in a neat row under a hedge waiting their turn. The three or four coffins were loaded into a rough two-wheeled cart drawn by a Norman plow horse and guided by a peasant through the soggy fields to the village of Allonne, a mile and a half away.

It was impossible to identify any of the bodies. They were lumps of blackened flesh with the heads and limbs burned to a cinder. Every one was found lying back with their arms thrust stiffly upward and the fists clenched tight in terrible agony.

There was not a single garment found intact on any body—just a few shreds of cloth. The only possible means of identification consisted of rings, knives, fountain pens, razors, and other similar objects. These articles were picked up from the charred debris in which each corpse was imbedded.

Soldier Takes Inventory.

While the bodies were placed in the coffins a young soldier in a horizon blue uniform handed the objects to a comrade, who placed them in an envelope inside the coffin, monotonously calling out the names of the articles, while an officer marked it down on a general inventory.

The R-101 lies about a half mile from the main highway between Pontoise and Beauvais, which is famous for its historic Gothic cathedral. This high wooded plateau is known as Bois de Feck, and drops off shortly down the valley of the Oise, where the town of Beauvais is located. The dirigible itself is in a little hollow with its nose buried in a hedge running across the slope of the hill.

The forest is only a few yards away, but the spot where the dirigible lies is a cleared field. It is a typical French countryside resembling the rolling plains of Picardy.

Soldiers Guard Ruins.

There is nothing left of the R-101 except the framework, not a scrap of cloth, not one gondola or cabin. The giant skeleton of the ship is spread out over several acres, and the maze of twisted girders is so intricate it is impossible to see through it. Until late in the day the girders were still red hot, and even at dusk the broken hardwood blades of the propellers were still smoldering.

Scattered through the ashes beneath the tangled thicket of steel is a miscellaneous collection of objects the workers have not bothered to pick up—navigating instruments, mechanical gadgets, typewriters, tooth brushes, shoes, and cameras.

Around the ship is a thin cordon of mounted gendarmes and soldiers in steel helmets. Clustered in a semicircle behind the gendarmes was the crowd of 5,000, which grew larger as the day advanced. Automobiles stopped their cars in the roads and brought their whole families down to spread lunch on the wet grass, while large delegations of peasants and townspeople carrying children came to look.

From accounts of farmers in the neighborhood the dirigible simply blundered into the hill in the darkness with fog and rain completely shutting off visibility. Several inhabitants of Beauvais heard the big ship coming near at 2 o'clock. It was flying low, fighting a strong head wind, and almost crashed into the cathedral, which is reputed to have the highest nave of any church in the world.

Blast Shakes Town.

Passing the town the dirigible suddenly seemed to lose altitude. "We watched her for five minutes," declared one observer, "when she suddenly swerved to the left and fell down like a stone, while I heard a terrific explosion which shook the windows of my house and the sky was illuminated by giant flames."

Fernand Radl, a farmer living about a mile from the scene of the accident, was among the first who arrived.

"I was awakened by a loud crash," said Radl, "followed by a whole series of terrific explosions—five, I think. Through the windows I could see the glare of flames spurting up. I rushed across the field. I could see a half dozen figures staggering around the burning dirigible. Several of them were naked, their clothing having been burned off. One made motions urging me to help try to extricate his comrades from the wreckage, but the flames were too hot."

Town Hall Is Morgue.

At Aleonne the one story town hall has been transformed into a morgue. The walls have been covered with clean white sheets and wooden frames have been set up on which the coffins are placed as soon as they are unloaded from the carts. Each coffin is then covered with a white sheet and a simple bouquet of poppies or other wild flowers is laid on top. These flowers are picked by the peasants.

About 3 o'clock this afternoon a delegation from the British air ministry, headed by Sir John Salmond, chief of staff, who flew over London, arrived, accompanied by Capt. Bone, British air attaché at Paris, and Laurent Eynac, French minister of air. Sir John stepped into the chapel for a minute and then left to fly back to London, leaving an order for Capt. Bone to try to identify the bodies of Lord Thomson and Sir W. Sefton Brancker.

"We have no idea yet what caused the disaster," Sir John said. "I do not know the funeral arrangements yet, but all the bodies will be brought back to England and given a separate burial when identified."

Seek Lord Thomson's Body.

After Sir John left, Capt. Bone returned to the town hall and ordered several coffins opened. Gendarmes unscrewed the lid of one and unwound the sheet, disclosing the seared body of a tall man with his legs drawn up in agony, and with a broken monocle still screwed in a ghastly eye of the charred face. There was no other mark of identification and Capt. Bone was unable to say whether it was Lord Thomson or not. Two other coffins were opened.

"That's enough," said Capt. Bone, turning away.

Up to a late hour today none of the bodies had been identified. The authorities still hope to identify Lord Thomson, Sir W. Sefton Brancker, and possibly Lieut. Col. V. C. Richmond, designer of the R-101.

Probe Opens Today.

Air ministry experts arrived late tonight and will commence their work tomorrow. It is also expected that funeral services will be held tomorrow at the village preparatory to the transportation of the bodies to England.

Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who is spending the week-end in the country only 10 miles from here, telephoned his condolences to British officials on the field and sent a representative to the scene of the wreck this morning.

Fifteen airplanes arrived in Beauvais tonight from London, carrying relatives of those who died in the catastrophe. Men, women, and children were among the passengers. In order to hasten their arrival, the French authorities did not ask for passports and police cars were put at their disposal to rush them to what remains of the R-101.

BRITAIN LISTS AIRSHIP VICTIMS

FRENCH AID QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—With flags at half mast on all public and government buildings, this city is in mourning following the terrific crash of the British giant airship.

As soon as he learned of the catastrophe the French minister of air, Laurent Eynac, and military authorities proceeded to Beauvais by airplane, while Prime Minister Andre Tardieu addressed to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald the official condolences of the French government.

Quai d'Orsay granted authorization to British military experts to proceed with investigations, together with French authorities, at the request of the British government.

Revives Airship Controversy.

The French papers tonight are running four columns of stories and issue an appeal for Franco-British friendship, expressing the deepest sympathy of the French nation, and stress the fact that sentiments of human solidarity ignore all frontiers.

The frightful catastrophe has caused consternation in government and diplomatic circles, and revives the controversies in French aviation circles about the superiority of airplanes and airships, which the French have completely abandoned since the dirigible Dixmude was lost in the Mediterranean in 1925.

HELIUM ONLY IS SAFE AS AIRSHIP GAS: DR. ECKENER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, Oct. 5.—The Graf Zeppelin landed here today from Ludwigshafen. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, expressed deep sorrow of the English airship disaster.

Lacking in details, he was unable to comment, but he pointed out that he had always emphasized that a regular trans-ocean airship service could only be safely carried out with airships filled with helium gas.

"There can be no doubt that the catastrophe would not have assumed such dimensions if helium gas had been used," he said.

BRITAIN MOURNS AERIAL PIONEERS LOST IN FRANCE

3 of Nation's Greatest Aviation Chiefs Dead.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—In the crash of the R-101, England lost in almost one minute her three most distinguished air pioneers, who were frequently referred to as "British aviation's general staff."

The three are Lord Thomson, minister of air; Air Vice Marshal Sir W. Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation, and Maj. G. H. Scott.

Lord Thomson retired from the army in 1919 as brigadier general after a brilliant career. He has twice held the office of air minister under the Labor government.

Surveyed Route to India.

Air Vice Marshal Sir W. Sefton Brancker perished at 53 years, exactly 19 years after he had made his first flight as a military observer in India. After the war he became associated with the firm, which in 1919 began the first regular London-Paris airplane service. In 1922 he was appointed director of civil aviation of the air ministry. In 1924 he flew to India, surveying a projected airship route. He returned in March, 1925, after traveling 17,000 miles by air.

Maj. G. H. Scott, assistant director of airship development of the air ministry, was recognized as one of the world's greatest airship experts. He served in the royal naval service during the war. He was appointed captain of England's first rigid dirigible in 1917 and in the following year was placed in command of the historic R-34. Maj. Scott was in command when the R-34 flew from Scotland to America and return. He participated in the R-100's trans-Atlantic flight to Canada.

Another air leader lost was Lieut. Col. V. C. Richmond, the R-101's designer and England's closest approach to Count Zeppelin.

Fire or Broken Back?

The following communique on the airship was issued by the air ministry last night:

"There is no evidence to show whether the ship caught fire or broke her back while in midair.

"Sir John Salmond returned from Beauvais but feels that in view of the fact that all circumstances of the accident must be closely inquired into it would be inadvisable to give his personal impressions as to what happened at the present stage."

The revelation that the R-101 almost ended its career on the day of its public appearance at the royal air force pageant in July is to be made in tomorrow morning's Daily Express, which will say the authorities have taken elaborate precautions to keep the fact secret.

The vessel had been cruising in the air for more than four hours, the article will read, when on leaving Henlow the officers in control discovered that it continued to lose height.

Members of the crew on examining the gas bags found that the small balloons were chafing against the metal framework. A report was immediately made to the senior officers, who set a course for Cardington at full speed. The airship was saved solely by the swift action of Flight Lieutenant Irwin, the captain, who dumped the entire water ballast and two tons of heavy fuel oil to lighten the ship.

MacDonald Rushes to London.

Prime Minister MacDonald was among the first to call at the air ministry this morning. He rushed from Chequers by auto, where he was entertaining delegates to the imperial conference. He arrived at the air ministry at 8 o'clock, where he remained for almost an hour.

As soon as the news of the disaster reached London the flags on all the public buildings were lowered to half staff. The news of the tragedy was conveyed to the public by special editions of newspapers, the news arriving too late to catch the ordinary Sunday editions.

The tragedy cast gloom over the Croydon airport, where pilots and officials gathered in batches discussing the disaster in hushed tones.

Shoals of messages and telegrams of sympathy and condolence were received by the British government and the air ministry throughout the day. One of the earliest was that of King George's to Prime Minister MacDonald which read:

"I am horrified to hear of the national disaster which has befallen the airship R-101 and the consequent serious loss of life, including that of Lord Thomson, my air minister. The queen and I sympathize deeply with the relatives and the friends of those who have perished in the service of their country and also with the injured survivors. [Signed]

"GEORGE V."

The king and queen joined in offering special prayers for those bereaved by the disaster at the Sandringham parish church this morning. Queen Maude of Norway and Princess Victoria were in the congregation.

Bedford Is Hard Hit.

The town of Bedford and its little suburb of Shortstown, where most of the crew of the R-101 resided, are plunged in grief and consternation by the disaster. Bedford, which is close to Cardington, had taken great pride in the airship and only recently presented the Cardington officers' mess with a gold plate.

Forty families in the Bedford district will loose their breadwinners. All of the officers were well known in the town and were popular. Sir W. Sefton Brancker, director of civil aviation, who lost his life, was an old boy of Bedford school and his son is there now.

FLYING ACROSS CONTINENT

LAURA INGALLS.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The R-101 was aptly named the "Titanic of the air." She was the largest airship ever built and on her maiden voyage to India. Her oil burning engines—the first ever to be installed on an airship—gave a false sense of security which made today's horror all the more greater.

Her vast bulk was 5,500,000 cubic feet capacity, as compared to 5,000,000 of the R-100 and 3,708,000 of the Graf Zeppelin. Her length was 777 feet, only slightly less than that of the ill fated Titanic which sank in the sea's greatest disaster 18 years ago, and her diameter of 131 feet was more than enough for the Titanic's hull to have fitted inside her.

No airship had been built for greater luxury or with greater assurance of safety. Her passenger accommodations were made to resemble those of an ocean liner with two decks containing lounge and dining rooms for 50 persons. She was believed to be noninflammable and that for the first time on any airship smoking was permitted for passengers. The R-101 was one of two gigantic airships begun in 1924 as part of the government's program of airship development.

The R-101's main girders were of stainless steel with duralumin gross tubes. She carried three power cars, each with one engine, and was equipped with five 585 horsepower compression ignition engines.

The upper deck was roomy with an area of 5,500 square feet, while on either side was a promenade with railings like those of a ship. The chief difference was that instead of being in the open air, the R-101's passengers were inside the envelope and could view the panorama below them through windows in the outer cover.

Since the R-101 was launched, however, structural alterations were made. The great envelope was sliced in two and a new section was added, increasing the length by 45 feet and the gas bag capacity by 500,000 cubic tons, and adding sixteen tons to her gross lift of 149 tons.

At St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Laura Ingalls, attempting to set a new women's record for a flight from Roosevelt field, N. Y., to Los Angeles, landed at Lambert-St. Louis field at 5:25 p. m. [central standard time] today. Miss Ingalls estimated her flying time from New York to St. Louis "at something like 9 hours and 40 minutes." En route she made three stops, at Martinsburg, W. Va., Columbus, O., and Indianapolis, Ind. She will spend the night here. If weather is favorable, she said, she would resume her trip tomorrow.

Gangster Bullets Kill Man in Philadelphia Cafe

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—More than a dozen bullets from the automatic pistols of three gangsters sent Harry Rovell, 26, of Pomona, N. J., reeling to his death in a downtown café early today. The slayers escaped.

HAIL DECREASE IN BOMBINGS AS VICTORY OF LAW

Outrages in Big Decline During Year.

Officials of the Employers association found encouragement yesterday in the fact that bombings so far this year number but 54 as compared with 98 on this date last year and a total of 115 in 1929. State's Attorney Swanson also announced himself as well pleased in the reduction which reflects the success of the drive made against this form of terrorism.

There hasn't been a bombing in Chicago since Sept. 12, the association reported and the total for the year is expected to show a marked improvement of conditions. In sketching reasons for the progress made in fighting bombers, the following were cited:

Investigators wormed their way into the confidence of bombing rings, "boring from within" and caused perpetual distrust among members of bombing rings.

Information obtained "from within" enabled the prevention of one bombing and the capture of a bomber.

Losses This Year Higher.

One feature of the report up to date is the fact that the losses this year are considerably higher than in previous years and this was ascribed to the fact that in three cases the damaged reported was $100,000 for each explosion and another with damage of $75,000.

State's Attorney Swanson was inclined to the belief that this destruction of buildings was not due to bombs, he said, but possibly to gas explosions or other accidental causes.

The big point, as the Employers association and Mr. Swanson expressed it, is the fact that racketeers have been checked in their onslaught against legitimate business enterprises. Of the 54 bombings of 1930 only 20 were classified as "business" bombs whereas a year ago today they numbered 45.

The 54 bombs listed were subdivided as follows:

Business	20	Revenge	1
Booze	20	Undetermined	5
Political	8

The total damage for the year this far is $433,850, compared with $197,109 for 1929 and $141,360 for 1928. The larger losses were in the destruction of the wholesale grocery store of John J. Cullotta & Co., on Jan. 29 where the figured was fixed at $100,000; the same amount in the demolition of three stores at Kildare avenue and Harrison street on Feb. 3; the wrecking of a garage at 1947 Evergreen avenue on April 7 where the damage was estimated at $100,000; and the explosion at the Northwestern Laundry, 2749 Lincoln street on Feb. 11 where the estimate was $75,000.

Many "Calling Card" Bombs.

Many of the bombs were described as being of the "calling card variety" where the damage done was but a few hundred dollars. These were racket bombs, officials of the association said, intended to force store owners to join a racketeering organization—or at least pay tribute to it. Several of the more recent bombs of this kind were exploded in beauty parlors.

Since October, 1927, the association reports, it has observed 174 different rackets in various stages of development and operation. A statistical summary was given, as follows:

Units in which violence occured..81
Instances of violence.....459

Types of violence recorded: Window smashing, acid spraying, bombing, stink bombing, equipment destruction, material destruction, kidnaping, arson, shooting, slugging, murder.

SHOOTINGS—
Of business men	3
Of union men	4
KILLINGS—
Of business men	3
Of union men	11
BOMBINGS [including 116 in 1928 and the first 51 in 1930]—
Total damage	$770,319
Damage done by business bombs	$245,092
COURT ACTIVITIES—
Persons arrested	219
Persons found guilty and sentenced	60
Per cent of convictions	27.5

Credit was given by the association to Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks who prosecuted in all the bombing cases in the Criminal court. The conviction of Irving Sandler, head of a gang that made a business of bombing for hire, was most important in causing the cessation of bombing outrages, association officials declared.

BARKER, 'PUBLIC ENEMY,' SEIZED AGAIN; IS FREED

14 Others Are Unscathed After 6 Months.

Untouched by the campaign of police and other agencies to drive them from the city or put them behind bars, fourteen gangsters, including Al Capone, listed among the twenty-eight public enemies compiled by the Chicago crime commission last April, are still at large at the end of the six months' campaign against them, according to a survey of official records.

Of the remaining fourteen, one, Jack Zuta, has been slain and the others arrested by authorities or driven from town.

Barker Arrested Again.

Of this second group, George [Red] Barker, gunman and slugger, at liberty on a $10,000 bond on a vagrancy warrant, was arrested again yesterday as he left a meeting of the Teamsters' union, in which he is a power. He was booked for disorderly conduct and released on a $400 cash bond to appear in the Des Plaines police court this morning. The bond was furnished by John Sheridan, said to be an official of the union.

The crime commission's list of public enemies brought a prompt announcement from police that all named in the list would be arrested on sight. The records show that only four of those named have been arrested by police in the six months since the list was published.

Of the fourteen who have felt the pressure of the campaign, eight await trial as vagrants, one is serving a term in a Maryland prison; another is awaiting an appeal from a federal sentence of three years for income tax evasion; another, Zuta, as previously mentioned, is dead, and three others have fled the city.

Following is a list of those who have felt the law's hand or left the city:

GEORGE [RED] BARKER. Surrendered in court, accepted service of a vagrancy warrant, posted a $10,000 bond, and was on his way, after being in technical custody only two minutes. He awaits trial next week before Judge Edgar A. Jonas on the vagrancy charge.

RALPH CAPONE, brother of Al Capone. Sentenced to three years in a federal prison for defrauding the government of income taxes. At liberty on $35,000 bond pending appeal.

TERRY DRUGGAN. Under guard at the University hospital, where he is ill, according to his physician. Awaits trial in federal court for evading income taxes and in local courts as a vagrant.

JAMES [FUR] SAMMONS. Convicted robber and murderer, arrested as he was leaving a courtroom where he appeared to answer charges of carrying concealed weapons. Will be tried on this charge today in Judge Philip Finnegan's court. Held in prison on $50,000 bond set by Judge John H. Lyle on vagrancy charge.

LAWRENCE [DAGO] MANGANO. Arrested in his home by police. Awaits trial as vagrant and released on $10,000 bond.

WILLIAM [WILLIE] NIEMOTH. Arrested by police and extradited to Baltimore, where he was found guilty of a bank robbery and sentenced to prison.

EDWARD [SPIKE] O'DONNELL. Surrendered in court, served with vagrancy warrant, and released on $10,000 bond pending trial.

JACK GUSICK, Capone representative. Arrested by Federal Agent C. L. Converse for evasion of income taxes. At liberty on $50,000 cash bond in federal court and $10,000 bond on vagrancy charge.

DANNY STANTON, Capone lieutenant. Arrested by police and found carrying concealed weapons. Served in cell with vagrancy warrant. Charged with murder of Jack Zuta, and an effort will be made to extradite him to Wisconsin for trial. Extradition proceedings before Gov. Emmerson at Springfield next Friday.

LEO MONGOVEN, bodyguard of Burs Moran. Missing for many months.

FRANK LAKE, Terry Druggan's partner. Will be tried for income tax evasion after Druggan. Is now in Detroit with his brother in the ice business.

WILLIAM [THREE FINGER JACK] WHITE. Labor racketeer. Surrendered with Barker, posted $10,000 bond on vagrancy charge, and was released. Awaits trial before Judge Jonas next week.

JOE SALTIS, south side beer peddler, who has been reported out of the city for months. Frequently reported in Wisconsin.

The fourteen enemies who seem to bear a charmed life include the following:

ALPHONSE CAPONE, notorious organizer of liquor, vice, and gambling. Was reported by a crime commission investigator to have attended a high school football game in Cicero a week ago.

JOE AIELLO, suspected of a number of murders.

JAMES BELCASTRO, called the "king of bombers."

FRANK DIAMOND, west side Capone lieutenant.

ROCCO FANNELLI, west side gunman for Capone.

JOSEPH GENARO, south side alcohol dealer and gunman.

VINCENT M'ERLANE, brother of Frank.

JACK M'GURN, known as Machine Gun Jack.

FRANK RIO, gunman for Capone, who served a year with his chief in Philadelphia penitentiary for gun toting.

GEORGE [BUGS] MORAN, north side gang leader now affiliated with Capone.

WILLIAM [KLONDIKE] O'DONNELL, brother of Myles.

TONY [MOPS] VOLPE, convict and ally of Capone.

Most of those named in the second list are reported to be in Chicago and vicinity.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK STARTS; PLAN EDUCATION CAMPAIGN

National Fire Prevention week opens today with safety groups here and all over the country beginning a campaign of education which it is hoped will reduce the enormous toll of life and property taken annually by fire.

According to Charles L. Rice, vice president of the Western Electric company and president of the safety council, four out of every five fires are preventable. Each year, he pointed out, 10,000 men, women and children lose their lives in fires in the United States. Property damage, he added, amounts to $500,000,000. Carelessness, Mr. Rice said, was probably the largest single factor in fires.

Fireman Hurt, 7 Families Routed by Flat Blaze

Fireman Philip Kelly was injured by falling glass and seven families were routed by smoke from a fire in the basement of a four story apartment building at 810 Cass street yesterday. Kelly was taken to Henrotin hospital. The blaze, which is believed to have started from an overheated furnace, caused about $1,000 damage.

Seek to Identify Woman Struck by Street Car

Police last night tried to identify a woman, between 60 and 65 years old, who was struck by a Montrose avenue car at Rockwell street. She was taken unconscious to the Welles Park hospital. The only clew to identification was a wrist watch bearing the initials "J. H. N."

WOMAN STEPS INTO PATH OF AUTO, IS KILLED

An unidentified woman about 65 years old was killed yesterday as she stepped into the path of the automobile of Robert Rees, 1812 Hood avenue, an inspector for the Chicago Title and Trust company, at Ashland and Edgewater avenues. Rees was not held. Her death and one other increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 784.

Adiek Halber, 5 years old, 5246 South Laflin street, was fatally injured when he was hit by the machine of Cleveland Reeder, 1810 West 21st place, at Garfield boulevard and Loomis street. The boy was playing with two chums at the time.

Crossing Wentworth avenue at 47th street, Gilbert Basqued, 40 years old, 1073 Vernon Park place, was struck by the car of a hit and run driver. He was taken to the county hospital where it was said his condition was critical.

William J. Engle, 30 years old, 7807 Evans avenue, a bank clerk, was injured fatally when struck by an automobile as he was crossing 79th street at Ashland avenue. He died while being taken to Auburn Park hospital by a passing motorist. Thomas J. Durkin, a salesman, 8353 South Paulina street, driver of the car, was held by the police.

Henry Rehr, 54 years old, a farmer, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by Frank Felt, a contractor, 1570 Minor street, Des Plaines, while walking on state highway No. 58, a mile west of Arlington Heights. Felt resides on the highway near the scene of the accident. He was held by the Morton Grove police pending an inquest today.

ROB FILLING STATION ATTENDANT.

Charles Mannila, 3237 Maypole avenue, attendant at a filling station at Central Park avenue and Franklin boulevard, was kidnaped and robbed of $20 last night by two bandits who threw him out of their car at Ohio street and St. Louis avenue.

ELECTRIFY, ONCE HIS CRY, BUT NOT AS RAIL OFFICIAL

His Arguments, However, Still Survive.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Article No. 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The principal transportation reform needed in Chicago is not the electrification of the passenger terminals of steam railroads but a more expeditious interchange of freight among the roads, in the opinion of P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central.

I had a talk with Mr. Crowley in the course of my study of the electrification of the New York Central's passenger terminal in New York city completed eighteen years ago and of its freight line on the west side of Manhattan, which is now in progress. He was unwilling to discuss the Chicago situation for publication. All he would say on that score was that his views now are precisely the views he expressed at the dinner of the electric association in Chicago on Nov. 15, 1918.

Problems Vary with Cities.

On that occasion Mr. Crowley said that the New York Central was electrifying its terminal at Cleveland because the new passenger station there involves underground operation. There would be no electrification, however, in connection with the new stations at Buffalo and at Cincinnati because underground operation was not involved.

"In other words," he continued in that speech, "Cincinnati presents one problem, New York another, and Chicago still another. Each differs from the others, as may be said of almost every city on our system. Each has problems of its own, and the local situation must be studied most carefully to develop the lines along which we should move to best serve each particular community, and not with the thought that what has been done in New York or anywhere else is the right thing to do at any other place.

"Take this great city of Chicago, where we are meeting this evening; a prime essential of the operating problem of the many railroads that enter here is the expedited interchange of freight between them. At no other point in the world is there interchange quite comparable to this. It is a problem unique in itself. The Chicago situation must be settled and we are now engaged in studying it; and it will be solved if the railroads and the various local public bodies coöperate with the thought of arriving at a conclusion that will best serve the interests of the city and its railroads."

Electrification Booster's Views.

There is one of the vice presidents of the New York Central, however, who is an enthusiast on the subject of electrification of steam railroads—at least, he was before he became associated with the New York Central. He is Edward Hungerford, the noted authority on railroads and the operations.

Mr. Hungerford published in 1922 a book entitled "The Railroads Tomorrow," in which he stated the case for electrification in the strongest terms. That was before he became vice president of the New York Central or, as he puts it, before he acquired a knowledge of practical railroading. Now he has modified his views as a result of being impressed with the great cost of electrification.

"Conditions have changed much since 1922," said Mr. Hungerford, who will sever his connection with the New York Central Jan. 1 next to become director of the railroads exhibits at the Chicago exposition of 1933.

Before joining the New York Central Mr. Hungerford dwelt on the backwardness of electrification of steam railroads in this country.

Calls Railroaders Conservative.

"Your typical railroader is particularly averse to novelties," he said in his book. After citing various examples of the modernization of passenger carrying facilities he exclaimed: "Electrification! Intensive operation! We have not as yet even scratched the surface of their possibilities. All the way across the country lie development opportunities such as these."

Mr. Hungerford calculated the comparative cost of moving freight by steam and by electric power. He showed that 290 tons of coal were required to move 1,000 tons of freight one mile by steam, whereas 100 tons of coal converted into electric motive power would move 1,600 tons of freight one mile. Speaking of a year in which the railroads used 176 million tons of coal, Mr. Hungerford said that "the same freight traffic moved by electricity through steam power houses would have required but a little over 50,000,000 tons of coal. From 120,000,000 to 13,000,000 tons of coal would have been saved — a saving roughly estimated in money at between three-quarters of a billion and a billion dollars, which of itself would be a four or five per cent dividend upon the total capitalization of our American railroads."

Calls Steam an Obstruction.

Mr. Hungerford dubbed the steam locomotive "not merely a laggard but an actual obstructionist" of the movement of traffic through railroad yards.

"On the other hand, take the electric locomotive," Mr. Hungerford continued. "Not only does he save weight by carrying no coal or water and so put that weight into motive machinery—his strength today is 7,000 horse power as against but about 3,000 of our largest steam locomotives—but he actually goes 5,000 miles without having to receive the inspection attention that his old-fashioned steam brother apparently has to have at the end of 150. Which means that for days at a time—and even a week, or a fortnight, if the necessity arises—he can remain in steady service, going from one train to another, and only changing crews. The locomotive is always ready."

High Overhaul Costs.

The steam locomotive, Mr. Hungerford went on to say, "must go to the 'back shop' at the end of every 75,000 miles" for thorough overhauling, while, "barring accidents, the electric locomotive need never go there. . . . The elaborate plants or roundhouses, coal and water stations, turn tables, cinder pits and sizable shops requires every hundred or 150 miles along the lines of steam railroad disappears, while with the facility of the electric locomotive for long continued running the division points themselves may well disappear." The elimination of engine changes at division points, Mr. Hungerford said, would result in "a vast saving of time, trouble and money."

Mr. Hungerford said that the work formerly done by 120 steam locomotives on the electrified portion of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway between Harlowton, Mont., and Avery, Idaho, was being done by 45 electric locomotives. On that 650 mile stretch of road the saving effected by the substitution of electric for steam motive power was estimated at 259,000 tons of coal and 31,700,000 tons of fuel oil.

Compares Repair Costs.

Comparing costs on the Missoula division of this electrified part of the line with a neighboring steam division, Mr. Hungerford found that the cost of locomotive repairs on the latter was 2½ times the cost on the electric division, "owing in no small degree to the fact that the electric locomotive handles heavier trains and at higher speed than the steam, yet, not withstanding this increased capacity, has a much lower maintenance cost per mile run."

Also the cost of train crews "was nearly 1½ times greater on the steam division than upon the electric—this also because of the greater train tonnage and speed under electric operation. The expense for enginemen for similar reasons was 55 to 60 per cent greater on the steam operations."

Electrification of terminals such as those in Chicago offers a means, in the opinion of Vice President Hungerford, of expanding terminal facilities without actual physical extensions of tracks and yards.

Can Save in Terminal Facilities.

"If our railroads," he said in his book, "can save three-quarters of a billion dollars a year by burning their coal and oil in central power stations instead of in locomotive fireboxes, it may be fair to say that the terminal economies that might be effected by increasing the existing facilities 40 to 50 per cent without physical enlargement would equal the first saving. When the shoe begins to pinch there is many and many a way of relieving the foot."

Mr. Hungerford conceded that his calculation of saving represented by the substitution of electric for steam motive power would be diminished by the increase in the cost of electric equipment and in the interest on the money to buy it, yet "the margin upon the electrification side of the argument," he said, "is growing wider day by day, while as we go east and the congestion problem upon our railroads increases the margin in favor of electrical operation also increases. Granted that the costs of electrification are indeed vast, with dynamo units running all the way from one million to five million dollars, with locomotives at $175,000 and upward apiece, all the other accessories in proportion, the game is indeed worth the candle."

The realization of the superpower project envisaged by President Hoover would make possible, Mr. Hungerford pointed out, the electrification of the railroads of eastern New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, southern New England, and northern New Jersey.

"The only important road in its territory that is omitted from the electric program," said Mr. Hungerford, "is the New York Central, which has such low grades and hence such economical use of power that the economy of electricity is least necessary to it. If ever it should desire to coöperate in the plan, it probably can gain the power for its main line—west of Albany, at least—from Niagara Falls, and for its network of busy lines in northern New York from the abundant water powers of the Adirondack preserve or the huge St. Lawrence river international power project."

In northeastern United States the steam locomotive, Mr. Hungerford prophesied, "is nearly doomed. I think that eventually it will be doomed everywhere within the United States [our disappearing coal supply will be the chief factor in this], but first and foremost of all in the great congested areas, which having no coal of their own, live in constant and deadly fear that an overworked and overgrown railroad structure may yet fail to bring to them all that they need for their imminent necessities."

LEGIONNAIRES GO TO CHURCH, MARCH, HAVE MEMORIAL SERVICE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The big parade halted tonight and 50,000 American legionnaires unlimbered for action at the official opening of their national convention here tomorrow.

Church services, teas and dinners, a memorial service and an historic pageant made up the program of the day while national executives prepared for the reception to President Hoover, who will speak tomorrow at the convention in Faneuil hall. Tonight there was a memorial service to comrades left sleeping across the Atlantic. O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, made the address.

Most of the churches held special services today at which the veterans were welcomed and prayers said for those who died in France. Cardinal O'Connell at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross told the Legionnaires their highest patriotic duty was "to guard and strengthen the religious spirit."

might seriously hamper the Lingle inquiry although they say they have not made up their minds that his story is true. Bell's action of Saturday in giving information against Lenhardt, who was in the same cell block with him, tended to strengthen the belief his Lingle story was true, in the opinion of the authorities.

Mrs. Julia Glovka, mother of Lenhardt, was taken into custody at her home in Cleveland yesterday morning because of her alleged part in the intended jail break. The Cleveland police rectified the Chicago detective bureau that Mrs. Glovka denied sending to her son the pistol that was found in his cell.

Her statement contradicted that of Howard Soske, who was seized while sitting in a taxicab outside the jail waiting for Lenhardt to emerge. Soske said Lenhardt's mother gave him the gun to take to her son.

Mother to Fight Extradition.

Mrs. Glovka announced she would fight extradition to Chicago and the authorities began legal preparations to bring her here, if possible, for trial. Her claim that she committed no crime in Chicago and therefore cannot be considered a fugitive from Chicago may give the prosecutors some difficulty, it was said.

Soske, a former inmate of the Bridewell, where he first met Lenhardt, was being questioned again last night by detectives who wanted amplification of his story of the attempted jail break, and also sought to discover what knowledge he has of other crimes in this city. He stood by his story that he went to Cleveland and met Mrs. Glovka, who, he said, gave him the revolver to give to her son in the jail.

Soske took the gun, which was in a package, to the home of a jail guard, Joseph Connior, 2240 Canton street, he said. Connior's name, he said, had been given to him by Lenhardt as one who would take anything into the jail for money.

Connior, who for $19 smuggled the gun, 15 cartridges, steel saws, and a coil of rope into Lenhardt's cell, was being held in a police station. The authorities said they were questioning him about other possible offenses since he had been appointed a guard at the jail. Connior is 42 years old and the father of seven children.

Stanton to Fight Extradition.

At the state's attorney's office it was said word had been received that attorneys for Danny Stanton, Capone gangster, were ready to fight his extradition to Wisconsin to stand trial for the slaying of Jack Zuta, the "public enemy" who was slain near Delafield, Wis., shortly after the murder of Lingle and possibly because of that murder. Stanton and his chauffeur, Edgar Smith, are in the county jail awaiting a hearing on Friday by Gov. Emmerson of the application of Wisconsin for their custody.

They were implicated in the Zuta murder through a revolver found near Stanton's right hand in an automobile two weeks ago. This gun, according to Lieut. Col. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistics expert, fired some of the bullets that were found in Zuta's body.

Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court was considering a charge to the October grand jury, which will be impaneled today. The chief justice has indicated that he will direct the jurors to continue the racketeering inquiry begun by the September grand jury. It is expected that he will also direct the jury to investigate the disappearance of a secret police list of gangsters scheduled for arrest, which vanished from the detective bureau and was found in possession of a Capone bondsman. Police officials have not yet solved this mystery.

Also the grand jury will hear evidence concerning the attempted jail break of Saturday, it was said.

Body Found in Canal.

The discovery of the body of an unidentified man about 40 years old in the drainage canal yesterday added to the work of the authorities who are waging a campaign against all gangsters. The body was taken from the canal near Summit and later was taken to the county morgue where squads of detectives made efforts to identify it.

A brother of Harold Conliff, who was reported missing last week, was taken to the morgue. He said the body was not that of his brother whom the police suspected of being an Aiello gangster.

$5,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

8 Passengers Injured When Bus Hits Hydrant

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—A bus of the Greyhound lines, speeding through this city early this morning with 19 dozing passengers bound for New York from various points in Pennsylvania, crashed into a fire hydrant and careened against a large tree, wrecking the engine, injuring all the occupants, eight of them seriously. The police charged that the driver fell asleep at the wheel.

John Lazare and John Marlowe, both 18 years old, are being held by police on suspicion that they are the "laughing" bandits who shot to death Mrs. Erma Krasnansky, 22 year old bride, in a tea store at 5300 West Division street on Sept. 8. They also are said to answer the description of the pair who killed William Fiddelke in his drug store at 6560 South Western avenue because he had only $40.

The youths were arrested yesterday in a car stolen last August from Capt. H. M. Elmendorf of the U. S. Army aviation corps. A pistol and saber which Elmendorf had left in the car were found with five other guns in the youths' room at 3814 West Washington boulevard.

Michael J. Woods, 25 years old, 3831 West Polk street, the second of the two bandits who battled two policemen following an attempted filling station robbery at Racine avenue and Washington boulevard last Wednesday, was captured yesterday when he sought medical attention for a bullet wound in his arm. Woods is also held as a Fiddelke murder suspect.

Police Wound and Capture Paroled Convict in Chase

Police sergeants John Mackey and John Cullopy of the Marquette station shot and captured Joseph Gencek, paroled convict and robbery suspect, yesterday after a three mile chase through west side streets. The policemen sighted Gencek in an automobile at 22d place and Marshall boulevard.

Nothing else will do. Suede must predominate. Alligator must be the trim. And just the right brown must be chosen.

We were fortunate in having the right combination—in large variety—correct even to the Alligator heels. And the heels are the right heights, and of the correct form.

Then the values—$16.50—at least two dollars less than such quality would have cost last season.

No wonder they're saying all over town—"For fashion and value I. Miller is certainly doing wonderful things these days."

The Empire Builder, crack Great Northern train from the Pacific northwest, ploughed into the rear end of a Burlington stock train in the west outskirts of Aurora yesterday, injuring two men and telescoping the caboose and a day coach on the freight. None of the cattle cars was wrecked and the cattle was drawn to safety as the wreckage burst into flames. Two hours were required to clear away the debris.

Two Cattlemen Injured.

Pearl Alford of Hill, Mont., and Peter Bargvras of Wolf Creek, Mont., the only cattlemen in the day coach at the time of the crash, were treated for cuts and bruises at the Aurora hospital. Engineer J. J. Simmons of Aurora and Fireman J. C. Obersch-lag, also of Aurora, leaped from the oncoming passenger train after setting the brakes when they saw that a crash was unavoidable.

Simmons said he had been making about 50 miles an hour over a slow curve and did not see the other train, which had stopped just beyond a block signal, until it was too late. The fireman, he intimated, lay with the flagman of the freight train.

Second Mishap for Stockmen.

The accident was the second mishap to the stockmen on their trip to Chicago. Friday night while stopped on a siding near Atwater, Minn., three masked men boarded the train and robbed them of $300. One cowboy, who was reported to have evaded the robbers by having his money in a suitcase, saw it go up in smoke at the crash. Among the passengers on the Empire Builder were the Vanderbilt university football players, returning from their game with Minnesota Saturday.

Danville Man Shot to Death Near Home of a Neighbor

Danville, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—C. F. Ingram, 35, owner of a trucking company here, was shot to death near a neighbor's home last night. Neither Ingram's family nor his friends were able to suggest a motive. Ingram had driven to the home of Jesse Boomer, a employé, where Mrs. Ingram had spent the evening. Shortly after he had entered the driveway shots were heard. Ingram was found dead in a nearby yard. He had two bullet wounds and a scalp cut apparently inflicted with the butt of a pistol.

NEGRO ACTOR SHOT IN ERROR IN CHASE AFTER PURSE THIEF

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Bill Robinson, 54 year old Negro theatrical star, was shot and wounded today by a policeman who mistook him for the purse snatcher whom Robinson was pursuing.

Robinson was shot in the left arm. Hospital physicians described the wound as minor and permitted him to leave for New York later in the day.

Robinson had been starring in an all-Negro show here last week. He was leaving his hotel today to drive to the railroad station when Mrs. Annie Bies, white, screamed and pointed after a Negro youth fleeing with her purse. Robinson dropped his bags and gave chase.

During the chase, Robinson drew a revolver and fired into the air. The shots attracted the attention of Patrolman Michael Horan who, learning of the robbery, assumed Robinson was the man wanted. He shouted and fired in the air, but Robinson kept on.

Finally the policeman fired directly at the man before him, and Robinson dropped. The purse snatcher escaped.

Instead of blaming the policeman Robinson complimented him for his alertness in taking up the chase when the patrolman and his superior officers visited the actor at a hospital to express their regrets.

LOTTIE O'NEILL TO START STATE TOUR THIS WEEK

Joins Two Opponents in Country Campaign.

The Illinois senatorial race will enter its most active stage of downstate campaigning this week when Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent, inaugurates her speaking tour as a candidate against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican nominee, and James Hamilton Lewis, the Democrat.

This will be the only week in which all of the leading candidates are in the downstate field at the same time. Mrs. McCormick will conclude her tour next Friday and will return to Chicago to devote the final three weeks of the campaign to her cause in Cook county and Chicago. Mr. Lewis intends to remain downstate for another week before returning to Chicago.

Both Mr. Lewis and Mrs. McCormick have completed two weeks of downstate campaigning, directed principally at each other. The entrance of Mrs. O'Neill into the downstate territory is expected to inject new life into the already lively campaign.

Mrs. O'Neill's Itinerary.

Mrs. O'Neill will begin her tour at Bloomington on Wednesday night as the chief speaker at a political mass-meeting. On Thursday she will speak in the afternoon at Champaign and in the evening at Mattoon. The next day an afternoon meeting has been planned at Paris and a meeting at Marshall at night. Mrs. O'Neill will conclude her first week at Effingham on Saturday afternoon.

She said she intended to confine her speeches to the "issues pertinent to the campaign" and to emphasize her position as the "real Republican candidate who supports the Hoover administration and the principles of the national Republican party."

Mrs. O'Neill said she would stress the "alliances which exist that make an independent candidacy necessary." She mentioned prohibition and the coming referendum as the chief issue, and added that she would express her support of the amendment to the revenue article of the state constitution.

Plans of Mrs. McCormick.

The final week of Mrs. McCormick's downstate tour will start today at Sullivan, where she will address a morning meeting at 10:30. She will speak in Taylorville at 2:30 and at Decatur tonight. Tomorrow Mrs. McCormick plans to spend touring McLean county. She will make only one speech, at Danville, at 7:30 p. m. On Wednesday she will speak at Pontiac in the afternoon and at Kankakee at night. Thursday will be devoted to a tour of Du Page county with a speech at Joliet at night.

The tour will end on Friday with a speech at Elgin at night after an all day motor trip through Kane county.

Mr. Lewis will begin his week's schedule at Metropolis at noon today, followed by another speech at Fairfield tonight. Tomorrow he will talk at Lawrenceville at noon and at Centralia in the evening. Okawville and East St. Louis are the speaking stops on Wednesday, and on Thursday the Democratic nominee will attend rallies at Carrollton and Springfield. Mr. Lewis will complete his week's work on Friday with speeches at Beardstown in the afternoon and at Quincy in the evening.

NEGRO SHOOTS 3; MARION, FEARING MOB, HIDES HIM

Take No Chances on Another Lynching.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Two policemen and a negress were shot here today and their assailant, Ezekiah Burten, Negro, was also wounded in a series of gun fights which for a while caused threat of a lynching similar to the one in August in which two Negroes were hanged by a mob for killing a white youth and raping his sweetheart.

Considerable talk of mob violence reached police and impelled them to rush Burten from the Marion jail to the Pendleton reformatory, 40 miles away, where he was lodged with his stepson, Robert Cameron, who narrowly escaped death at the hands of the lynchers in August. Cameron was taken secretly to the reformatory after the lynching victims, Thomas Shipp and Abe Smith, were killed.

The trouble today started when Burten shot his stepdaughter, Mrs. Marie Carter, in the left arm. Lieut. Don Eberhart, Sergt. Tony Hanegin and Policeman Ted Marley went to the scene.

As they approached the house, Burten barricaded himself and opened fire, wounding Lieut. Eberhardt in the right hand. Marley was wounded by a charge of buckshot in the back of the head. By this time Chief Louis Lindenmuth and Assistant Chief Roy Collins arrived and Burten fled.

He was cornered half a mile away and shot in the right leg. Police took him to the Marion hospital, but removed him in an ambulance when "the talk of lynching" started circulating.

The lynching here in August was accomplished by a crowd of 75 armed men and was seen by 5,000 persons. Shipp and Smith were taken from the jail, shot and hanged. Cameron was also taken from his cell, but convinced the mob he had no hand in the crime of which Shipp and Smith were accused. He was beaten. Shipp and Smith were charged with murdering Claude Deeter of Fairmont.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 5.—The first newspaper in the English language appeared in Moscow today. It is called the Moscow News and is an eight page periodical which will appear every five days. It is edited by the American writer and lecturer, Anna Louise Strong, and primarily is intended for the American specialists and their families in Russia, who now number upward of 2,000, many scattered in outlying points.

Among the staff is young Jack Chen, son of the former Chinese foreign minister, Eugene Chen, who is studying newspaper illustration at the Moscow art school and contributes a vigorous, futuristic cartoon illustrating Lenin's phrase, "Soviet power, plus American technique, will build socialism."

The first number not unnaturally presents Russian news in an optimistic form, but it seems creditably free from "propaganda."

Congress Votes 12 Million to Quell Revolution.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 5.—Camouflaged dispatches from Rio de Janeiro indicate a serious outbreak in Pernambuco, Brazil. It is also stated that the Liberal leader and president of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, Getulio Vargas, is marching on Sao Paulo at the head of 20,000 revolutionaries.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 5.—In a message to the Brazilian congress at Rio de Janeiro requesting the declaration of a state of siege, President Washington Luig reported a simultaneous outbreak in the states of Minas Geraes and Rio Grande do Sul and revolutionary preparations in Parahyba.

The message said:

"The gravity of the situation is increased by the fact that this internal tumult is being espoused and directed by the state governments themselves."

Declare State of Siege.

At his request congress declared a state of siege to exist in four states and the federal capital, the states being Rio de Janeiro, Minas Geraes, Rio Grande do Sul, and Parahyba. This emergeney measure also gives the president the authority to extend the state of siege to other states when he thinks it desirable.

Congress also voted 100,000,000 milreis ($12,000,000) for defense against the revolution. Opposition newspapers in Rio de Janeiro have been closed by the government, and others are printing only meager reports of the revolution.

President Washington Luiz is remaining in Guanabara palace, surrounded by troops and accompanied by friends and the entire cabinet, except the minister of war, who is directing the federal troop movements.

Reject Peace Offers.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Peace overtures were reported to have been made by the federal government and promptly rejected by the insurgents, who declared they would accept "all responsibility for any bloodshed." Insurgent leaders in Minas Geraes refused a similar offer.

Getulio Vargas, president of the state of Rio Grande do Sul and Liberal presidential candidate in the elections last spring, was reported to have been recognized as the head of a belligerent government by Argentina's provisional president, Gen. Uriburu.

Rio de Janeiro dispatches stated that the federal government admitted part of the Brazilian navy had gone over to the insurgents.

At least seven Brazilian states, including four in the north, were said to be in revolt.

Naval Man Seizes Port.

Hercolino Castro, former lieutenant in the navy, dismissed after failure of the revolt aboard the battleship Sao Paulo in 1924, has taken command of the insurgent troops guarding Porto Alegre and other seaports of Rio Grande do Sul.

He is organizing his men to defend the coast against the federal navy, which has been trained under the supervision of American naval officers. Castro, who has lived in Uruguay since 1924, crossed the frontier a few days ago.

BRAZILIAN REVOLT SPREADS

Nine out of Brazil's 20 states are more or less involved in the revolution started in the south in Rio Grande do Sul. These states are shown shaded.

Clifford Henderson, Hurt in Air Crash, Recovering

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Clifford Henderson of Chicago, business manager of the 1930 national air races there, was brought here today in an airplane from Alamogordo, N. M., near where he was severely injured late yesterday in the fall of his light training plane. After examination of a skull injury, physicians said Henderson was expected to live. His plane crashed into a mountain as he attempted a passage over the Sacramento range.

URGES ECONOMIC CONTROL TO STOP SOVIET DUMPING

Latvian Expert Fears Red Policy on Border States.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 5.—Advocating a complete grain monopoly instead of the present partial control as a basis of state security Karl Ozol, 60 year old Latvian minister to Moscow, has written an article for the Jaunakas Sinas, the largest Latvian daily, warning his country that the soviet dumping policy is a serious threat against Latvia's economic stability.

Sees Peril to Latvia.

Minister Ozol occupied an important engineering post in Russia before the revolution and is one of the foremost authorities on soviet affairs.

He contends that it is impossible for a small country bordering on Russia to exist under the stringent measures taken to counteract the dumping policy of Moscow through the formation of state control, which would direct Latvia's purchases to countries which would buy her exports.

Capital Badly Organized.

"Europe today is divided into diametrically opposite parts," said Minister Ozol. "On the one side we have very badly organized, often decentralized, private capital, while on the other we have the nationalized economies of the communist régime whose avowed purpose is a fight to the death with the noncommunist capitalist world. Under these circumstances it is impossible to speak of a quiet normal development of our economic life.

"A grain monopoly is the first step and if Europe cannot find a way to collaborate economically, which would mean she had taken the greatest step forward in her history, then Latvia and other small countries will be obliged to invent their own state monopolies for the safety of the state and the welfare of the nation."

Ex-County Judge to Trial Nov. 12 as Embezzler

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Judge S. A. Hubbard, former county judge of Brown county, still is in jail here in default of a $5,000 bond. He will be tried on a charge of embezzling $12,000 intrusted to him as conservator for an insane woman. His trial has been set for Nov. 12.

100 Diners See Bandit Strike Victim; Seize Cash

Vincent Formanek, treasurer of the Sparta Athletic club, was beaten over the head with a gun and robbed of a satchel containing $435, receipts from a soccer football game, shortly before 6 p. m. last night as he satin Fencl's restaurant, 2609 South Lawndale avenue, in view of nearly 100 patrons.

AN OPPORTUNE TIME TO ECONOMIZE

is when you contemplate the purchase of furniture. Unlike many other necessities in life, fine furniture is acquired for permanent use.

Economy is genuine if you secure pieces that have been carefully assembled by skilled cabinetmakers - the kind that assists in bringing quiet dignity, and refinement into your home.

The autumn season is always ideal for the selection of furniture.

POLISH SOCIETIES PROTEST HEARST RECEPTION PLANS

21 Groups Agree Not to Take Part in Program.

A large crowd of men and women, representing 21 Polish-American societies of Chicago and Cook county, gathered in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium at a mass meeting yesterday to protest against the reception planned for W. R. Hearst, in connection with the civic celebration of Chicago day on Thursday.

Officers of the Polish National alliance, Polish Roman Catholic union, and other organizations claiming to represent 500,000 of Chicago's population, attacked Hearst as un-American. Mayor Thompson, who is active chairman of the Hearst reception committee, was accused of bringing ridicule upon the city.

A resolution, adopted by acclamation at the close of the meeting, pledges the organizations represented to abstain from taking part in the reception. Copies were forwarded to members of the city council, county board, and south park board, each of which adopted resolutions inviting Hearst to be a public guest.

Charges Publicity Seeking.

John J. Olejinczak, president of the Polish Roman Catholic union, declared that in the Hearst reception, Thompson is again bidding for publicity of the Hearst press. He said:

"Several years ago the mayor accused England of distorting historical facts in the textbooks of the public schools and loudly called attention to the danger of England mixing in our affairs. Lately other interests have monopolized the front pages of our newspapers, giving our city a still more unsavory reputation. This, of course, has relegated our mayor—the hunter of flying fish—to the background.

"Not to be disposed of, the mayor is again playing for the headlines, again making himself and our city a laughing stock, by inviting to Chicago the apostle of the very antithesis of true Americanism—W. R. Hearst—a man who more than any other individual in this country, has always been a stanch internationalist and a most shallow American.

World War Times Recalled.

"Where did the mayor and Hearst stand during the war? Using might and main to arouse national antagonism and racial prejudice, striving to help those for whose defeat our men fought on the battlefields of Europe.

"What can we expect of a man whose entire life has been spent attempting to build up a press monopoly? What can we expect of a man whose internationalism has been most pronounced, who always seeks sensationalism?

"Hearst's early attacks on England, his exploiting of the so-called secret Mexican documents, his attacks upon France, his present attitude towards Germany, can only be construed as injurious to world peace. We cannot wonder that France recently expelled him. We can only wonder that our city council and county board thought more of him than of thousands of our citizens who think of Americanism, not in terms of dollars and cents, but in adherence to principles laid down by Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Roosevelt, and Wilson."

Another speaker, John Romaszkiewicz, president of the Polish National alliance, declared the Hearst papers were used by German and other foreign interests to disseminate anti-Polish propaganda.

"The truly American newspaper does not seek to meddle with nor direct what boundaries a foreign nation shall have," said Mr. Romaszkiewicz. "No American newspaper, standing for the principles of the American people, will endeavor to stir up strife between European nations by encouraging one against the other in their claims or aspirations."

Speaking for the Alliance of American Veterans of Polish Extraction, Stanley A. Halick, commander of that organization of ex-service men, said that the city council and county board, by adopting resolutions for the Hearst reception, were attempting to paint the publisher as a patriotic martyr. Such action is political hysteria, Mr. Halick declared.

"Hearst has called the Versailles treaty unjust, but where was Hearst when that treaty was being drafted in 1918?" Mr. Halick asked. "Go back to preceding years and you'll find the answer. Hearst was pro-German."

CONGRESSMAN URGES AN EXTRA SESSION TO SOLVE RUM PROBLEM

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Representative Andrew L. Somers of the Sixth congressional district, in Brooklyn, today appealed to all senators and representatives to ask for a special session of congress to solve the triple problem of prohibition, unemployment, and industrial depression, all of which, he said, are linked together.

Congress, so assembled, should declare a national emergency exists, and should authorize the granting to all states, where the people so desire, the right to operate breweries for the manufacture of beer, and vineyards for light wines. In addition the right to license state agencies for the sale of beer and wine should be granted, together with suitable regulations for enforcement of the law and border patrol.

The funds derived from taxing the beer and wine would be shared by state and national governments, for enforcement purposes, under the plan proposed by Congressman Somers.

BIND AND ROB CONFECTIONER.

Two armed men Saturday held up the North Center confectionery, 1816 Irving Park boulevard, and escaped with $80 after binding and gagging Peter Notari, the owner. Mary Del Ross, 1800 Irving Park boulevard clerk, was not harmed.

RUSSIA SEEN FROM PARIS

Just One Fashion Hint After Another

This Suit (for Instance) With Persian Lamb, $100

Wide Bands of Russian Caracul And a Wide Belt on a Coat, $150

When she, the smart woman of today, seeks a coat, not like most coats, this one offers its Russian origin in the use of much Russian caracul fur, and a wide belt that holds this coat snugly and high at the waist. Black, green and red with black fur. Women. $150.

The Coat That Sponsors Royal and Lavish Use of Furs, $165

To be swathed in rich furs, as was Russia 'way back, the young lady of fashion doesn't look farther than the coat with huge collar and cuffs of squirrel. The flare is held in with a high tie belt. Suede cloth in dark blue and red with gray squirrel. Misses. $165.

A Thoroughly Feminine Tunic Frock Embroiders Its Graceful Panels, $59.50

A perfect expression of the dignity of the mode is the tunic. There is length and grace in its line. Persian embroidery brings it into evidence in a very smart way. Then the underskirt is pleated. Black, green, brown, Rouf ink canton crepes. Women. $59.50.

Wide Sleeves Were Everywhere So Were Tunics (Misses' Frocks), $39.50

For a young woman who does not want her frock to date anything but Russian, Lanvin has designed this sleeve. It is used on this frock with little nail heads covered in canton crepe, the fabric of the frock. Black, brown and navy. Sizes for misses. $39.50.

Fourth Floor, North, State.

The Tunic Without Furbelows

A sports frock wisely adapts this smart Russian line. Jersey blouse worn with a patent leather belt and a skirt of wool crepe. Red and black, rust and black, gold and brown, brown and rust, turquoise and black, two greens, two blues. Misses' sizes and 38.

NO MORE PREMATURE INQUIRIES.

The September grand jury in a letter to Chief Justice McGoorty expresses the conviction that a well established "three cornered alliance" exists between the Chicago police department, the corrupt politicians and the criminal element. The jury therefore suggests that the alliance "be made the subject of an exhaustive inquiry by a special grand jury."

The interrelations of professional crime and corrupt politics and corrupted officials ought certainly to be thoroughly investigated, revealed and punished. But no special grand jury should be called until the state's attorney is ready for it. We have had premature inquiries and they have got us nowhere. Until substantial evidence can be placed before the jury, its efforts are more likely to embarrass than assist the processes of justice, and the net result of a premature inquiry is to confuse and discourage public opinion, on the one hand, and give time to malefactors to cover their tracks, on the other.

The exhaustive inquiry demanded by the grand jury we hope will come, but if it is not to be a fiasco it must be exhaustively prepared.

A BOGUS SYMPOSIUM.

An interesting document in the current propaganda for recognition of the soviet government has floated into this office. It is a pamphlet of eleven pages about the size of a tabloid newspaper page, the first of which bears the legend "Institute of Politics, Williamstown, Massachusetts, Proceedings of General Conference, August 1 and 2, 1930: The Internal and External Problems of Russia."

This conference, it appears, was presided over by Mr. Ivy Lee, who is advertised in the pamphlet in the modest and somewhat inadequate guise of author of "Present Day Russia." It is in this ingratiating rôle, rather than as sometime press agent for Standard Oil and molder of public opinion respecting divers American corporations of note, that Mr. Lee seems to have directed the illuminating proceedings of the conference. The report of these proceedings, in fact, opens with two and a third pages of Mr. Lee's views of soviet Russia and our relations therewith, from the perusal of which we derive a most inspiring impression of Mr. Lee's disinterested zeal for humanity, of his passion for open-mindedness, of his admiration and sympathy for the soviet government, which has such profitable concessions to let out to deserving American corporations, and of his anxiety lest a failure of information as to the high purposes of bolshevism or a lack of appreciation of its achievements should embarrass or dishearten that noble experiment.

Following Mr. Lee's remarks we find two pages on the soviet five year plan by Mr. Harold Kellock, author of a work on that late genius of sleight of hand, Houdini, and now, by a perhaps natural progression, American adviser to the soviet information bureau. We have then a page by Paul Sheffer, who was for about a decade correspondent in Russia of the Berliner Tageblatt, of whose contributions to the conference more later. Following Mr. Sheffer we have a glowing page and a half from Col. Hugh L. Cooper of Hugh L. Cooper, Inc., who is engaged in construction work for the soviet government which will come to $110,000,000 and be finished in 1933, pending which Col. Cooper cannot suppress his enthusiasm for "the Russian people" and his sense of our duty to "help their experiment in every friendly reasonable way."

Another contributor to the conference is Mr. Paul D. Cravath, prominent corporation lawyer and advocate of diplomatic relations with the soviet, and there is a discussion of diplomatic relations with the soviet by Prof. Schuman of the University of Chicago, brief discussions of relations between China and Russia and Japan and Russia, and remarks by Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the Amtorg Trading corporation. Several pages are given to general discussion, from which the reader will gather that Mr. Sheffer's suggestions of the seamy side of sovietism were viewed as regrettable interruptions of an otherwise delightfully harmonious occasion. A Mr. Harrington Emerson, efficiency engineer, broke into Mr. Sheffer's reference to bolshevik executions as follows: "My interruption may seem somewhat discourteous, but I would like to know why we are listening to a German, who told me himself he did not understand much Russian, when Americans are anxious to find out about these things." Mr. Emerson, so far as our record shows, had not been unwilling to hear the remarks of Mr. Ivy Lee, whose acquaintance with the Russian language is probably something less than Mr. Sheffer's and whose observations of Russian conditions were somewhat briefer. Mr. Sheffer's, if the transcript of proceedings is fair, was the only voice dissenting from the rosy picture of Bolshevia which this conference apparently was anxious to accept as reality.

In short, unless the transcript is a gross perversion of the proceedings, the conference was packed, a bogus symposium, now being circulated in the hope of inducing American opinion to favor an abandonment of the policy initiated by Woodrow Wilson and maintained by every succeeding President. Who pays for this publication it would be interesting to know. And apart from the pros and cons of the controversy among our intelligentsia over recognition, if there may be said to be any controversy among them, we should be interested also to know how the directorship of the Williamstown Institute of Politics came to select Mr. Ivy Lee to conduct its conference upon recognition and whether that directorship feels responsible for an apparently packed proceeding, now published seemingly under the aegis of the institute as an impartial inquiry.

CREDIT FOR PAN-AMERICA.

More credit and wiser credit is essential to the growth of North and South American coöperation, and the $20,000,000 bank proposed for Pan-American interests is an important indication of a new intelligence in these matters. The bank will have the sanction and support of banks and governments in both continents. It will be a service institution, acting as agent for business men and manufacturers, providing expert salesmen for those who need their services, and facilitating rural credit. The latter service is perhaps the most important.

Though money from the north has been flowing into South America—and should continue flowing—it has been loaned too often with poor judgment. Loans have been made exceeding far the normal power of people to repay, and Leguia, for example, fell from Peru's presidency largely because an overcostly plan of public works, financed in New York, imposed too great a burden on his people. This and the growing tyranny of the old man over all intellectual life and youth brought Peru's builder down. To Ibero-American nations has gone much capital from the United States. Most of it, no doubt, is wise; some of it is foolish. In 1928 the list was about as follows:

Argentina	More than	$ 450,000,000
Bolivia	" "	80,000,000
Brazil	" "	400,000,000
Colombia	" "	175,000,000
Cuba	" "	1,250,000,000
Dominican Republic	" "	25,000,000
Ecuador	" "	20,000,000
Guiana	" "	5,000,000
Haiti	" "	25,000,000
Mexico	" "	1,000,000,000
Paraguay	" "	15,000,000
Peru	" "	140,000,000
Uruguay	" "	75,000,000
Venezuela	" "	100,000,000
Chile	" "	500,000,000
Central America and Panama	" "	250,000,000

Only by more capital and credit can the United States compete with Europe in the southern continent, and the United States business man who now demands immediate cash from South American customers, while the European allows 30 to 90 days, must use more gracious methods.

With great resources and with people capable of industry and education the development of South America would be assured through sound coöperation and financial help from the great northern neighbor. More money should go into South America, and if it is used for measures that will build up wealth and independence, industrial education, and the civilized needs of South American farmers and workers, of small business men and others who must compose the mass and body of a stable nation, the money will be safe and most beneficial, to both continents.

More lending and wiser lending is needed in respect to South America. For the north profoundly valuable cultural exchanges and an expanding market await the social growth and the prosperity of South America's common people.

DR. SCHMIDT AND THE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

By a three to two decision the judicial council of the American Medical association seems to have decided that the ouster of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt was attended by no procedural irregularities and that the council's own jurisdiction does not authorize it to pass upon the merits of the charges against the appellant. The two dissenters held that the charges were too vague.

The decision will disappoint a very considerable public which hoped for a decision on the merits. Not that the lay public is much in doubt of its own decision, but that it is interested in the policies of the medical profession in respect of the issues raised by Dr. Schmidt and the grave problems to which he invites public attention. Dr. Schmidt may be left by the council's decision on the doorstep of the American Medical association, but he will be far from lonely or disconsolate. His course of conduct has been an honor to him and to the profession in which he has earned a distinction and a standing no association can deprive him of or disparage, and the great work to which he has given his aid will go on.

Editorial of the Day

WORTH ATTENTION.

[Aurora (Ill.) Beacon-News.]

No American who likes to trust that all is for the best in this best of all possible republics should ever read the writings of Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association. For Mr. Pack has a way of being disconcertingly blunt and outspoken.

In his latest broadcast Mr. Pack makes the following discouraging statement:

"In the forests lies our economic salvation. With the passing of our forests, whose products keep the wheels of industry turning, would come the passing of our entire economic scheme. There is no article of commerce into which cost of forest products does not enter.

"We have heard a great deal about a trade expansion program. Any such program means an increased call upon our forest resources. Let us take stock. We are cutting our forests about 4½ times faster than we are renewing them."

This is not reassuring, but it is worth listening to. If Mr. Pack's reiteration of unpleasant truths finally awakens us to the seriousness of our forest problem he will have done the country a great service.

WAY OF THE LAW.

Sam was charged with theft and his lawyer decided to put him on the witness stand.

"Sam, if you tell a lie you know what will happen, I suppose?" queried the judge.

"Yas, suh," replied Sam. "I'll go to hades and burn for a long time."

"Quite right," chuckled the judge. "And you know what will happen if you tell the truth?"

"Yes, suh," said Sam. "We loss de case!"—Railroad Magazine.

TURN ABOUT.

"Hide all your jewels and all other valuables."

"Why?"

"The man I got acquitted of a charge of theft is coming to thank me tonight."—Buen Humor, Madrid.

IDEAL DAY FOR HEALTH.

DR. ELLSWORTH HUNTINGTON says the ideal day is one on which the average temperature is about 65 degrees and the relative humidity around 90. To make this day nearly perfect, from the health standpoint, the temperature should range through about 4 degrees at different hours of the day and night.

There should be sunshine without cloud or fog, and the air should be relatively free from dust and smoke. A certain limited amount of atmospheric electricity is desirable. Furthermore, this ideal day should come at the end of a period of nice weather, culminating in a drop of about 10 degrees. In other words, Huntington gives the palm to slightly cool days following others that have been a little warmer.

He thinks the climate of southeastern England comes as near as any to being ideal from the health standpoint. The qualities of a healthful climate he gives as: A considerable number of days meeting the standards; a fair degree of variation in temperature, humidity, and winds; a certain degree of seasonal variation, but no great extremes of heat or cold; steadying effect of a large body of water; a fair degree of freedom of the air from dust and smoke; no excess of clouds, fogs, and rain.

These conclusions are based on studies of the death rates of New York City over a period of several years, paralleled by a study of the weather conditions for the same period. This was checked with a similar study of the weather in relation to health, made in Stockholm, and with various British reports. It is in accord with the conclusion of the author based on previous studies.

The opinion of Huntington on weather and health which has caused more discussion than any other relates to the advantage of season and change. Most health resorts advertise the even balminess of their climates. Huntington contends that the most healthful climate is one where there are some storms and winds, some clouds and rain, and some variation in temperature.

DUE TO AN INFECTION.

R. S. M. writes: I am a boy of 17, and I have a touch of arthritis, which, I was told, is more like rheumatism.

1. Is this true?
2. Is it curable?
3. Am I allowed to bathe in salt water or cold water?
4. What is the cause of this disease? Mine is mostly in the hips.

REPLY.

1. It is customary to call all forms of arthritis rheumatism.
2. It ought to be.
3. Probably so; but your physician will know better than I.
4. Some infection. The infection enters the body through the mouth and nose, the digestive organs, pelvic organs, and occasionally through other gateways.

MAY HAVE SEVERAL CAUSES.

Mrs. M. I. D. writes: Please let me know what can be the trouble with my husband. Every time he drinks any kind of alcoholic liquors and becomes intoxicated, when he is sobering up he will throw up blood and have terrible pains in his stomach, just as though something was tightening up inside of him. He will be like this for two or three days. Could this be tumors or hardening of the arteries?

REPLY.

Among possible causes are alcoholic gastritis, cirrhosis of the liver, cancer or other tumor, and stomach ulcer. Is there any reason for his getting drunk?

BUTTERMILK DIET.

J. W. writes:

1. Is buttermilk, such as is purchased in the city, fattening?
2. Is it advisable to drink a reasonable amount of it while on a diet to reduce because it is filling?

REPLY.

1. Answer depends on the amount consumed.
2. You can get better fillers. Example: Cabbage, sauerkraut, salads, and vegetables of that type. A moderate amount of buttermilk is permissible.

FAMILY TRAGEDY.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a man kills his wife and then takes his own life, and in his will leaves a small part of the estate to his wife's family, can the will be broken so that her mother will get a greater share? The bulk of the estate was life insurance made out to the wife or estate, the coroner's verdict being temporary insanity. J. D.

Not on the bare facts stated. Ordinarily, it is necessary to prove undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

PARKING VIOLATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 30. — [Friend of the People.]—I wrote to you some time ago about the diagonal parking of cars on Maplewood avenue and the police department took care of that complaint for a while. They put a safety zone at this place with two posts, but one of these is missing now and the sign on the other post is turned around so it cannot be read from the street. Now they have begun parking their cars diagonally again, making it almost impossible for people to get off the street cars. Something should be done about this. I was told the market people moved the sign away. E. G. H.

Capt. James Fleming of the 32d district reports as follows on this complaint:

"Interviewed the owner of market regarding this missing sign, and he stated that he did not remove any signs from the parking space alongside of his market, nor did he instruct any of his employes to do so.

"While on duty at the corner of Milwaukee and Maplewood avenues Saturday nine summons were issued to motorists who violated the parking ordinance.

"Patrolmen have been instructed to continue to watch this location in the future, and whenever violators are found to issue summons." JOHN H. ALCOCK, Acting Commissioner of Police.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

PROF. PHOODLEPHOO DISCUSSES THE REAL ISSUE.

Friends and Fellow Citizens: In this great political battle that is raging all over these United States, from the Statue of Liberty in New York to Bill Wrigley's Catalina islands out in the broad Pacific, and from the rum running luggers on Lake Huron to what the great drought has left of the Rio Grande, we all point with pride and view with alarm this, that, and the other—but there is little dissent on what constitutes the real issue. In times past the issues of the campaign have often been obscured. One party would declare that one thing was the issue and another party would lay its hand on its heart and say something else was the real issue, and the Democratic party would say that both of 'em were liars and that the real issue was something else again. But in this campaign, whether in far off New Jersey or in golden California, where the grapes come from, we can see the issue, and if we are so inclined we can taste it and look at it. We can carry it around on the hip or mark it hair tonic, and put it in the lunch box on the back seat of the automobile. We can mix it with orange and lemon juice and sugar and ice, and shake it up in a small contraption made for the purpose and pour it out into thin glasses and serve to one and all. Sometimes the issue is like other issues of the past, not as clear as it should be, but that is because the alky cookers were in a hurry. But this issue is not one that we can tell the sovereign voters to take a firm stand on. We may tell 'em that, but they won't do it; when we look at them a second time we find that instead of standing on the issue they have lapped it all down. But, nevertheless, we can still maintain that the issue in this campaign is plain and unmistakable. Except when they put Kansas Jeke or something like that in it. Anyhow, friends, voters, and fellow citizens, we have this time a strictly American issue even if a large part of it comes from Canada. Yessir, here is an issue that it's hard to get away from unless you chew a lot of coffee and cloves and things like that. Some of those who try to dodge it and say it isn't on their conscience may still have it on the hip. Which gives us the slogan of the campaign: Hip, hip, hoorah!

IMAGERY.

There the silver ribbon ended
In a clump where willows bended
To the stream;
A crinkled moon looked down and hallowed
The little twisted path she followed
For a dream.

No one saw the ribbon darting
Through the hills nor found its starting
In the dawn;
Too late now to whisper o'er her,
Ask what form of wild thing bore her . . .
She is gone.

Gold her hair and gay her laughter,
Those of us who followed after Never knew
Why in the dark her frail song kept

MONDAY and another week! Nothing much in sight but the anniversary of the day when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lamp and set fire to the whole darned town. Which teaches us not to put a lighted kerosene lamp down behind the southeast leg of a cow. Which is interesting, but does not promise much in the way of an exciting week.

THA DUKE GETS A CHARGE ACCT. FOR THA MAMA.

Dick, Me an tha B. an C. has been hitting it off pretty good these last few months. Tha only fights we've had were mine-or ones, "mine-or her fault." There's a old saying something about it never pours but what it rains an' believe me, tha other night we had a flood. All on acc't some of tha girl fr'en's are ritzin' tha Mama 'cause they got a charge account with tha Goofulsteiner Co. an' she aint. I tries to tell her as to how you gotta have references an a good salary an she tells me that that oughta be easy as we cood give tha electric, gas an' telephone company 'cause we've always paid them. Fer her information I tells her that maybe she forgot that we always pay our postage stamp bills promptly too. Her next crack is to tha effect that if they aint satisfied with my salary I cood ask the boss fer a raise. Ennyway, in order to shut her up I promised to try. Well, I braces tha credit man an' tells him he's gotta give me credit in tha opening up of a account. After fillin' in a application he tells me I gotta give him credit for not opening it up. Tha application blank I gotta fill in was very simple, all they wanna know is where did I live in 1886, did any tailor ever sue my gran-father, how much insurance does my Uncle carry, an' how much is still due tha doctor on our first kid. When he asks me if I ever took a drink I tole him not until after lunch but that I'd make a exception in his case and join him in a couple, but somehow or other they was not forthcoming. He also asks if I cood pay on tha 10th of tha month an' I tells him yes but I didn' register just what month. Tha damn fool also wants to know what banks I do business with, he mighta known if I was that affluent I woodn' hafta ask him fer favors. Enyway, this morning I gets a letter from tha goof saying everything was O. K. DUKE BAKRAK.

P. S.—Providing I got three guarantors an' that tha acc't woodn' never run over $12.00.

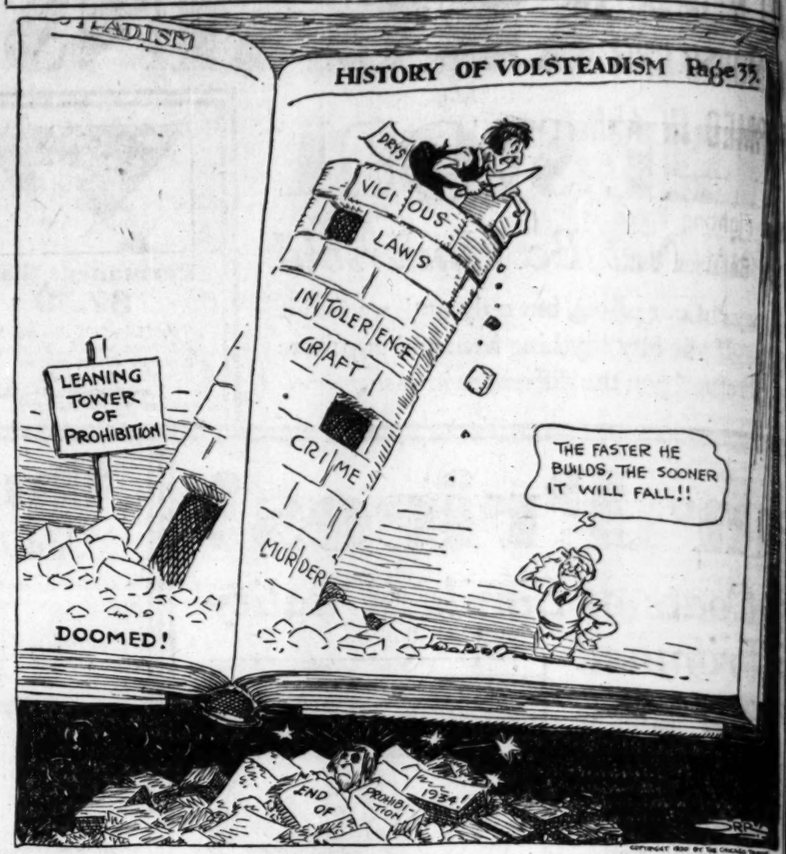
PROHIBITION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1914.

FROM THE BATTLE FRONT.—The allied armies, after having permitted their adversaries, as they thought, to exhaust themselves by continued attacks, today took a most vigorous offensive. The British and French encountered such a strong resistance, however, that their most advanced detachments on the western wing were compelled to fall back.

LONDON.—Brief messages which are being received here from Paris and Berlin indicate that the attempt of the allies to flank the right wing of the German army has been checked and that the Germans, taking the offensive, have succeeded in making advances at several points. Berlin messages also state that the Germans are progressing in the region of the Argonne forest.

BERLIN [By Wireless to Sayville, L. I.]—An official German army report says that in the siege of Antwerp the forts of Lierre, Waelhem, and Koningshoyckt and the intermediate redoubts, with 30 guns, have been taken by the Germans.

TOKIO.—The navy department issued this official announcement: "The Japanese squadron delegated to destroy the German fleet in the south seas has landed bluejackets on Jaluit island, the seat of government in the Marshall archipelago, which was annexed by Germany in 1886. It is believed the German base was destroyed and the fortifications, arms and ammunition seized."

LONDON.—The defeat of the German army which invaded Russia from East Prussia appears from Russian accounts to have been even more decisive than previously stated.

CHICAGO.—James H. Eckels, controller of the currency under President Cleveland, delivered an addrses at the Auditorium last night, giving the reasons which impel him to vote and work for the reelection of President McKinley. The audience, which included a good proportion of workingmen, proved most attentive and enthusiastic.

CHICAGO. — Postmaster Gordon's request that the Chicago letter carriers appear in uniform at the dedication of the postoffice annex on Oct. 8 was declined at a meeting of the executive committee of the National association. Two reasons were given. One was that the presence of the carriers in uniform would be construed into something of political significance. The other that there was a lack of harmony between the carriers and Postmaster Gordon.

CHICAGO.—Harry Vardon of Ganton, England, open golf champion for three years across the water, won the open championship of the United States at the Wheaton links by defeating J. H. Taylor of Richmond, England, the present open champion over there, by two strokes. Vardon finished the 72 holes in 313, and Taylor in 315.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1880.

INDIANAPOLIS.—The Democratic rally which occurred here, viewed as a great state affair, will rank as a grand fizzle. The people did not turn out and the parade fell far short of what was anticipated. Two or three of the speakers were caught in bad company and in Mayor's court Noah W. Parker was fined $10 and costs for associating with an immoral woman and Luther Benson $10 and costs in each case for drunkenness and associating with an immoral woman. Parker is national candidate for state senator who sold himself to Bill English, the Democratic leader, and Benson is the temperance talker. Both are Democratic orators.

PRINCETON, Ill.—The Trumbull-Hoyne-Harrison Democratic blowout here did not draw as well as expected. They had a procession of 147 teams of all kinds, and 514 men, women and children constituted the passengers.

WHO WROTE "ABIDE WITH ME."

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Re attached clipping from your today's issue, naming Mrs. E. L. Ashford as author of "Abide with Me."

The hymn, "Abide with Me," was written by the Rev. Henry Francis Lyte, born at Ednam, near Kelso, Scotland, June 1, 1793. In 1823 he took charge of the seashore parish of Lower Brixham, Devonshire, England, where, amid rough seafaring men, he toiled for twenty-four years—on the opposite shore of the Bristol channel to that on which Amelia Earhart landed after her trans-Atlantic hop.

Ever of delicate health and threatened with consumption, he became obliged to spend his winters in the warmth of southern Europe. About to leave England accordingly on Sept. 4, 1847, he was seized with an irresistible desire to preach to his people once more, amazing his friends in accomplishing his purpose and that evening there came upon him the impulse under which he wrote his last and greatest, and one of the greatest of all, hymns, "Abide with Me."

He handed the hymn to a member of his family that night and set out the next day for Nice, where he died on Nov. 20, 1847.

R. E. WARMINGTON.

HEATHEN BELLS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—An explanation concerning the ringing of church bells on Sunday mornings and other days as a disturbance seems necessary.

The church bells are of heathen origin. Christ had no use of them. The reason why they came in use was to call together the church people to hunt the "heretics," or the followers of Christ.

Sunday is set apart for the worship of the heathen Sun gods, or the Triune gods, whom the church people worship today. Jehovah, the only true God, does not dwell in churches or temples made with hands—Acts, xvii., 24. Hence the churches, the bells, the doctrine itself and everything connected with it is of pure heathen origin. It belongs to the Suncult system, and has nothing to do with Christ. E. HALLGREN.

POOR PAVING.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—The outer drive is an excellent example of poor paving. At this early date sections of it are becoming rough and wavy, especially in the vicinity of Soldiers' field. It would have been better to defer the paving of this drive until a sufficient fund could have been obtained to build a permanent pavement than to hurriedly construct the present slipshod asphalt surface which will be a nuisance and expense as long as it is tolerated.

An equally excellent example of correct paving is to be found on the north bound drive of Sheridan road from 3200 to 3800 north. This stretch is about ten years old, but to all appearances is as good as new. It is made of reinforced concrete, which costs a good deal more than asphalt paving but proves to be economical in the long run.

If our streets were made of concrete, or, better still, of reinforced concrete, the original cost would be the only cost and motoring would be less hazardous.

I am not writing as a fault finder or a propagandist but as an autoist who would enjoy driving through our fair city in comfort.

ARTHUR R. HAGEDORN,

SHOOT 'EM AT 40.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—If you were 40 years of age or over and had worked practically all your life as an office man and for many years in a supervisory capacity, with an A1 record as a reliable, and industrious employe, and unfortunately found yourself out of employment with a few thousand dollars, what would you do?

Would you invest your money in a small business of your own and take a chance of getting "gypped" by the hundreds of "wildcat" opportunities being advertised every day in the Chicago newspapers, or would you endeavor to locate a position suitable to your ability on a salary proposition?

The writer is up against just that proposition. The writer has investigated several wonderful advertised money making propositions requiring an investment, one of which gypped him out of about $3,000 in less than six months' time.

He has filed applications for positions in a number of different concerns to no avail, some of which place your applications on file and will notify you when they need any help, which is only a polite way of getting rid of you. Some are frank enough to tell you "right off the bat" that they do not hire any new men 40 years of age or older.

I have a fairly good education, worked as an accountant and office man for years, have three years' experience in the merchandising game. Have answered hundreds of ads for office men, office managers, hotel clerks, merchandising men, etc., without any response.

No one wants any one around who is 40 years of age or older, no matter how reliable and honest they may be, so my suggestion would be to take all of the "old timers" out and "shoot 'em" when they get to be this age and out of employment. "SHOOT 'EM AT 40."

TROLLEY WELCHERS.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—The present traction interests are welching on our expansion program just as they have welched on giving service in the past. The fare on our elevated is 10 cents, but double the price paid in New York. The New York not only has excellent and extensive subways and elevated but further they are constantly building and extending their service.

If our traction interests were not welchers they would be giving Chicago the finest service in the country considering the fare they receive. They would be thanking Chicago for its constant cooperation.

Instead, they welch some more. They want a new ordinance. They get it. Then they welch some more.

How long is this situation going to continue? The voters can go to the polls and throw these welchers out if given the chance. Let's get out a real threat and give our traction interests an incentive to show speed that will cause digging within thirty days.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 27.—I am a native born American and an ex-war veteran. I have had no steady work since last November.

Many places here where I apply Mexicans are working steadily. Many can not speak English and even the signs "no smoking" are in Spanish.

Is it a square deal to one anxious for work that a quota act against Mexico remains blocked in congress?

ALL MECHANIZED ARMORED UNIT IS FORMED IN ARMY

New Fighting Force Will Be Tried Out.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Formation of an armored fighting machine as an independent force in the American army has been ordered by Secretary of War Hurley on the recommendation of Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, it was learned today.

Assembly of the new mechanized unit is already taking place at Fort Eustis, Va. It will include light combat tanks, armored infantry carriers, armored cars operated by the cavalry, infantrymen on trucks, automotive artillery, and virtually every type of motorized fighting machine now utilized in the army. The force will consist of approximately 500 men, and will be self-sustained for independent action on the battlefield. In its personnel will be doughboys, artillery men, engineers, cavalry men, medical personnel, and ordnance officers. All units will be motorized. One of its major characteristics will be high speed.

Second Similar Experiment.

Gen. Summerall's action in arranging for the formation of the new mechanized unit marks the second time the war department has turned its attention seriously to the development of independent armored forces utilizing fighting machines on the battlefield. In 1928 an experimental force was organized by Col. Charles S. Lincoln and equipped with obsolete material.

In the beginning the new unit will be utilized for the formulation of tactics for the employment of fast modern fighting machines and for the testing of new equipment for armored fighting forces. The goal of the supporters of mechanization is to bring greater fire power, shock, and mobility to and on the battlefield, and the new force will be shaped to carry out these aims. When entirely equipped with new material the new unit will have double the fire power and at least triple the mobility and speed of the 1928 experimental unit.

Col. Van Voorhis to Command.

Col. Daniel Van Voorhis, a cavalry officer with experience on the general staff and with troops in the field, has been appointed chief of the new mechanized unit. Maj. H. E. Brett, formerly connected with the infantry tank school and a Christie armored tank enthusiast, was named executive officer.

One company of the 34th infantry, the army's only motorized infantry regiment, will be assigned to the mechanized force.

As a mechanized force is one in which all soldiers go to the battlefield in machines and in most cases fight with machines such as tanks and armored cars, all units will be on wheels.

Despite the smallness of the force much of the equipment will be of obsolete design. The tank company will have a half dozen experimental light tanks as well as the new Christie light tank, which is to be delivered shortly. The armored car troop will have mostly new equipment, although much of it will be of experimental design. A large part of the trucks should be new. The artillery will be largely automotive. The army at present has two experimental 75 millimeter guns mounted on motorized vehicles.

The plan is to utilize funds as voted by congress in perfecting a chassis for a tank of a type that also can be utilized for mounting 75 millimeter guns, infantry carrier bodies, and virtually all the machines needed by an armored force.

PROHIBITION LAW FACTOR IN MANY SENATE BATTLES

It Will Enter in a Dozen Contests.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Prohibition has become a factor of importance in as many as a dozen of the senatorial contests to be decided at the polls four weeks from Tuesday. In four or five states it promises to be the decisive issue. In a number of others it is an element which will have some bearing upon the outcome.

The field of senatorial nominees will be completed on Thursday when Rhode Island Republicans hold their convention. Senator J. H. Metcalf will be renominated, but whether the convention will declare itself on the prohibition issue has not been disclosed. The Democratic convention in nominating former Senator Peter G. Gerry last week declared for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Senator Metcalf has been regarded as moist, but has not emphasized the fact. It is thought that the Republicans may pledge themselves to abide by the result of a referendum which has already been arranged in that state. In any event prohibition will figure prominently in the election result. Rhode Island has been regarded as wet.

Prohibition Issue Raised.

In three eastern states, one in the central part of the country, and one in the west the prohibition issue has been raised in a clear cut manner. The Democrats are on the wet side of the issue in four of the five, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Delaware, and Ohio, while the Republican nominee in the fifth, Montana, is the wet standard bearer.

Prohibition is a major issue in Illinois, but with the situation somewhat confused by the entrance of a third candidate.

The prohibition question is a factor but is kept more in the background in a number of other states, including West Virginia, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Colorado.

May Influence 1932 Delegates.

So important is prohibition as an issue in several of the states that it may not only be the element which enables the Democrats to dislodge Republicans from senate seats but also will have a decisive influence in determining whether wet or dry delegates will be chosen two years hence to the national conventions.

The Republicans are becoming increasingly alarmed over the situation in Ohio, where the Democrats believe that Robert J. Bulkley, their nominee and an active wet, has a chance to win over Senator Roscoe C. Culloch, the Republican nominee, a dry.

Confident in East.

While merely hopeful over possibilities in Ohio, the wets are confident that the wet Democratic nominees will win in Massachusetts and Delaware. Former Senator William M. Butler, the dry Republican nominee in Massachusetts, is having difficulty holding his party in line for him against Marcus A. Coolidge, the Democratic nominee.

In Montana, where the situation as to parties is reversed, with the wets backing the Republican nominee, Justice Albert J. Galen, against Senator Thomas J. Walsh, dry Democrat, there appears to be a better chance of a Republican victory than at any time for years.

POULTRY BRINGING GOOD PRICES; DRY SEASON CREDITED

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Poultry will help offset the crop losses caused by drought in the Quincy area. In Illinois, Missouri, and Iowa there is a large amount of poultry, and the farm woman will be more appreciated than ever when she sells her chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys this fall.

One woman sold $178 worth of poultry at one time and had over 200 old hens and pullets left.

Chickens did better this year than for a long time, due to the fact there were few heavy rains and the loss by drowning was reduced to the minimum. Poultry is advancing in price and the demand seems to be greater.

The wheat that was sown two weeks ago is coming up and apparently doing nicely.

FIND BOY'S BODY AT RIVER'S SIDE; WIRE ON THROAT

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The lacerated and partly nude body of Earl Fuller, 12 year old school boy, was found early this morning in the willows of the Mississippi river here. The body, with tongue blackened and features swollen, gives evidence of death by strangulation. A bandage and piece of wire was wrapped tightly around the boy's throat when the body was found by Henry Waltz, a workman who stumbled across it. Fuller's parents, noting the boy's failure to return Saturday night, had instigated a search. Suspicious characters in the vicinity were questioned by the police today. They believe the slaying was by a moron tramp. Fuller's friends with whom he played football until late Saturday night were also questioned. A post mortem examination was held this afternoon, and it was officially declared that death was caused by strangulation.

FRENCH MINISTER OF WAR DEFENDS ARMED PEACE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Andre Maginot, the French war minister, made some candid declarations about European disarmament being more or less indefinitely postponed in a speech at Bar-le-Duc today dedicating a memorial to the French soldiers who fell there in the world war.

"We should not brandish our sword, but that does not mean that we should break it across our knee," M. Maginot asserted. "Those who profess to believe that an adequate army and well fortified frontiers are a provocation to war might well say that strong safes or hermetically sealed doors are a cause of thefts. They might as well say that the maintenance of a police force is an invitation to break the law.

"We shall remain faithful to the policy of a peace based on three essentials—security, arbitration, and disarmament.

"Certainly that which has happened should never recommence. Two invasions within half a century are quite enough. Our people are not willing to be exposed to these mortal risks again. In a Europe where, despite the suffering a warlike spirit has caused in the past, peace still has only a very precarious foothold, we must conserve all the means in our power to defend ourselves."

Police Job Not Confined to Sidewalks of New York

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—When Joseph Friedner and John Petraglia were appointed to the police force they thought their work would be confined to the sidewalks of New York. Today they were compelled to become steeplejacks and climb the uncompleted Hudson river bridge to arrest two youths who had climbed to one of the 630 foot towers on a dare.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should learn all about Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get only genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Physicians have prescribed it for over 50 years.

SUPREME COURT CONVENES TODAY; BOOZE CASES UP

Constitutionality of 18th Amendment Challenged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Prohibition cases involving questions ranging from the search of automobiles to the validity of the 18th amendment will be in the foreground as the United States Supreme court convenes for its new term tomorrow after the summer recess.

Although the highest tribunal in the past has repeatedly dealt with and decided dry law controversies, a score of fresh disputes have pushed their way to the docket and demand attention along with approximately 300 other petitions asking reviews of lower court decisions and 50 appeals. Tax, anti-trust, radio and railroad cases will furnish the bulk of the court's work.

Challenges 18th Amendment.

The constitutionality of both the 18th amendment and the Volstead act is challenged by A. Stanley Copeland of Buffalo, N. Y., who, in his appeal, has cited nine reasons why he believes both are unconstitutional. Copeland has advanced arguments attacking the amendment and the prohibition law from new angles different from those from which they previously have been unsuccessfully assaulted.

The Jones "five and ten" law is under fire in the appeal of Hugh McElvogue and William J. Brown, convicted in St. Joseph, Mo.

Test Padlock Injunction.

Whether dry agents may stop and search an automobile for liquor without a warrant as required in the search of a home is a question raised in the case of Edwin C. Kudy and Byron Lantry, convicted in Michigan on charges of transporting liquor.

Still another phase of dry laws to be tested is the padlock injunction. Florindo Lucconi and Paul Courbis, convicted in Cleveland, O., are the appellants. Lucconi conducted a restaurant which was ordered padlocked for a single sale of liquor and he has contended that in such a case the padlock law cannot properly be used.

DRY LAW CONGESTION OF FEDERAL COURTS PERSISTS—HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Congestion in the federal courts, due chiefly to the ever increasing number of prohibition cases, persists as a major problem, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States Supreme court declared today in his report for the judicial conference of Circuit judges in conference here.

The conference informed Attorney General W. D. Mitchell that out of the 35,849 criminal cases pending on June 30, 1930, 22,671 were started under the national prohibition act.

During 1929 there were 11,237 civil prohibition cases commenced, and during 1930 there were 11,882, the conference reported, while the new criminal prohibition cases increased from 56,796 in 1929 to 56,992 in 1930.

With a view to meeting the congestion problem, the judicial conference, the chief justice stated, recommended: [1] Legislation to remove the limitation imposed by law upon the appointment of successors to the fourteen District judges where vacancies now exist or will arise; [2] legislation making provision for five additional District judges; and [3] that the attorney general make a survey of the whole subject of the best means for promoting economical and efficient administration in the federal courts, including the possible consolidation or change of existing districts.

CHICAGO AGENTS OPEN SCHOOL ON DRY LAW TODAY

Prohibition Agents Edward A. Geardorf and Robert B. Thorp will open a school of instruction for their fellow agents today in the prohibition offices here. The school will follow the instructions of Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, new dry director. The two agents have been attending classes at Washington and listening to lectures. The Chicago lectures will continue daily until Oct. 18.

The lectures at Washington stressed avoidance of using firearms except in self-defense and also interpreted legal questions on enforcement.

1910 Type Plane Flies from Chicago to Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Al Wilson, stunt aviator, flying a 1910 type Curtiss pusher plane arrived at the Municipal airport here today from Chicago after a 22 day trip. Airport officials said the trip was the longest ever made in a plane of the type.

Wilson made 36 stops en route, 33 voluntarily for refueling, as the gasoline capacity was but an hour and a half. His most dangerous forced landing, he said, occurred 60 miles northeast of El Paso, Tex., when engine trouble made it necessary to land in a creek bed.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

HOOVER OFF FOR TWO DAY TRIP AND THREE SPEECHES

Will Speak in Boston and at King's Mountain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—President Hoover left by special train late tonight on a trip in which he will visit both the north and south and in which he will make three addresses in two days. Tomorrow he will speak twice in Boston—first before the convention of the American Legion, and then before the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Heading south late in the afternoon, he will arrive at Kings Mountain, on the line between North and South Carolina, in time to speak Tuesday afternoon at the sesquicentennial celebration of the Battle of King's Mountain.

Not Directly Political.

While the President will make no direct appeal for support for the administration in the election, his speeches are regarded as a contribution to the Republican campaign. There is a close senatorial contest in Massachusetts, and he will appear in Boston before two unusually representative gatherings.

At King's Mountain the President may help by his presence the Republican cause in North Carolina, which he carried in 1928. The Republicans are seeking to hold two congressmen elected in 1928 and are making a fight for their senatorial nominee.

Avoided It at Cleveland.

The President while in Cleveland refused to be drawn into the Ohio senatorial fight and it is expected that he will pursue the same policy in Massachusetts and North Carolina. In Boston he will be luncheon guest of Gov. F. G. Allen, Republican nominee for reelection.

Mrs. Hoover is accompanying the President. Others in the party will include military and naval aides and George B. Akerson, secretary to the President, newspaper correspondents and photographers. The party will be back in Washington on Wednesday morning.

Governors of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee are expected to be at Kings Mountain where Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, will unveil a stone dedicated to the memory of Maj. Patrick Ferguson, the British commander, who was killed and is buried on the battlefield.

NAVAL SHAKEUP NEAR; PERSONNEL WILL BE REDUCED

Plans Call for Early Scrapping of Ships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Plans for a general shake up and reorganization of the United States fleet and naval shore establishments have been practically completed by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, it became known today.

Part of the reorganization of the navy operating plan will take place this year in order to make the naval establishment conform with the London treaty and the President's economy program while some of the changes will be deferred until next July.

Speed Scrapping of Ships.

Details of the steps that are in process or about to be taken have not been officially announced pending final action on the navy's retrenchment program by President Hoover. From high sources it was learned that the plans include not only cutting down of naval and marine personnel but a speeding up of the scrapping terms of the London pact. It was also reported in apparently authoritative circles today that orders already have been issued dismissing several hundred men at naval yards and shore stations along the Atlantic and gulf coasts.

Orders received at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, yesterday directing that two divisions of R-type submarines be sent at once to an Atlantic port was represented today as a part of the general move to reduce the number of commissioned ships. These vessels are due for scrapping under the terms of the London pact and the understanding is that these vessels will be laid up within the next few months as an economy move instead of keeping them in commission as long as permitted by the treaty terms.

Destroyers May Be Laid Up.

In addition to laying up submarines it is predicted that a number of destroyers are to be laid up. The fleet at present has 19 divisions of destroyers, constituting a total of 103 ships. Pressure to force the navy to cut down the number of these ships in commission has been brought on the navy department. This move was resisted by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, former chief of naval operations, on the ground it would interfere with the tactical training of the fleet.

The R-type ships leaving Pearl Harbor are old vessels of a design which the United States will not employ again. The navy has more than 90,000 tons of submarines. The treaty cuts this number to 52,700 tons.

Admiral Pratt is understood to take the position that with the commissioning of the first group of eight 10,000 ton cruisers the navy will be relatively more efficient even if it is cut in numbers by the removal of older vessels.

While the move for reorganization of the navy operating plan has been stimulated by Mr. Hoover's demand for economy, which contemplates reducing the navy's 1931 expenditures by close to $29,000,000, it is known that Admiral Pratt intended to effect several changes in the 1931 plan. In his last annual report as commander-in-chief of the United States fleet the admiral outlined certain changes which he considered desirable. The London treaty, setting new tonnage limits for the various categories of ships in the American fleet, also made a change of the fleet operating plan necessary.

Reports are the economy drive will leave the navy with from 2,500 to 3,500 less bluejackets and marines than are permitted by this year's appropriation bill. The final figure probably will be fixed, indirectly at least, by President Hoover.

TWO IDENTIFIED AS ROBBERS.

Willis Stevens, 1511 North Monticello avenue, and Arvid Peterson, 1746 North Lotus avenue, were identified yesterday following their arrest as the two men who robbed James Cody, 204 North Kolmar avenue, a truck driver, of $12 on Saturday.

TRAVELS FROM PARIS TO RENO TO GET DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., Oct. 5.—[U.P.]—Forced by the stringency of French law to come 7,000 miles from Paris to Reno for a divorce, a woman prominent in the society of the French capital yesterday was granted her decree.

She was Mrs. May Devereux Kurie of Paris, wife of Frank Marion Kurie, American mining man, and the niece of the late Arthur Bailly Blanchard, former United States minister to Haiti, and also a niece of the Vicomtesse Henri de Chasselle.

Her divorce was granted on grounds of mental cruelty and she was given permission to resume her maiden name of May de Longueville de Bucy.

Mrs. Kurie stated that she was unable to get a Paris divorce because of a French law regarding domicile, as her home under French law was the United States, where Kurie, her husband, was engaged in mining enterprises.

Mrs. Kurie plans to return to her native Paris.

IDLENESS FIRST ON LABOR'S LIST FOR A SOLUTION

Council Reports Issues for Convention.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A tentative program for the guidance of American labor was submitted today to delegates assembling for the 50th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in the form of the annual executive council report of William Green, its president, and associated officials.

The report dealt with means for alleviation and removal of unemployment causes and with effort to carry forward attainment of political objectives of unions; with the campaign to organize the south, and specific details of national policy toward immigration; judicial action in industrial disputes, and the approach of more intimate industrial association with enterprise and organization of other countries.

Blame Business for Depression.

"The outstanding economic fact of the last year is serious unemployment," the council said. "Business depression replaced a period of prosperity. Under our present business economy there have been frequent breakdowns due to failure to adjust production to markets and the inability of our credit system to meet such emergency. The responsibility for such breakdown rests squarely on business management.

"Industries and countries are interdependent. The last year has brought falling prices throughout the world and increasing unemployment everywhere. Commerce and markets are organized on a world-wide basis. Consequences of misjudgment are transmitted throughout the whole structure of every community. The responsibility resting on management is correspondingly grave."

In spite of the conditions this year the council cited studies which showed that 1921 and 1924 had been worse by labor. Infrequency of wage reductions now as compared with those years was a point cited.

Progress in 5 Day Week.

The progress made by unions in obtaining the five day work week was taken up. For the last year, it was estimated 532,894 members of such organizations, ranging in character from asbestos workers to weavers, were affected.

The council urged the support of legislation that would outlaw "contracts by which employers force employes to give up organization rights." It also urged "a concentrated drive for unionization of the south."

Favoring old age pension establishment by states and advocating careful check by unions of national immigration control, the council urged that "every member of organized labor become active in selecting candidates for congress."

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE ORDERS ASSAILED FROM TWO SOURCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—President Hoover today was confronted with protests from two different sources over the application of the civil service laws by his administration.

The National Civil Service Reform league petitioned him to modify or rescind the executive order on veteran preference issued by President Coolidge in 1929, while Senator A. W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] assailed a recent order by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown as a demand for postmasters "to get busy in the present campaign" to try to "save the party from impending defeat."

The league recommended that "at least a minimum degree of efficiency" be assured by requiring all veterans to earn a mark of 70 before receiving any preference; that this preference be limited to a credit of 10 points for disabled veterans and five points for other veterans; and that the 10 point credit be given only to those whose disabilities were incurred in actual war service.

Senator Barkley's attack on the Brown order was made through the Democratic national committee. The Kentucky senator quoted the postmaster general's order of Oct. 3, advising postmasters that they have a right to engage to a "reasonable extent" in political matters so long as they do not neglect their duties.

POLICE BATTLE ROYALIST FOES IN SPAIN; 1 KILLED

(Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.)

MADRID, Oct. 5.—At least one person is reported to have been killed and a number wounded when civil guards and a mob exchanged shots at point blank range in a street fight at Bilbao, where a general strike was called in protest against a royalist meeting called today by Antonio Primo de Rivera, a son of the late dictator, and Señor Maetzu, a former anarchist who became Gen. Primo de Rivera's ambassador to Argentina.

The crowd booed the late dictator's right hand men when they stepped from a train this morning, but the cocked hatted civil guards, whose standing orders are to fire on sight to stop public disturbances, as well as the regular police, who literally jammed Spain's second largest industrial town, kept the people from demonstrating.

Few Hear Royalists.

The scheduled speeches were delivered in the morning without incident, as Premier Berenguer had guaranteed. Although the fronton courts, were the meeting was held is capable of seating 5,000, it was only half filled, perhaps due to fear of an outbreak.

Meanwhile a sizeable crowd broke into a weapon shop and frantically started to arm themselves after having overturned several street cars. Civil guards on horseback, in formation, rode down on them, firing, and guards afoot ran up also, pumping their guns in an attempt to scatter the pilferers before they obtained much ammunition.

Mob Fires at Police.

For the first time in years the crowd, which was composed, it is said, of the toughest element of Bilbao, fired back. The police scattered them and arrested a number. It is estimated that 200 shots were fired.

Order was restored in the afternoon but strict vigilance is being maintained tonight. It is now feared that the strike, which was due to last only 24 hours, may continue.

LIVES AS AN INDIAN SINCE '64; BELIEVES SHE WAS KIDNAPED

Lawton, Okla., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Sain-Toh-Oddle-Goombi, despite her inability to speak a word of English and her present life among 53 Kiowa Indian descendants, is convinced she is the white Millie Durgan, stolen by red-skinned raiders when she was 18 months old. She has appealed to the white man for aid in finding her rightful people.

The strange tale of the pale face infant, kidnaped in 1864, is vouched for by Harry A. Stroud, secretary of the Comanche County Historical society.

In that year, 66 winters ago, Kiowa and Comanche warriors fell upon an isolated settlement on the Brazos river in Texas. Ten women and children, including Millie Dorgan, were abducted.

Tracing the story by Kiowa picture history, Mr. Stroud said many details corroborating belief that Mrs. Goombi was the missing infant, had been found.

Mother Poisons Son, 12, Then Commits Suicide

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A Meadowlands, Minn., mother tonight poisoned her 12 year old son and then drank the remainder of the potion to end her life in a downtown Duluth hotel. She is Mrs. Paul Sramek, about 50, the wife of a land agent of the Duluth and Iron Range railroad and the Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

Wounds Brother While Cleaning Gun in Home

Zigmund Zelmanski, 19 years old, 10523 Edbrooke avenue, was seriously wounded in the groin last evening when he was accidentally shot by his brother, Klement, while the latter was cleaning a revolver. The shooting occurred in Klement's home at 106 East 110th street.

"nice fellas" these professors

A professor of a famous Eastern University came to us in the course of a nation-wide survey of shoe stores. We gave him the facts and figures about our business. After he had summarized his facts he revealed our score. We will reveal it to you: TURNOVER—(The frequency with which our stock is completely renewed.) "very high"; MARGIN—(Mark-up, or what we charge you over the actual cost of the shoes.) "very low"; SYSTEM of STOCK CONTROL—(Keeping our stocks always in an up to date and fresh condition.) "perfect"; RANGE of STYLES—(We have hundreds of varied styles in all manner of fine leathers and lasts and sizes.) "very wide"; COVERAGE of APPEALS—(We not only carry the famous "super-comfort" and "foot-doctor" shoes, but morning, afternoon, evening, and sports styles.) "excellent"; BUYING JUDGMENT—(Our ability to select shoes when they are "high" fashions and at prices magnificently low.) "high score." The sum total of the professor's conclusions indicates that it would be impossible to find a more satisfactory men's store in the country. Thousands of Chicago men could have told him the same thing. They must think so or we wouldn't be doing the largest volume of any single men's shoe store in America. Does that rate a call from you?

MAYOR WILL AID FAHERTY PLAN TO SPEED SUBWAYS

Plans to Attend Hearing on Assessment.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

President Michael J. Faherty of the board of local improvements is reported to have convinced Mayor Thompson that it would be advantageous to him and his administration to get the credit for starting subways in Chicago. Accordingly the mayor is said to have agreed to be at the meeting of the board of local improvements tomorrow, when it is scheduled to pass a resolution providing for the construction of the State street subway by special assessment. If present, it is expected that Mayor Thompson "will make a few remarks," according to one of his close friends.

The passage of this resolution is a prerequisite to the holding of a public hearing on Oct. 17, which was announced several days ago by Faherty.

Engineering Issues Pending.

The plans for the subway, a task which was assumed by the council local transportation committee and a staff of engineers and lawyers, have not been completed. A number of essential questions have not been settled by the board of advisory engineers. Among these questions are the width of the subway in State street, south of Madison street; whether utilities will be placed in the ground or in galleries, and if in galleries, their size and location; the grade of the subway under the river and the location of the west side connection with the State street subway.

Decision on other important features are dependent upon these decisions. If the wires and pipes of utilities are to be placed in the ground above the subway, it will have to be deeper than if the wires and pipes were placed in galleries in the subway proper. If galleries are decided upon, shall they be placed on the mezzanine floor? If put there, will they not block entrance of car riders to stores along State street at the lower level? If they are placed on the subway level proper, then how wide can the platforms be made to accommodate trains on four tracks? Still other questions are involved.

See Legal Error.

It is said that the subway lawyers, Walter L. Fisher, George A. Mason, Joseph J. Sullivan, and Allan T. Gilbert, insist that it will be a serious legal mistake to have a public hearing before these questions are settled by the engineers.

On the toher hand Faherty has a report on subways which he claims contains sufficient information upon which to pass a resolution and hold a public hearing. The advisory engineers have consented to hold daily sessions to make decisions, the lack of which is generally thought to be holding up the preparation of final plans.

The city hall report is that Mayor Thompson is almost ready to back the position taken by Faherty. The engineers have been notified of the board meeting and have been invited to be present. It is also expected that the transit lawyers will attend.

Plans Await Meeting.

"I know that the mayor wants subway construction started as soon as possible," said one of his friends, "and he has confidence in Faherty to get things going, if he is permitted. I have heard that the mayor is willing to give Faherty a helping hand.

"I do not anticipate that the mayor will lead off at the meeting. He probably will let the engineers and lawyers discuss the matter with Faherty, and if it then appears that the engineers and lawyers will delay Faherty longer than he deems reasonable, the mayor will express his opinions in the open in contrast with the executive conferences held heretofore."

This friend of the mayor insisted that Faherty and the administration can take the job away from the council committee and the advisory engineers.

HALF CLOSED, HALF OPEN, MOVIE OBEYS SUNDAY BLUE LAWS

Orange, N. J., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The shadow of a 1750 blue law kept 900 seats in the Palace motion picture theater vacant here today while the remaining 1,200 seats were filled. The reason was that Orange, for the first time in its history, has permitted Sunday motion picture shows, while East Orange, true to the mores of the past, will not allow them. The vacant seats were on the East Orange side of the town line. Those who patronized the theater accepted the new freedom quietly, never verging toward license. They bought their tickets from the Orange window of the box office, entered the theater through the Orange doors and kept clear of the marked off seats on the East Orange side.

100,000 STAND IN RAIN AS SWEDEN HONORS ANDREE

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Rain drummed out a requiem tonight as the bodies of Salomon Auguste Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Frankel returned to their native land aboard the gunboat Svensksund after lying lost for 33 years in Arctic fastness.

On the same boat which took the intrepid balloonists out of Spitzbergen on the start of their breat adventure in 1897, the trio of phantom explorers returned today to receive the homage of a nation which mourned their great end, from king to humblest citizen.

Twenty guns greeted the gunboat in national salute as it neared the quay with half masted flags. As the echoes of the salute died away in the solid hills hereabout Swedish chanters took up a refrain of ancient Viking songs.

100,000 Meet Bodies.

More than 100,000 persons lined the streets about the quay, standing during a drenching downpour with heads uncovered as King Gustav paid his official call abroad the Svsenkund, putting wreaths on all three coffins.

Muted massed bands then took up the dirges as a cortège was formed and the coffins were lifted reverently to the shoulders of Swedish sailors and the march to the cathedral started.

Archbishop Delivers Oration.

Inside the Storkyrian cathedral catafalques had been erected to receive the bodies. Representatives of all Stockholm academic societies attended the church service and led long files of mourners past the coffins.

The funeral oration was delivered by Archbishop Soederblom and the remains were received on behalf of the government by Prime Minister Ekman. Norway was represented and wreathes were placed on the coffins for the sister Scandinavian nation. The bodies will lie in state until Tuesday when they will be cremated.

WGN IS SEEKING MORE POWER IN MIDWEST ZONE

Eight Stations Competing for 2 Assignments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—With the aim of affording consistently dependable service to rural listeners station W-G-N, owned and operated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, tomorrow will press before the federal radio commission its request for use of the maximum broadcasting power of 50,000 watts.

Eight of the foremost stations in the middle west—one-half of which are in Chicago—are pitted against one another for the two remaining "super power" assignments available to the fourth radio zone. The hearings on these eight applications begin tomorrow before Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost of the commission and are expected to consume more than a week.

Prior Claim Set Up.

Represented by Louis G. Caldwell, former general counsel of the commission, and a partner in the Chicago firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, THE TRIBUNE station will endeavor to prove its prior claim for the increased power, should the commission elect to choose between the applicant stations.

One of the pioneer stations of the country W-G-N has an undisputed record of public service. Mr. Caldwell claims. He is prepared to introduce engineering testimony to the effect that the requested increase in power from 25,000 to 50,000 watts will enable the station more effectively to render a public service by spreading its programs over a greater geographical area.

Number Cut to Twenty.

The hearings are the outgrowth of recent action by the commission restricting the number of cleared channels upon which stations of the maximum power may operate to twenty. There are 40 cleared channels set aside for the exclusive evening operation of high powered stations, and these are distributed equally among the five radio zones into which the country is divided.

From two of the four cleared channels available to the fourth zone for 50,000 watt transmitters, stations WENR and WLS, both in Chicago, and station KMOX, at St. Louis, already are assigned. WENR and KMOX are using 50,000 watts power at present, while WLS is authorized by the commission to install a transmitter of this output.

Two More Available.

Thus only two additional channels are available for this power and the eight application stations under the commission's ruling are forced into competition for them.

Combating the application of station W-G-N is the Chicago Federation of Labor station, WCFL. Although now restricted to daylight operation on the 970 kilocycle channel with 1,500 watts power, it has applied for the channel of 720 kilocycles occupied by W-G-N and seeks also the maximum power of 50,000 watts with unlimited time. In other words, it is attempting to oust THE TRIBUNE station from its position in the broadcast spectrum.

Other Chicago Applications.

Other Chicago stations which are applicants for the maximum power are WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News station, which now uses 50,000 watts; and WBBM, of the Atlas company, Inc., which now uses four-sevenths time with 25,000 watts, sharing the 770 kilocycle channel with station KFAB at Lincoln, Neb. This latter station, however, also is applying for an increase in power to 50,000 watts along with a request for full time operation which, if granted, would mean the removal of WBBM from the channel. WBBM in turn has applied for full time.

ITALIANS REJECT FRENCH PLAN FOR MESS OF POTTAGE

Fear Treaty Barter in Economic Union.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 5.—The Italian press is clearly displeased with the proposal by the Paris paper Le Petit Parisien that the way to an understanding between Italy and France is to be found in some sort of an economic coöperation.

The idea that Italy may renounce her political and national claims on the basis of what she considers her rights resulting from signed treaties and long standing arrangements in order to get economic compensations and advantages, appears to be repulsive to most Italian papers.

Echoing the general feeling, the Fascist paper Il Tevere of Rome writes editorially:

"As no economic arrangement can suppress the fact that the centuries old conflict between France and Germany is still as alive today as ever in the past, so no economic proposal can suppress the reality of a systematic political and national enmity on France's part against Italy.

"This is witnessed by the French rejection of all Italian proposals for a naval settlement, the building of formidable fortifications along the Italian frontier, the French solidarity with the entente and Jugo-Slavia in connection with and against Italy and Italian affairs and interests.

"Such realities are sufficient to make Italy very suspicious that an economic proposal is only a diversion to gain time; but even admitting the French good faith and wishing to discuss the matter on its purely economic merits, by which way can a Franco-Italian economic coöperation be effected?

"From whatever angle the matter is looked upon it is always found that the wealth of the two nations consists, on France's side in capital and prime material; on Italy's side, in laboring men and technicians.

"Were it possible to unite these forces there would be no limit to the production of peaceful wealth and the conquests of the two countries; but France's policy of denationalization of Italian citizens who have helped her to get rich, both inside France and in her colonies, cannot be accepted by Italy, who does not forget Tunisia, which had been colonized by Italians long before a single Frenchman set foot there or a French protectorate was set up.

"At this point the French people will object that we abandoned the economic field to enter the political one."

PAIR STAY IN AIR 7½ HOURS IN GLIDER CONTEST

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The first glider contest in the United States ended here tonight. The contest, which began Sept. 21, drew pilots from Germany and all over the United States. It was held under the auspices of the National Glider association.

Winner of first prize of $250 for duration flights was Albert Hastings, Los Angeles. He stayed aloft 7 hours 43 minutes 11 seconds. Warren Eaton, Norwich, N. Y., was a close second, 7 hours 21 minutes 38 seconds, for a prize of $175. Hastings was awarded the Edward S. Evans trophy for 1930.

Wolf Hirth, famous German glider pilot, made the longest flight, 33 miles, but under the rules of the donor of the prize all awards went to Americans, so A. C. Haller of Pittsburgh, who flew 21.1 miles, won $250, and Jack O'Meara of Akron received $175 for a 10.43 mile flight.

Barographs of four contestants must be checked before the winner of the altitude contest can be decided. The four are Eaton, O'Meara, Hirth, and Wallace Backus of New York City.

Wallace Franklin of Ypsilanti, Mich., won first prize, $75, for landing his glider three inches from a mark. Backus was second, landing five inches away. He won $50.

GERMAN STEEL HELMETS JOIN FASCIST BANNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBLENZ Germany, Oct. 5.—The Steel Helmets will support the Fascists in their "fight for freedom," it was revealed today when the Steel Helmet leader, Franz Seldte, addressed 120,000 of his followers and declared "the national victory of the general election was also a victory of the Steel Helmets."

Herr Seldte declared that the Steel Helmets could only fight and again fight until Germany had reacquired her necessary space for existence."

The march past of the Steel Helmets occupied six hours, the demonstrators waving 6,000 banners of the old imperial colors of black, white and red. It was also announced that the former crown prince had become an honorary member of the Steel Helmet organization.

Warns of Danger From Indigestion

Stop Gas, Belching, Pain. Threaten Other Serious, Painful Troubles—End Quick with New ACIDINE

Burning acid stomach, gnawing pain, before or after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness, if neglected, often lead quickly to other serious and more painful troubles, says a well-known authority. Don't fool with things that don't give the right results. Ask your druggist today for ACIDINE, a wonderful new prescription which is now being prescribed by many physicians. Instantly stops gas and pain. Costs only a few cents. Get ACIDINE today and say good-bye to acid stomach torture.

ACIDINE is entirely different from other known stomach medicines. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on starchy foods, which cause so much stomach distress. It liquefied 800 times its own weight of such foods in only 30 minutes! Five other scientific ingredients in ACIDINE neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this wonderful scientific combination to end acid stomach trouble.

Don't risk dangerous and more painful troubles. Get ACIDINE from any druggist today. Watch pain, gas stop like a flash! Eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed.

LUTHERANS MAY FORMULATE NEW DIVORCE POLICY

International Meeting Opens Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Rights of the Christian conscientious objector to military service, divorce, status of women in the official life of the church and theological education will be leading subjects of the seventh biennial convention of the United Lutheran church of America, which opens here Tuesday.

About 1,000 delegates from the United States and Canada are expected for the sessions at the Schroeder hotel and Epiphany church.

A policy is expected to be formulated for the conduct of Lutheran pastors in cases of divorce and remarriage and admission to the church of divorced persons. At the 1928 convention in Erie, Pa., action on recognizing desertion as a ground for divorce was postponed. Adultery is the only ground now recognized.

The advisability of reducing the number of seminaries and distributing them more evenly over the country is to be discussed in connection with theological training.

Another problem is the proposed unity of hitherto unaffiliated Lutheran synods in the United States and Canada. There are seventeen organizations with an approximate membership of 4,224,000. The proposal is to bring these sects into closer relationship without destroying their individual identities.

SEN. LA FOLLETTE TO TAKE STUMP FOR DEMOCRATS

Will Speak in West; State Chiefs Meet Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Although Philip F. La Follette received the Republican nomination for governor by more than 127,000 majority, he plans an active campaign for the whole state ticket but in this final drive he will be without the help of his brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette.

The senator will leave within ten days for the west to help elect J. P. Costigan, Democratic nominee for United States senator from Colorado, and United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, also a Democrat. It will be the first time that "Young Bob" has taken the stump for Democratic aspirants to national office.

Hunts New Territory.

Philip La Follette will ask the Republican state central committee, which convenes here Tuesday at the call of Chairman Herman L. Ekern, to plan a thorough campaign in every section of Wisconsin in the next three weeks. He wants arrangements made for him to speak in districts in which he did not appear in the primary drive.

Indications are that Rose Meyers, a farmer's wife of Sauk City, will be selected as secretary of the state central committee and that the assistant secretaryship will go to J. K. Kyle of Whitewater. Mrs. Meyers was one of the most active women in the recent primary campaign in behalf of Philip La Follette. She spoke in many sections of the state. Mr. Kyle was the office manager of the campaign.

Take Stump This Week.

No stones will be left unturned in the campaign. While there is every indication that Mr. La Follette will be elected governor, he desires to have as thorough a campaign made for the state ticket as was made in the primary, and announcements were made that Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber, Attorney General John Reynolds, and State Treasurer Solomon Levitan will be on the stump with Mr. La Follette before the week-end. Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, still is convalescing in a Madison hospital and may not be able to participate actively.

Senator Blaine is planning on conducting postoffice investigations in Chicago while the state campaign is in progress in Wisconsin.

CENSUS SHOWS TEXAS HAS 59,974 MORE FARMS THAN IN 1920

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—With 24 counties increasing by more than 100 per cent in number of farms in the last decade, Texas, biggest state of all, hung up a Lone Star record in the 1930 census.

A census bureau report today showed Texas as having 496,007 farms as against 436,033 in 1930, a numerical increase of 59,974, or 13.8 per cent.

No other state has reported so large a numerical increase, and none approached Texas in great gains of individual counties. Only four states—Louisiana, New Mexico, Iowa and Michigan—remain to report.

LEWIS AND DOAK URGED FOR LABOR POST IN CABINET

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Selection of a new secretary of labor is receiving considerable attention from President Hoover, who has several names before him, including John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and W. N. Doak of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Mr. Hoover is prepared to make known his selection shortly after the November election should Secretary Davis be successful in his race for the senate from Pennsylvania.

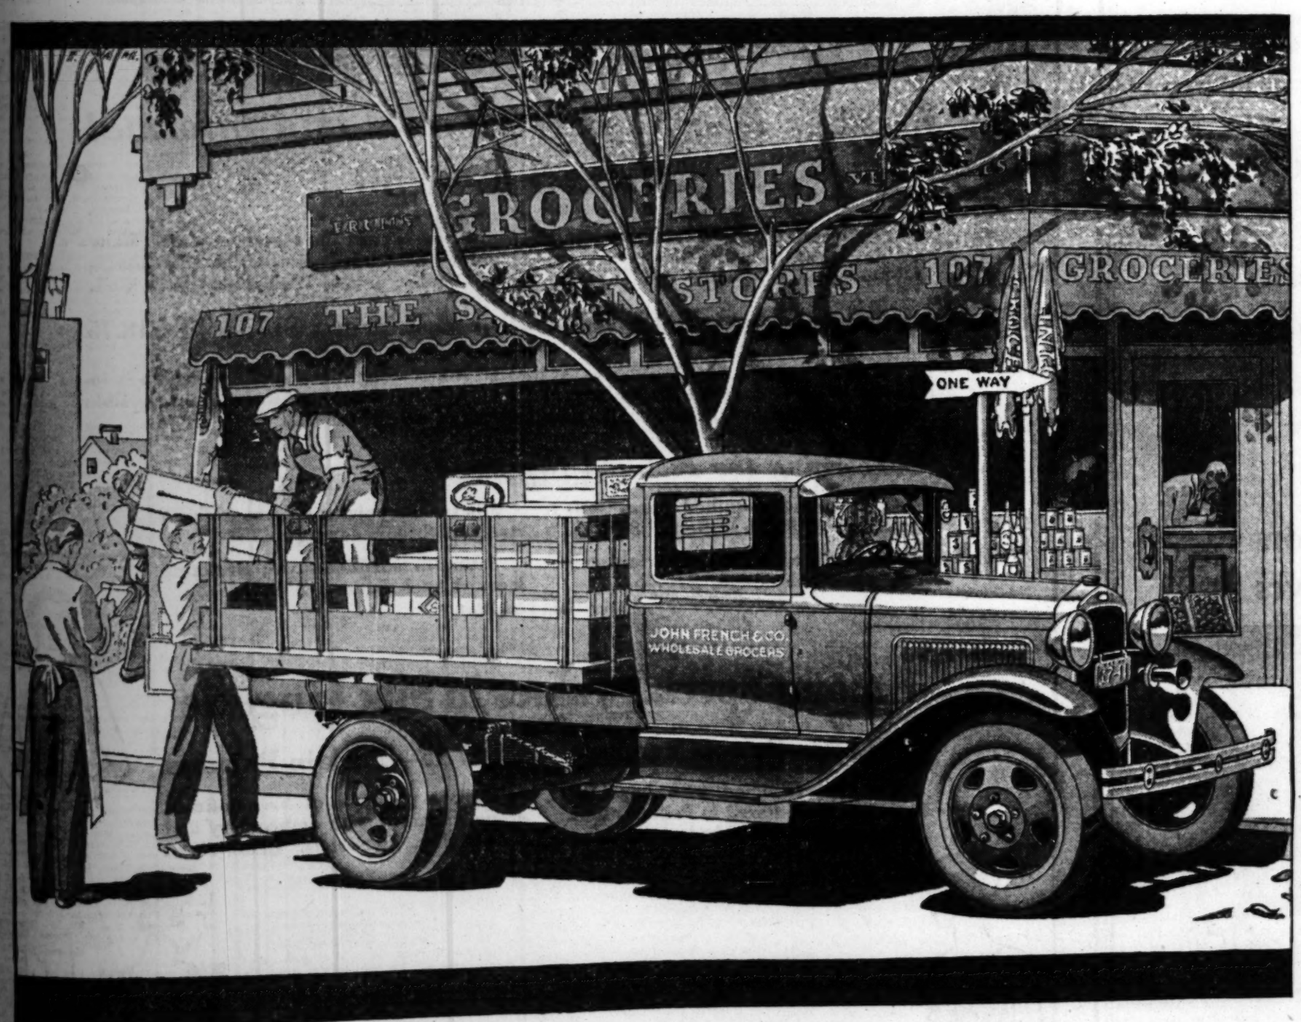
In many businesses

he Ford Truck earns a place



IN ALMOST every business where hauling plays a part, the Ford truck is giving faithful transportation at an unusually low cost. Because of its strength, reliability, long life, safety and excellent service, its low first cost makes it a remarkable value. This fact becomes more evident through the economy of the truck in daily work.

One of the most important factors contributing to its reliability and low cost of operation is the rugged simplicity of the operating mechanism. The ignition, lubrication, cooling and fuel systems are excellent examples of this feature.

Strength and simplicity of the parts of the Ford truck materially reduce the cost of maintenance, and correspondingly increase its reliability for day in and day out service.

Ford trucks are so designed that they can be economically adapted to a large number of businesses. It is possible to procure the Ford truck with a wide variety of bodies, in two different chassis lengths, with single or dual wheels, with open or closed cabs, and with high or low rear axle gear ratios.

For every business need there is a Ford haulage unit of high value that is low in first cost and low in cost of operation.

The Cubs reverted to primitive methods yesterday to get the jump in their series which is rapidly developing into a tournament for citrus fruit growers. The second place team of the Heydler circuit literally loosened the bricks in the walls of Wrigley field, routed the peerless Ted Lyons, and with the help of Pat Malone added their third triumph in the postseason affair with the White Sox. The score was 6 to 4, and while it was being put together 45,104 patrons cheered, razzed, and tossed lemons, oranges, or grape fruit as they saw fit.

Another victory for the Cubs will put the show, with the title and the big end of the purse in their possession. The Sox need two wins before they can reward the faithful who for three days have been trooping across town to prove that the old north side spirit, so evident in palmier days, isn't yet dead. It merely needs something worth shouting about.

Lyons in Trouble at Start.

Most of the Cub attack wasn't vented on Lyons, but he felt most of it. They got him on the ropes almost before he started. Six hits, two of them [illegible] over the crowd, netted the National leaguers three runs in the first two innings. Lyons was himself for a short spell after this, but a couple of fellows hit the wall for doubles in the fifth. And between the doubles was a homer by Hack Wilson, the target for the citrus operatives. Lyons went away to let a string of fellow pitchers finish, and his successors did well enough. They avoided extra base hits and also any more runs, barring one with which the north siders completed their scoring in the seventh.

Malone's performance, while impressive, bogged down in the middle. For a time he was well nigh invincible. In the fifth he went back slightly, and a couple of pale hosed performers scored. Pat slipped some more in the sixth and another pair of Comiskey [illegible] reached the plate. Then he grew tough. He "dusted off" Watwood, and in the last three innings had no trouble. During these two sessions he fanned six of eleven batters facing him. Altogether Pat piled up eight strikeouts.

CARRYING INJURED PLAYER FROM FIELD

Watwood in Hospital with Skull Fracture

Johnny Watwood, center fielder and first baseman of the White Sox, was in the Mercy hospital this morning suffering from a fracture of the skull as a result of being hit by a pitched ball in the sixth inning of yesterday's city series game between the Cubs and the Sox at Wrigley field. His physician, Dr. Philip Cruser, said he did not consider it likely that the injury would be fatal.

JOHNNY WATWOOD

Watwood, a left handed batter, was struck on the right side of the head by a fast ball thrown by Pat Malone, Cub pitcher. The Sox star apparently misjudged the ball and made no effort to dodge it, the ball striking him just above the ear and knocking him to the ground unconscious.

He was carried to the White Sox dugout by fellow players and regained consciousness within a short time but was unable to continue playing. The injury was not thought to be serious at the time and he was taken to his apartment at the Southmoor hotel, 67th street and Stony Island avenue. Later, however, Dr. Cruser, who was called to attend him, removed him to the hospital, where an X-ray photograph showed that his skull was fractured.

Watwood was still conscious this morning and his condition was regarded as good. Dr. Cruser said Watwood would be confined to the hospital for several days, at least, and will not be able to take part in the remaining games of the city series.

Watwood, who is 23 years old, is one of the most promising of the younger players on the White Sox roster. During the past season he alternated between the outfield and first base and showed promise of developing into a star at either position. His batting average for the season was .303.

Well, You Loyal Fans, Series Is Duel to Death from Now On

BY CONNIE PEGLER STREET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—Fans, have you ever known what it was to absolutely make up your mind that you are determined to do something and not take "no" for an answer, come what may? That is the way my boys are tonight, now that the world series is tied into a veritable stalemate with two contests won apiece for each contender for the most highly treasured bauble within the realm of the premier American sport.

It is just the same tonight as it would be if we were just starting the series now for two games out of three instead of four games out of seven, and one thing I will say to you, straight from the shoulder, is that I think that deep down in my heart our boys are determined to go in there with plenty of the old pepper, as you call it, and win for the great loyal body of fans. You deserve it, and we are going to try our hardest and give it to you, and there you have the secret of the way we feel about the situation in the most crucial crisis of our career in the national game.

How Can You Do It?

From now on it will be nip and tuck and the d——l take the hindmost, each club for itself with no excuses for the defeated aggregation. I am trying to not give any impression that we think these world series games are merely ordinary ball games. Sometimes I see where the thoughtless make statements to this effect, but I want you to know right here and now, folks, that when you are in a world series every nerve is tightened up and victory is the greatest ambition of each and every one concerned.

How any one can calmly state that the world series is just another series is beyond the understanding of any true blooded American with the glorious traditions of the classic uppermost in their heart at this time.

In writing up my article exclusively for the daily [name your paper] to give the fans of [name your city] the complete secret inside dope on the classic, I have tried hard to be fair to our opponents in all respects wherever I could, but I do not think any one who considers the correct facts can have any doubt which is the better club. You take, for instance, our pitching and compare it with their pitching and you are bound to notice that, except for some unfortunate breaks, there was practically no comparison.

That Different Light.

The umpiring, I must say, has not been as perfect as I would like to see it in any important classic of this kind, but I do not intend to further discuss that, because I never want to let it be said that I could not take the breaks just as they come without running around complaining about the umpires.

Another thing, however, that may interest the dyed-in-the-wool faithful fans is that the light differs in some parks from others, and if you are accustomed to the light in your home park you may have trouble adjusting your eyes to a different kind of light somewhere else. Of course, there is nothing any deader than yesterday's ball game, by which I mean today's ball game after it has been played, but sometimes it will give the fans an intimate understanding of just what strategy is if they can sit beside the manager on the bench as the tide of battle flames around him in kaleidoscopic suddenness and victory sits on the lap of the gods.

In today's game there were several times when the players had to signal to Cy Rigler, the umpire, to move to one side or other, as he was blocking the light standing out near second base. Now, this may seem a small thing, but when an umpire is so big that he blots out the light of old Sol, making it necessary for the players to bat in almost pitch darkness, it seems to me the National league ought to make some other arrangements in regard to the umpiring. I just mention these facts because they are facts which the fans ought to know in fairness to the public, but not to make any excuses.

Deserve World of Credit.

In fact, I think any team that fights such a fighting, stellar bunch of determined athletes as those to a standstill in four games is deserving of a world of credit, for they are a mighty good ball club, fans, despite my contention that we are distinctly superior anyway you look at it in a fair light.

Well, to look on to lighter side of things, I have been very much amused in a subtle way about the criticism with regards to there not being any band in Philadelphia park. Now, what I have always said is that music is music and baseball is baseball and if people must have band music they ought to join the army or go to the theater, but if it is baseball that they have uppermost in their hearts, then it doesn't make any difference whether there is a twenty-five piece band or not even a jew's-harp.

Personally, I have never found that having a band or not having one affects the players one iota, so the proposition is always strictly a matter of

UPSETS FEW AS KING FOOTBALL TAKES THRONE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Major football engagements last Saturday, the first week-end of the season when practically every eleven in the country was in action, offered few upsets to advance predictions. However Washington State's victory over the University of California at Berkley, 16 to 0, stamps the eleven from Pullman as one of the strongest on the Pacific coast.

Last year California won the annual scrap, 14 to 0, and Saturday's result undoubtedly will force the Trojans of Southern California into extra practice sessions, because this week Howard Jones takes his team north for a second successive important tilt on the Washington State schedule. Last year U. S. C. defeated the Pullman eleven, 27 to 7.

Vanderbilt, which won from Minnesota, 33 to 7, in the south's only victory in a quartet of major engagements in the central west, did not turn an unexpected card. Gopher fans have had no occasion to believe the inexperienced Minnesota eleven could cope with the more advanced training of the veterans from Nashville, Tenn. Fritz Crisler and Tad Wieman have not had sufficient time to train their men in a new system.

South Loses Three.

Baylor's defeat by Purdue, 20 to 7; Northwestern's victory over Tulane, 14 to 0, and Notre Dame's last period win from Southern Methodist, 20 to 14, were the three reverses the central states tendered the south. Purdue and Notre Dame were favored in the predictions, but Northwestern and Tulane had been touted as the battle of the day. However, Capt. Hank Bruder's alertness brought a first touchdown after interception of a pass, and a second score from short passes and straight plays fairly established the Wildcats as favorites in the Big Ten race.

Tulane was Southern conference champion last year, and although its back field material was inexperienced, a veteran line was thought capable of stopping Northwestern. Not only did the line fall, but the Purple forwards proved their strength on defense. That Northwestern could defeat the Greenies with three weeks of practice spells trouble for Ohio State when Sam Willaman brings his team to Dyche stadium next Saturday.

Although Purdue lost two great backs and several linemen from its championship team, Saturday's victory was a fitting start and will send the Boilermakers to Michigan on the weekend with confidence in themselves and their new head coach, Noble Kizer.

Michigan State, by holding the Wolverines to a scoreless tie last Saturday, has proved that Michigan does not have exceptional material this year. Perhaps Harry Kipke and his assistants will have the team working later on as they did last year, but the eleven apparently is not in top shape for the important Big Ten opener with Purdue.

Mustangs' Passing Sensational.

The forward passing Mustangs from Southern Methodist provided a sensational contest at South Bend. Notre Dame played raggedly on the offense save for a drive which started in the third period and was halted just after the start of the fourth quarter when Joe Savoldi fumbled seven yards from a winning touchdown. Otherwise the Irish attack lacked rhythm, undoubtedly due to the replacements in the line which last year aided in Notre Dame's nine consecutive victories and produced a national title.

There were occasions, however, when the line functioned, notably when Schwartz plunged through tackle for Notre Dame's second and third scores. The players blocked well in the open field, and this superiority in fundamentals made possible Joe Savoldi's 98 yard run from kickoff for the first Irish touchdown. The game

HELEN MOODY WINS PACIFIC COAST SINGLES

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 5.—(AP)—National stars made a clean sweep of senior Pacific coast titles at Berkeley Tennis club today with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and George Lott, Davis cup star from Chicago, taking the major honors.

Mrs. Moody defeated Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco, in the finals of the women's singles, 6-3, 6-1. She paired with Lott, who won the singles title yesterday, to capture the mixed doubles crown. They won from Edith Cross of San Francisco and Wilmer Allison, Davis cup player, from Austin, Tex., 6-2, 7-5.

Allison and John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., won the doubles championship by beating Cranston Holman and Gerald Stratford of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

Referee—James Durfee [Ohio State]. Umpire—E. A. Sauer [Dayton]. Head linesman—H. Dell [Ohio State].

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cardinals professional football team stopped the Spartans here this afternoon before 6,500 fans, battling the Ohioans to a scoreless tie. The Chicagoans checked Portsmouth in the first quarter on the Chicago 3 yard line.

Ernie Nevers and Bullet Baker, injured in the first half, remained out of the line up when the third period started, but they were rushed back into the game in the last quarter when it appeared that the Cardinals had a chance to score.

Rose, with a spectacular dash for 27 yards around right end, made the longest run for the Cardinals, while the ball carrying and ground gaining of Bennett, McClaim, Lumpkin, and Glassgow featured the Portsmouth attack.

Dr. David Jones, owner of the Cardinals, was booed by the fans between halves when he filed a strenuous kick on several so-called Portsmouth offside plays and also on the manner in which the Ohioans chose to intercept passes.

Both teams resorted to straight football throughout the game with the ball remaining near midfield in the first half. In the final two periods the ball was in Chicago territory much of the time.

BEARS, 20; RED JACKETS, 0

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Led by Bronko Nagurski, with two touchdowns, and Red Grange with one, the Chicago Bears scored a 20 to 0 victory over the Minneapolis Red Jackets in a National professional football league game here today.

Nagurski scored the Bears' first touchdown in the first period. The other touchdowns were scored in the third.

PACKERS, 14; GIANTS, 7

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers carried on toward a second national league football championship by defeating Benny Friedman's New York Giants here this afternoon, 14 to 7, before 12,000 fans.

Both teams uncorked a spirited offense and the ball was in the air most of the time with Friedman or Red Dunn on the throwing end.

There was no scoring in the first quarter, but the second was hardly under way when Dunn zipped a short toss to Tom Nash, former Georgia All-American end, who dashed for a touchdown. Dunn kicked goal.

The Giants came back with a series of passes that took the ball into Packer territory. The Giants were stopped for three downs, but on the fourth attempt Friedman hurled the ball to Sedbrook and the little back scampered across the goal line for the first touchdown that has been made against the Packers this season. Friedman kicked goal.

Starting the fourth quarter, the Packers received a punt on the 15 yard line. Two rushes netted a first down and then Dunn shot a 20 yard pass to Johnny Blood, who sidestepped

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—Jess Haines, sustained these last four years by the memory of how he shut out the Yankees in 1926, stirred up a new batch of sweet memories this afternoon by giving the Philadelphia Athletics an impressive spanking, 3 to 1, on a diet of four hits. Only one of these came after the first inning and it was an infield scratch. Jess' main victim was no less a personage than the great Lefty Grove, though Jimmy Dykes was the big chump of the afternoon.

Dykes made a bad throw on what should have been the third out in the fourth inning and the Cards were quick to take advantage of the break. The error was directly responsible for the winning run and another one followed before the great distress could be abated.

Grove Allows 5 Hits.

Grove allowed only five hits, two in the third which tied the score, one with two out in the fourth, and two more in that inning after Dykes' blowup.

Today's Cardinal victory evened the series at 2 to 2, and no matter what happens in the contest here tomorrow, the two nines must journey back to Philadelphia to conclude the show on Wednesday or Thursday.

The National league entry has not taken two games in a world series since these same Red Birds did it in 1926. Today's National league triumph was the third for the league in the last 17 played and the second in eight played by the Cardinals.

A's Still Slight Favorites.

When the Cardinals returned to St. Louis Friday, after taking two whippings in Philadelphia, odds as high as 20 to 1 were being offered against them in the series. Tonight the A's still were favorites because of the necessity of returning to Philadelphia, but the margin was slight.

Tomorrow should afford another great pitcher's battle, for George Earnshaw will be back for his second win and Burleigh Grimes will be out for revenge for the socking he took in the series opener, when he held the A's to five hits, all of which matured into runs.

Haines' pitching was not his only personal accomplishment, for his single, following Charley Gelbert's triple, drove in the tying run in the third inning.

Gelbert Is Batting Star.

Gelbert, batting eighth in the Cardinal lineup, was the batting star of the afternoon, for his single in the fourth drove in the third St. Louis run and finished the job of taking away what little zip there was in the A's after Dykes' blunder.

Simmons made half the Athletics' four hits, a single which drove in the champions' lone run in the first inning and a scratch infield single in the third which came to nothing when Gelbert did a nice job to start a double play. This second hit of Al's was the last made off Haines.

The game started with Bishop bouncing a single off Bottomley's glove. Max went to second on Dykes' sacrifice bunt. Cochrane fouled to Adams, then Bishop got to third on a wild pitch and scored when Simmons singled to right—the only out-ficulty was in distance. They didn't solve the problem of getting them over or against the fence. Of twelve clouts off Malone only two were doubles which sailed past Wilson and Stephenson. On the other hand, half of the Cubs' ten hits off Lyons alone were for extra corners. Three were doubles which hit the wall in left. One went into crowd in the same sector. The other was Mr. Hack's four sack smash which was his way of expressing appreciation for the cocktail ingredients showered on him by persons suspected of being Sox adherents.

Bruins Knock Ball Over and Against Fence.

Before being introduced to a series of sound whacks which led to two Cub runs in the first inning, Lyons fanned Blair, the leadoff batter. English started the rumpus immediately. He doubled into the left field overflow crowd. Cuyler flattened Lyons' first pitch for a single over Kerr, English scoring. Wilson, after the citrus had been removed from the vicinity of the plate, forced Cuyler on a grounder to Kerr. Stephenson rammed a single to center. Hartnett hit the left field bricks for a two bagger, and under ground rules Wilson was permitted to score but Stevie had to stop at third. The session terminated with Jolley backing up to the ropes for Grimm's fly.

Jolley's Double Wasted.

Mr. Jolley made the Sox rooters identify themselves by their yells when he opened the second inning with a double over Wilson's head, but the big fly chaser progressed only as far as third, which happened because of a sacrifice fly. Then the Cubs gave Lyons another overhauling in the home half, but only one scored despite two hits and a pass. Bell started it with a single and Malone sacrificed. Blair was tossed out, and English walked. Cuyler let two balls go past and on the next pitch singled to left, Bell racing to the plate. This brought up Wilson, the lemon magnet, but Hack could do nothing more violent than tap gently to Lyons.

Both factions made threats without accomplishing anything in the shape of runs in the third. The Sox had begun with Kamm beating out a slow hopper to Bell. Lyons fanned, Kerr poked into a forceout, and Watwood was tossed out by Malone. Stephenson started the Cubs' portion with a single to left. Hartnett cracked the first pitch, and the ball shot out in the direction of the flag pole in right. The speedy Reynolds scooted along the wire fence and consumed the ball. Grimm then lined to Kamm and Stevie was doubled off first base.

Malone Slows Down.

Two singles in the Sox fourth provided a hint that Malone was slowing down from his early pace. He dodged trouble in this instance, but couldn't keep a couple of American leaguers from scoring in the fifth on three hits and a pass. Lyons drew the pass with one out, and Kerr singled to right. Watwood lined a single over short, and Lyons scored. Reynolds lined low to center, and Wilson, remembering this was the fellow who had robbed him of a homer the day previous, dove, skidded on his elbows and held the ball. Kerr ran home after the catch. Then Jolley connected safely, but Ciasell let the rally die.

Only three hits were needed to banish Lyons from active service in the fifth, but there was no mistaking the nature of the wallops. With one out, Cuyler doubled against the wall in left. Lyons first pitch to Wilson was sent screeching into the right field bleacher for two runs that made the count 5 to 2. Stephenson flied to deep center and Hartnett plunked a double to the left field wall. Braxton then pitched successfully to one batter, which started and completed his work for the day.

Henry Gets Into Action.

Clancy had the pleasure of getting the Sox started on another two run rally in the sixth. He doubled to left center and scored when Tate bounced a single over Grimm. Bush employed two pinch hitters without avail. Kerr revived the splurge by uncorking a single on which Tate registered. It was at this point that a "duster" by Malone felled Watwood. Johnny was carried to the dugout and Mulleavy ran for him. Reynolds' fly to Hack closed the inning.

By picking up one in the seventh the Cubs were able to increase their lead to two runs. Wilson singled off Moore after Cuyler had fouled out. Stephenson was alloted free transportation. Hartnett clubbed a single into center, Hack scoring and Stevie going to third. Manager Bush then summoned Henry to complete the inning and, surprisingly enough, the luckless southpaw was able to do it. There was a dearth of excitement after this.

ST. PATRICK AND DE PAUL ELEVENS PLAY 0 TO 0 TIE

De Paul and St. Patrick prep elevens battled to a scoreless tie in a Catholic league game on the former's field yesterday. It was De Paul's first league game and its second 0-0 game within eight days.

De Paul made ten first downs against none by St. Patrick, and had the ball in the latter's territory throughout the game. De Paul drove down to within a half a foot of the St. Patrick goal in the first quarter, but a fumble ended the rush. Capt. Weinand, Holmes, Lisner, and Zeck starred for De Paul, while Dooley, McGinty, and Jordan featured for St. Patrick. Lineup:

Haines Holds Macks to 4 Hits; Cardinals Even Series, 3 to 1

Gelbert Scores Tying Run

The first seven batsmen to face Grove were easy putouts, but with one out in the third Gelbert tripled to right and came home when Haines shot a grounder through Grove which went to center field. The score was 1 to 1.

Miller, Haas and Boley were pushovers for Haines in the fourth, and Frisch and Bottomley were mighty tame boys in the Cardinal end of the same inning, Frisch going out to Miller and Bottomley fanning, one of the only three strikeouts executed by Grove. Hafey then sent a drive to the right field wall and it caught in the netting that forms a buffer in front of the concrete structure. Ground rules made it a double. Blades batted an easy grounder to Dykes, who could have turned and tagged Hafey, who was making a perfunctory trot toward third.

But Jimmy was both orthodox and confident. The play to first for the third out was the proper procedure under standard technique. But the A's third baseman made a terrible throw to Foxx. Hafey's interest in running was revived instantly, of course, and he rounded third for home while Foxx was scampering after the ball, which had rolled about ten feet after he had knocked it down. Foxx made a vigorous effort to get Hafey at the plate, but in vain. Hafey got in behind Cochrane without superlative effort.

Wilson Works Hit and Run.

Blades stopped at first while all this panic was in progress, but he went to third standing up when Wilson, for the second time in two days, executed the hit and run play with perfection. Gelbert shot a hot one off Groves' glove and Blades scooted home and Wilson stopped at second. Haines furnished the belated third out with a drive which Miller captured in right center.

In the fifth Grove fouled to Frisch, Bishop rolled to Bottomley and Dykes fouled to Wilson. The Cardinals were just as mild as their enemies. Douthit popped to Bishop, Adams flied to Miller and Frisch flied to Haas.

In the sixth Haines became a bit wild, an anxiety producer that continued through the seventh and eighth innings.

Haines Walks Simmons.

At the start of the sixth Jess threw two wide ones to Cochrane, then a strike. The fourth pitch resulted in a fly to Hafey. Then he threw four wide ones to Simmons and started against Foxx with another ball. Foxx took two strikes and then was thrown out by Adams, Simmons taking second. Miller took a ball and a strike, another ball and a strike, and then he let the third strike go by to retire the side.

In the Cardinals' half of the sixth, Bottomley, Hafey and Blades did nothing to ruffle the complacency of Mr. Grove, but in the As' seventh Haines' wildness persisted and he walked Haas on five pitches. Boley popped to Frisch, Grove fanned, and Bishop flied to Blades. And there stood Haas on first when the inning ended.

The best fielding play of the day was executed by Bishop in the Cardinal seventh. After Wilson had flied to Miller, Gelbert received the only pass issued by Grove and moved to second on Haines' sacrifice bunt. Douthit appeared to have made a low Texas leaguer to short center, but Bishop, running at top speed ahead of the ball, made a leaping catch toward the outfield to retire the side and make Gelbert's run for home mean nothing at all.

Dykes Takes a Walk.

The A's eighth opened like their seventh—with a base on balls. Dykes walked on five pitches—a called strike sandwiched between two pairs of wide ones. Cochrane filled to Blades. Then Gelbert made a nice play to throw out Simmons, Dykes taking second. Foxx flied to Blades.

Adams and Frisch flied to Miller and Bottomley to Haas in the eighth and in the ninth Miller flied to Blades, Gelbert threw out Haas and Boley ended the game with a high fly to Blades.

Haines Makes 104 Pitches Against Lefty Grove's 98

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—At the end of the fifth inning Haines had made 51 pitches as compared to 71 by Grove. But Haines' tendency toward wildness and Grove's steadiness later on balanced the count, though Haines, inning for inning, did less throwing than Grove. Haines made 104 pitches in nine innings and Grove 98 in eight innings.

During the regular season the groundkeeper at Sportsman's park looses eight hens and a big red rooster after each game that they may graze and romp on the baseball premises. But the poultry party is in a cat and dog infirmary for feeding during the world series. It is said that Commissioner Landis ruled it wasn't dignified to have the rooster and his companions dashing over the scene of a world series.

The hit that Al Simmons made in the third inning was his fourth in a row, he having made a double in the sixth and a single in the eighth yesterday and a single in the first today.

Connie Mack was out where everybody could see him again today. He seemed a bit self-conscious after Dykes put his left handed pet in the hole in the fourth inning.

Railroad agents were all smiles after the Cardinals' victory. Instead of scattering to their homes from this central point, the players must go back to Philadelphia to be mustered out later in the week, to say nothing of the railroad tickets journeymen authors must purchase.

DORIS DEFEATS MIZPAH IN RACE FOR YACHT TROPHY

Sets 19 M. P. H. Pace from Milwaukee.

The steam yacht, Doris, owned by William Hofnauer of Chicago, defeated Commander Eugene McDonald's Mizpah by 1,300 feet in an 82 mile race from Milwaukee to Chicago yesterday afternoon. The Doris, smaller and lighter of the two boats, took the lead at the start and held it despite a spurt by the Mizpah at the 50 mile mark.

A $5,000 trophy will be presented to the winner by Commander McDonald, who challenged Hofnauer to the race.

Mizpah Cuts Down Lead.

The Doris is a 27 year old boat, weighs 200 tons and is 165 feet long and 18 feet wide. In contrast, the Mizpah weighs 500 tons, 187 feet long, and 28 feet wide. The Doris is powered by steam, while the Mizpah is equipped with twin Diesel motors.

At noon, shortly after the start, the Doris was two lengths ahead, and off Racine, had increased its advantage to a half mile. The Mizpah started to gain ground then, and picked up a quarter of a mile by the time the boats reached the Great Lakes Naval Training station. From there the Doris coasted in, despite efforts of the crew of the Mizpah to crowd another knot of speed out of their vessel.

Averages 19½ Miles.

The Doris sailed at a steady pace of 19½ miles an hour. The Mizpah was traveling 20½ near the finish.

Among the guests on the Mizpah were Tom Mix of Hollywood, U. J. [Sport] Herrman of Chicago, and Capt. J. R. Lynn, first assistant harbor master of Chicago. The guests on the Doris included Capt. Royal Allen, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Barnard, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Scott, Norman Huxley, Capt. Peter Roulette, who piloted the winner to victory; Ralph R. Sackly and Mabel Sykes.

Title's in the Bag! Who Says So? Mr. Street

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A [illegible] py chorus of "I told you so!" [illegible] to the rafters of the Cardinal [illegible] house today as Gabby Street's [illegible] warriors trooped in after beating [illegible] Athletics, 3 to 1, in the fourth [illegible] of the world series, thus squaring [illegible] fight.

Street said it would be no surprise to him now if the Cardinals [illegible] the next two games and the [illegible] flag.

"That's just how I feel about [illegible] way my boys are going now," [illegible] barked.

Error Is Turning Point.

Street said the turning point of [illegible] battle today was in the fourth [illegible] ning, when Jimmy Dykes, the A [illegible] letics' third baseman, made a [illegible] throw to first in an attempt to [illegible] Blades' sizzling grounder.

Jesse Joseph Haines, Phillipsburg, Ohio's contribution to the big show, cut loose with a war-whoop as he changed through the door.

"I fed 'em a lot of knuckle [illegible] today and I think mebbe I was a little too cautious, because I [illegible] didn't want to give them anything they could paste out of the lot."

Whiskers Part of Uniform.

Big Jesse did all his talking through a two days growth of whiskers. He said he never shaves before pitching because the burning sun and perspiration makes his face sore.

The Cardinals' 24 year old shortstop, Charlie Gelbert, was the big [illegible] along with Haines, in the Cardinal clubhouse. It was Gelbert who [illegible] slashing triple in the third inning enabled the Cardinals to tie the score and it was his single in the fourth that scored one of the winning runs.

Connie Mack, reviewing the [illegible] straight defeat of his Athletics, said the Cardinals deserved to win [illegible] that he had no criticism to make of the Athletics' mistakes.

"Grove pitched a better game than he did in Philadelphia, when he won his game," Mack said. "If Miller had held Gelbert's drive to right to two bases, and if Dykes had not [illegible] Grove would have had a shutout."

EASTERN HORSES EN ROUTE HERE FOR CUP RACE

awthorne Stake Draws Turf Stars.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For the next week at least most of the great race horses in America will be quartered in Chicago.

The Hawthorne Gold Cup which will be considerably more than $30,000 brings them here. The Cup race is to be renewed Saturday afternoon.

Come from Kentucky.

From Kentucky Pigeon Hole, Alcibi- ades and Saxon will come to Haw- thorne for the Cup struggle. Quartered at Chicago are such notable perform- ers as Lady Broadcast, Plucky Play, Sir Ethel, Blackwood, Jem and My Dear, awaiting the engagement.

Eight starters seem certain for the race. There may be 10 or a dozen in the parade to the post. Gallant Fox is the only notable missing, a severe cold having put him out of training in New York last week. Sun Beau is the Cup defender, having won the race last October after running the most sensational mile and a quarter in many years over an Amer- ican track. Display and Misstep have for two years have played a major role in the Cup renewals are expected both going amiss in training. Some of the best riders in the coun- try are coming for the Cup race. Linde Coltiletti will have a leg up on Sun Beau, A. Robertson, a Harry Payne Whitney jockey, will ride, Saxon and J. Bejshak will come from the east to ride Gone Away; Question- able will probably be piloted by R. Workman while Bob Finnerty who piloted Pigeon Hole in all his im- portant engagements this season will have a leg up on this fellow. It was reported last night that Trainer Jimmy Conde was endeavoring to bring Eddie Earl Sande, Pony McAtee, or Linus Mattox here to ride Lady Broad- cast.

Favor Lady Broadcast.

Eastern bankrolls are going to be loaded if Lady Broadcast loses the race, she has been running sen- sationally lately, breaking or tieing track records whenever she has started and it was predicted by veteran horsemen yesterday after she had gal- loped to easy mile in 1:40 that it will take a mile and a quarter in 2:02 or better to beat her. She ran it almost that fast when she won the $25,000 Ash handicap at Lincoln Fields.

The Woodlands purse at a mile and a sixteenth and the Andover purse at mile and 70 yards feature the racing at Hawthorne today. Suitor, Seth's Boy, Tonto Rock, Uncommon Gold and Yosakan are engaged in the Andover handicap. In the Andover Ladrone, Trek is a possibility, Trek, Fiddler, Kin- sella, Lady Seth, Who Win, and Coral Reef to go into action.

The Arlington, under the featherlike im- post of 100 pounds, no doubt will be the favorite. Bad racing luck has cost the victory in his last two starts here.

Upsets Few as Football Takes Throne

was the first for the new stadium which will be dedicated Saturday against Navy. The new $700,000 bowl seats 55,000 and can be doubledecked later, increasing the capacity to 85,000.

Ohio State surprised followers of Big Ten football, not by defeating Indiana, for that had been predicted, but by the score of 23 to 0. The Hoosiers will be fortunate to win any of their remaining three conference games while Ohio well may upset its confi- dent rivals.

Badgers, Maroons Doubtful.

Illinois' inexperienced team, with several sophomores in the lineup, played well on defense Saturday, hold- ing Iowa State scoreless. The offense capitalized a recovered fumble on op- ponents' 24 yard line at the start of the third quarter and Yanuskus and Berry carried the ball to the only touchdown of the game. Yanuskus is Zuppke's only experienced back, while Berry is one of the more prom- ising sophomores.

Little interest was attached to Wis- consin's double victory over Carleton, 28 to 0, and Lawrence, 53 to 6. Not did Chicago, twice victor in games with Ripon, 19 to 0, and Hillsdale, 7 to 6, offer evidence of strength. Three weeks of drill are not sufficient for Stagg to gear up his lateral pass at- tack and it is likely the Badgers will win from the Maroons in the opening Big Ten game Saturday at Madison.

Oklahoma Aggies won from Iowa, 6 to 0, at Iowa City, proving the assertion of Hawkeye rooters that the loss of athletes in the recent imbroglio with the Big Ten had wrecked their squad.

Texas Aggies lost to Nebraska, 13 to 0, and since the Texans were de- feated last year only by their con- ference champion, 13 to 10, the Corn- huskers should have a great year.

In the east Yale gained revenge, as was expected, over Maryland for a 13 to 13 tie in 1929. The Bulldog won Saturday, 40 to 13, and now prepares for another such occasion with Geor- gia, for the southerners also defeated old Eli last year 15 to 0. Other rank- ing teams continued a victory pace against lesser rivals. Princeton de- feated Amherst 23 to 0; Harvard best- ed Vermont 34 to 0, and Army, Cor- nell, Syracuse, Carnegie Tech, Pennsyl- vania, Brown, and Colgate ran up lop- sided scores.

Pittsburgh Is Victor.

The ballyhooed battle between Pitts- burgh and West Virginia went to Pitt, 16 to 0. Navy won from William and Mary 19 to 6 and Penn State and Columbia had similar victories, the former defeating Lebanon Valley 27 to 0 and the New Yorks dropping Union 25 to 0.

Florida, one of Chicago's intersec- tional opponents, trounced North Caro- lina State, 27 to 0, while Georgia's of- fense ran over Mercer, 51 to 0. Mis- sissippi was no match for Alabama and took a 65 to 0 beating, while Georgia Tech rolled over South Caro- lina, 45 to 0.

Tennessee, one of the nation's great- est teams last year, warmed up with Centre college, winning, 18 to 0, and Kentucky, which last year tied Ten- nessee, 6 to 6, trounced Sewanee, 37 to 0.

Stanford was impressive in a 20 to 0 victory over Santa Clara, attesting the correctness of the pre-season assertion that Pop Warner would have another strong eleven. Southern California won rather easily from Oregon State college, 27 to 7, and Washington, un- der the coaching of Jimmy Phelan, blanked Montana, 27 to 0.

Big Ten Opener with Ohio Next Task for Wildcats

With the season's opening amenities taken care of in the form of a 14 to 0 victory over Tulane, Northwest- ern's Wildcats will start work today for Saturday's Big Ten premier against Ohio State at Dyche stadium.

The Purple came through the Tu- lane scrap in excellent shape, and while Coach Dick Hanley was some- what disappointed at the manner in which his offense functioned, he indi- cated that he was generally pleased with the result.

"Our offensive drives, particularly the plunges through the line, must click better against the Buckeyes," he said. "Of course, Tulane came up with a veteran line that played smart football, but even so our backs, with a little better timing of plays, should have turned in more consistent gains. Most of our work will be devoted to polishing off the attack this week."

Hanley had no criticism to offer on the general defensive work of his team.

No casualties resulted from the opening game. Kent, who played right guard, sustained a bad bump on the head, but will be ready to start against the Buckeyes.

OHIO GAINS CONFIDENCE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Encouraged by Saturday's 23 to 0 vic- tory over Indiana, Ohio State is look- ing forward to a triumph over North- western next Saturday at Evanston and revenge for the 18 to 6 defeat of last year.

Coach Willaman was pleased with the showing of his sophomores against Indiana. He said they surpassed his most sanguine hopes, both in their offensive and defensive plays.

Fesler probably will be kept at right end, because Horn has developed power as a full back. His passing, kicking, and running in the Satur- day's game was the best seen for many years at Ohio State.

Ehrensberger and Nasman were the only casualties of the Indiana game, both centers being hurt in the fourth quarter.

IRISH DISPLAY BUMPS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Spe- cial.]—Badly battered from yesterday's battle with Southern Methodist, but with no serious injuries reported, Notre Dame varsity turned its atten- tion to next Saturday's game with Navy. Coach Rockne today seemed well satisfied with his team's show- ing.

The varsity probably will rest to- morrow, return to practice Tuesday for a light workout against Navy plays and scrimmage either Wednes- day or Thursday.

LINE WORRIES MAROONS.

Intensive work on the Maroon line and the addition of complications to the flanker play will start this after- noon as A. A. Stagg prepares his team for the Wisconsin game Satur- day at Madison. The Chicago line must improve to be in position to check the hard driving attack of the Badgers.

Wisconsin apparently has the edge on Chicago, because Coach Thistleth- waite has a veteran team with a sea- soned line to throw against the green Maroon forwards. There is not time for Stagg to hope to do much with his linemen offensively, and he will concentrate on improving his defense, trusting to the effectiveness of the flanker play to gain ground.

A minor worry for Stagg will be the reserve game with Northwestern college of Naperville on Stagg field, while the regulars are at Madison. The Maroons had hardly enough line- men Saturday, even by using some men in both games. Plenty of backs will be available for the reserve game.

FLAWS IN ILLINI LINE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.] —One of Coach Bob Zuppke's first chores tomorrow will be to strengthen the middle of the Illinois line, which did not click so well against Iowa State yesterday.

The victory over Iowa State was encouraging to the Illini, but the Mis- souri Valley team was not formidable offensively and the Illini displayed nu- merous flaws.

Butler, reputed to have a heavy outfit, held Ohio university, Buckeye conference champion, to a close score last week, and is expected to provide plenty of trouble here Saturday. Zuppke has two weeks in which to prepare for the onslaught of North- western.

MICHIGAN LACKS DRIVE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 5.—[Special.] —Michigan's inability to cross Mich- igan State's goal line Saturday has given the Wolverine coaches plenty to think about, with the result that Harry Kipke and his staff probably will spend this week trying to polish the overhead attack and to inject a scoring punch into the team. Michigan will meet its real test of the season Saturday in entertaining Purdue.

Hewitt, who was carried off the field when a small bone in his ankle was fractured, will be on the shelf at least until the Harvard game, Nov. 8. With the exception of Hewitt, the team is in good shape.

BIG SERIES IS DUEL TO DEATH FROM NOW ON

choice and I would never criticize any one for something that was positively unimportant to me.

Doesn't Like Baseball Bands.

The facts of the case, if you want my opinion, are that most of the bands that play at ball parks on pennant raising days and at the world series sound like somebody hired the musi- cians off some dray, and, moreover, their uniforms generally do not fit, and when they try to march they are prob- ably bowlegged and have feet like waiters.

As for any club in the national game being too much of a money lover to spend money for a band if he thought the fans really wanted music, that is too ridiculous to argue about with any such sensible body of citizens as the readers of the daily [name your pa- per]. I personally thought the phono- graph music in Philadelphia was just the right amount, and it was foolish to argue that any pickup band, even if you paid them $150 a day and car fare, would be as good as the mar- velous music you can get on a phono- graph record for 75 cents, with the world's best musicians playing on it.

It's a Duel to the Death.

Criticisms of this kind are destruc- tive in nature and unjust to a fine, lib- eral sportsman and club owner, as I am sure all loyal fans will agree when they understand the facts.

From now on it is a duel to the death, and I think I can assure the followers who have been supporting us so loyally all along that if we do not become the world champions by the end of the final game, I will be a mighty disappointed and surprised man, together with all the members of my team.

I can say no more. From now on action will tell the story of the drama.

BELIEVE WORST OVER IN WHEAT PRICES' SLUMP

Grain Trade Is Now More Confident.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders, having recovered from their scare over the Russian short sales of wheat, are confident that prices in the American market have seen their lowest for the season and possibly for a number of years.

The effect of Russian short sales was greatly exaggerated and caused demoralization and the lowest price for wheat in 24 years, traders said. Part if not all of the Russian short wheat has been bought in at a profit. It was said at the close that if there was any remaining uncovered the profit, which was estimated by a Board of Trade official when prices were the lowest on Monday at around $35,000, has about all disappeared, owing to the advance of over 8c a bushel from the low price of December wheat in Chicago, 75⅞c, to the high on Saturday of 83¾c. At the close it was 82¼@82¼c. March closed at 85⅞@86c and May at 88⅞@89c.

Taking the week in all it was one of the most strenuous the grain trade has experienced in years. Confidence was restored at the last with net gains of 4⅛@4¼c. The present disposition is to work on the constructive side of the market in a conservative way, with investment buying enlarging owing to low prices, the belief being that wheat at 80c or under is below cost of production and is too low to sell short with expectation of more than a small profit.

Consider Bullish Factors.

Bullish conditions are being given greater attention with satisfactory results in the last few days. Traders believe that the visible supply is nearing the turning point. A week ago it was 204,000,000 bu, against 191,000,000 bu last year. The Canadian visible, however, was 84,000,000 bu, against 88,000,000 bu last year, the two countries combined having 288,000,000 bu, or only 9,000,000 bu more than a year ago. At the same time commercial supplies, which include more than the regular visible, are 222,000,000 bu, against 198,000,000 bu last year. Bradstreet's world's supply of practically 424,000,000 bu is only 9,000,000 bu over last year, although it sets a record.

Low prices for wheat have encouraged increased human and animal consumption, it is said, and statements were presented during the week to show that with a greater consumption and fair exports the end of the season will find the United States wheat market on a domestic basis. This is the especial belief of George S. Milnor, president of the government's Grain Stabilization corporation. The announcement has attracted attention of late, and those who are bullish are inclined to believe that the forecast will work out as predicted.

Exceed Last Year.

Export clearances of wheat from the United States so far have exceeded last year's and are larger than those from Canada. Prospects are also for greater exports to China and Japan from the Pacific coast, with export sales reported by a cooperative association in that territory of 6,000,000 bu. Canada is selling wheat as fast as possible and the peak of the country's marketing movement is said to be by over. The same condition also prevails in the American northwest.

It is estimated that consumption of wheat as animal feed is 160,000,000 bu to 170,000,000 bu for the season. Europe is also said to be feeding more wheat, owing to prices being lower than corn. Milling demand has improved and larger flour sales are reported. Added to these factors are dry weather in Argentina and Australia, although rains were reported in the latter country at the close of the week. It is too early, however, to predict crop damage in both of these countries as harvesting will not be on for inside of 60 days.

While wheat traders are disposed to ignore the Russian situation, nervousness prevails as to what Russia's position and disposition actually is. Cables at the close said that Russia had sold 100,000 tons on Friday at lower prices than other countries and traders consider that Russia will be a menace to the world's wheat trade until it has disposed of its surplus. Another factor is that France and several other countries are said to have either decided upon measures restricting imports of Russian wheat or will do so shortly.

In all the situation in all grains is one that calls for caution on both sides.

Sales of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade for the week were 306,030,000 bu, an increase of 46,000,000 bu over the previous week, and 7,000,000 bu as compared with last year. Open interest at the last was 167,000,000 bu, against 173,194,000 bu the previous week.

Corn Traders Bullish.

Disappointing husking returns from some of the largest corn states, combined with the belief that liquidation by weak holders was over led to heavy buying by strong local operators, who concentrate their efforts largely on December, brought about a better feeling and an advance of 9c from the low point on Monday to the high point in the closing days, with net gains for the week of 5⅝@5¾c. The local interests regard the corn situation as favoring higher prices based on a scarcity of feeds. How

Lack Package Lake Freight Is Discussed

BY SCRUTATOR.

Frequent inquiries are made as to why the great lakes are so little used for package freight and why the total volume of such shipment has shrunk until it is far less than it was thirty years ago. A great many would like to find some way to bring back this traffic.

Some remedies have been proposed. The Chicago Association of Commerce is now pleading with the interstate commerce commission to fix joint rail and lake rates that will attract traffic to the lakes, and even encourage the establishment of ship lines to handle such business.

Without the coöperation of some form of land transportation, the boats on the lakes have to confine themselves to freight originating and destined to points on the inland waters. The railroads, it is plain, are not anxious to coöperate because in their view it is better to have the whole haul than to split with water transportation.

Makes Suggestion.

An interesting suggestion is made by F. B. Shaw of Joliet concerning a possible solution. Admittedly not an expert in shipping, Mr. Shaw asks why a considerable business could not be built up between the large cities on the west shore of Lake Michigan and the rich agricultural sections in Michigan through an alliance of boat and truck lines, which could combine both their schedules and through rates on a satisfactory basis.

One objection is that there are so few steamship lines operating as such on the great lakes. The largest of them, the Great Lakes Transit company, which was the recipient of most of the large steamships when the owner railroads were forced to sell them some years ago, has not been active in trying to get the low joint rates that will attract freight from the all-rail service. The Association of Commerce states in its brief:

Deprived of Benefits.

"The history of rates via the Great Lakes Transit corporation from the time of its formation very clearly and conclusively shows that this line has wholeheartedly coöperated with the eastern rail carriers in the matter of differentials, thus depriving the public of the natural benefits that should flow from the free use of this waterway even more effectively than was the case during the period of railroad ownership and control."

To be accurate about this, water transportation of package freight is of minor importance. It doesn't matter much that it costs $8 to move a single piano 400 miles by rail and might cost only $5 by water. The traffic can bear it. It is the kind of stuff that moves by carloads or even by trainloads that needs the water. Steel, coal and newsprint paper are examples of lower classified goods that move that way.

Now Biggest Items.

A lake vessel full of either of them represents at least a trainload. A hundred cars would hold only as much newsprint paper as the Thorold brings to Chicago each trip. Coal destined for loading on boats at Lake Erie ports moves to them from eastern coal fields at a special rate now, with the result that coal and ore are the biggest items in lake shipping.

To build up the package freight business by boat and truck alliances is all right, if it can be done. Some package freight could be moved with a better differential arrangement. But the tramp steamer is the backbone of the lake shipping. Rate making now recognizes no larger unit than one carload on railroads. The tramp steamer is of much value only when there is a boatload. A rate system that would make low charges to all freight moving to lake points for transfer to boats would leave the package freight to the rails, but benefit the low priced commodities.

Swift International Co. Declares $1 Extra Dividend

Directors of Swift International company have declared an extra dividend of $1 on the outstanding common stock. The action had been anticipated. The common stock is on a $2.50 annual dividend basis. Earnings of the company so far in 1930 compare favorably with earnings for the same period last year, according to Edward F. Swift, president.

Curtis Lighting, Inc., has passed its regular fourth quarter dividend of 33 cents a share.

Says International Nickel Is Cutting Its Production

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—J. L. Agnew, vice president of International Nickel company of Canada, says that stocks of finished metal, while not excessive, have reached a point where the consumer is fully assured of an ample supply and a prompt delivery and that the company is cutting production to a point that is in step with current demand.

ASK TENDERS OF BONDS FOR SINKING FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Invitations for tenders of bonds for the sinking funds of several issues have been announced. In the number are four foreign issues, two of Bolivia and two of Uruguay.

The Chase National bank, as trustee, invites holders of Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation first lien collateral bonds, due on June 1, 1938 series B, to submit tenders for the sale at not more than par and interest on Oct. 24, to exhaust the sum of $384,885 availabel in the sinking fund.

Holders of Republic of Bolivia external secured sinking fund 8s have been notified by the Chase National bank, as successor trustee, that $242,702 is available in the sinking fund for the purchase of those bonds at not exceeding 105. Tenders will be opened at noon, Oct. 10. The bank also notified holders of Republic of Bolivia 6s of 1917 that on the same date tenders will be opened for bonds to be sold to the sinking fund at not more than par. A total of $55,122 is available for this issue.

Hallgarten & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., as fiscal agents, announce that $204,500 was available in the sinking fund for the purchase of $204,500 principal amount of Republic of Uruguay 6 per cent external sinking fund bonds, due May 1, 1960, which would leave $28,420,500 of the issue outstanding. The same bankers have received $94,500 from the government of Uruguay for the purchase and retirement through the sinking fund of bonds of the issue of external 6s, due on May 1, 1964. This will leave $17,486,500 of the issue outstanding.

Form Group to Combat "Dumping" of the Soviets

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Organization of a "joint conference on unfair Russian competition," sponsored by representatives of six important industries, was announced today by J. Carson Adkerson, president of the American Manganese Producers' association. This group, he declared, will sit as a clearing house to assemble information to be used in combating the effects upon American industry and labor of the "dumping" of Russian products in this country's markets.

September Sales of Kresge System Decrease 5.8%

September sales of the S. S. Kresge company totaled $11,265,218, a decrease of 5.8 per cent from $11,971,088 reported for the like month last year. Sales for the first nine months this year were $101,015,229, a decrease of 3.1 per cent from $104,303,598 for the corresponding period of 1929. At the end of September this year the company had 636 American and 29 Canadian stores in operation.

NEW BOND AND STOCK OFFERINGS FOR 9 MOS. TOTAL $4,492,642,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—New offerings of bonds and stocks for the nine months ended Sept. 30, excluding domestic and Canadian municipal issues, aggregated $4,492,642,000 against $5,280,818,000 in the same period last year, according to a compilation made by Otto P. Schwarzchild, editor of American Underwriting Houses and Their Issues. Of the total $3,952,707,000, or more than 88 per cent, consisted of bonds and notes.

The compilation shows that J. P. Morgan & Co. led the list of investment houses by heading syndicates offering securities totaling $676,278,000, Harris, Forbes & Co. were second with $382,659,600, and Halsey, Stuart & Co. third, with $305,215,000.

From the standpoint of total business in which part was taken either as syndicate head or participant, Harris, Forbes & Co. accounted for the largest volume, with $1,287,764,000. The National City company ranked second with $1,175,494,000, and the Guaranty company of New York third with $1,059,394,000.

Of the total bond offerings, domestic public utility financing accounted for $1,591,579,000, or more than 35 per cent, with domestic railroad financing second at $707,078,000. Canadian corporate and other foreign issues combined aggregated $881,741,000. New financing for financial investment companies totaled $272,920,000.

DENIES POST OFFICE DEPT. IS CURTAILING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—A general denial that the postoffice department, in an economy drive, is unduly reducing its forces and curtailing collections and deliveries to a point which has brought about less efficient service was made by Acting Postmaster General Arch Coleman in a letter to President Hoover made public at the White House today. Mr. Coleman's letter was in reply to a note from the President in which he mentioned rumors that the postoffice might coöperate more fully in relieving unemployment.

Mr. Coleman pointed out that there has been a falling off in the volume of mail in some cities of 7 to 15 per cent, but added that the pay rolls in these cities had dropped only 1 per cent. The only definite retrenchment, he said, came from the employment of fewer substitutes to fill vacancies. Admitting that there have been some complaints on the curtailment of service, Mr. Coleman contended that on the whole there has been no slowing down of deliveries and that complaints are diminishing as the public becomes familiar with the recent adjustments.

American Smelting Shows Large Earnings Shrinkage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—The American Smelting and Refining company for the six months ended June 30 reports a net income of $6,879,441, after all charges and reserves, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to $2.74 a share on 1,828,136 common shares. This compares with $10,947,501 in the first six months of 1929, equal, after all charges and reserves, including preferred dividends, to $5.03 a share on the outstanding common stock. The surplus income, after deducting common and preferred dividend payments, was $1,356,411, compared with $5,537,621.

One June 30 the company had on hand, in cash, demand and time loans and United States government securities, $35,280,791, a gain of $8,612,048 since the close of 1929. Total current and miscellaneous assets were $99,898,811, compared with current liabilities of $19,306,128. On Jan. 1 current and miscellaneous assets were $90,803,101 and current liabilities $22,240,087. Metal stocks on June 30, carried at cost of market, whichever was lower, amounted to $41,235,406, against $47,617,204 on Jan. 1.

Feels Depression

"The nonferrous metal industry has felt the effect of the general depression and consequent decreased consumption during the period covered by this report," Simon Guggenheim, president, stated. "The prices of copper and zinc fell to abnormally low levels. Silver suffered a marked decline to depths never before reached. Lead was also lower, but not so much as the other metals named.

The reduction in volume of both mine and smelter production, resulting from lower prices, together with the lesser margin of profit, necessarily reduced the company's earnings materially. It is, however, well fortified to withstand a period of dull business and in excellent position to receive its full participation in the more normal conditions that must inevitably return."

Pension Reserve Fund.

The report showed also that the pension reserve fund, which was started in 1912, has reached $6,160,133. Mr. Guggenheim said that congress apparently looks with favor on the adoption by large corporations of a pension system, since recent revenue acts have provided for the exemption from taxation of earnings set aside and trusteed for that purpose.

"The experience of the company with its pension plan," he added, "has confirmed its original opinion that the cost is fully justified by the results in increased loyalty and efficiency on the part of its employes."

RENEW LAKE CARGO RATES ON COAL ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—Southern coal operators representing tonnage produced south of the Ohio river in West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee will be heard in Chicago Monday before Examiner Charles M. Bardwell of the interstate commerce commission in opposition to the demand of the Pittsburgh and eastern Ohio coal operators for greater freight rate advantages over the southern districts on shipments of lake cargo coal.

The Chicago hearing will be another inning in the celebrated lake cargo controversy which had its genesis in the Boileau case in 1910 and has continued intermittently for 20 years. It is a competitive struggle between coal districts for business in markets that use in excess of 30 millions tons annually.

WORLD TELEPHONE FIELD IS ENTERED BY TRANSAMERICA CORP.

The Transamerica corporation, the world's largest financial holding company, has entered the international telephone field. Chairman Elisha Walker last night announced the formation of the General Telephone and Electric corporation, with authorized capital of $250,000,000. The new company is sponsored by Theodore Gary & Co., and large British interests in alliance with the Transamerica corporation.

The Gary and British interests now control the Associated Telephone and Telegraph company, with headquarters in Chicago. They also own and operate telephone systems and allied manufacturing plants in the United States and other countries and have other offices in Kansas City, New York and London.

The new General Telephone and Electric company is formed primarily to extend and develop the business of the Associated Telephone and Telegraph company outside of the United States. It will control and operate more telephones than any other privately owned company, except the Bell system according to its organizers. The Associated Telephone company now has properties in a number of foreign countries.

The authorized capitalization of the General Telephone company will consist of 5,000,000 common shares of $50 par value. The Gary and Transamerica interest will take $20,000,000 of stock, while the British and other associates will subscribe for about $6,000,000. The balance of the stock will not be issued at present.

H. L. Gary, president of Theodore Gary & Co., will be chairman; A. F. Adams, now chairman of the Gary company, will be president; and Elisha Walker will be chairman of the executive committee.

Wall St. Hears of Progress on Canada Paper Combine

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Wall street hears that encouraging progress has been made in negotiations looking toward a merger which may include Canada Power and Paper, Abitibi, St. Lawrence corporation, the Nackus-Brooks Mills, and International Paper company's Canadian mills. Discussions have been discontinued for a few days, the report said, but will be resumed soon.

BEAR SELLING IS MOOT QUESTION FOR WALL ST.

Recovery of Grain Market Watched.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—What last week's wheat market actually indicated in its emphatic recovery after touching the absurdly low price of 72⅜ cents, was returning sanity.

The very fact that the grain market at once resumed discussion of such humdrum considerations as supply and demand, production and distribution, instead of the "mystery thrillers" of the preceding fortnight, meant return of reasoning capacity.

The stock market did not move on similar lines; perhaps, because it had not gone as far as the grain market in the season's fall of prices, perhaps because it had other things to watch, and because those other considerations were not unfolding cheerfully. Yet even on the stock exchange there was visible last week an extension of reasoned confidence in the not very distant future.

Bear Selling.

The character of the markets, last week and the week before, was such as inevitably to converge comment on the activities of speculators for the decline. It was evident on the stock exchange that concerted "bear selling" has greatly aggravated the market's demoralization.

As is usual in emotional Wall street controversy, excited suggestions as to how to abate the evil were thrown out. Assuming that recovery in business was being checked by the spasmodic fall of stocks and that the bears were responsible for the fall, some financial spectators have even proposed that for a week, or a month, or a year, the law of the stock exchange be induced to prohibit sales of stocks, except when the seller owns them and is engaged in a bonafide sale to raise necessary cash.

This proposal recurs invariably at times when belief prevails that "the bears" are making a bad situation

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT NATURAL GAS

Article 1—Growth of the Industry

A farmer near Fredonia, New York, in 1821, accidentally found that a peculiar vapor issuing from the ground on his farm would ignite. He put a pipe in the ground and used the flame at the top to light his barnyard. That was the start of the natural gas industry—in which the people of the United States have invested approximately $2,000,000,000.

The great importance of this industry today and its recent phenomenal growth are not yet realized by most people—

Years	Consumption in Cubic Feet	Number of Customers	Gross Revenues
1900	100,000,000,000	250,000	$ 23,000,000
1910	509,000,000,000	1,343,000	70,000,000
1920	798,000,000,000	2,636,000	196,000,000
1929	1,900,000,000,000	4,800,000	400,000,000

Of particular significance is the fact that the major portion of this remarkable increase has taken place within recent years. Definite indications point to a development during the next decade comparable to that which has already taken place in the field of electricity.

There are four reasons for this growth... 1. Recent discoveries of huge additional supplies of natural gas. 2. New methods for practical and profitable transmission over long distances. 3. The enormously increased consumption of natural gas in industry. 4. The increasing number of cities replacing manufactured gas with natural gas for domestic use.

The first of these factors, especially, has greatly stimulated the growth of the industry. With the discoveries of new natural gas reserves in the Southwest in recent years, the amount which has become available is enormous, and it is increasing steadily.

These sources are in most cases distant from the larger population and industrial centers. However, the recently perfected method of transmission makes it possible to pipe gas for great distances—a thousand miles and more—with no loss in heat value and with only negligible loss in volume. Compare this with an average loss of from 7 to 10 per cent in the transmission of electricity. At the present time there are over 80,000 miles of natural gas pipe lines in the United States.

Industrial companies, always seeking more economical and efficient methods of operation, were first to recognize the superiority of natural gas over other types of fuel and to adopt its use wherever available. This movement has been so extensive that the amount of natural gas used by industry alone increased from 414 billion cubic feet in 1921 to the enormous total of over 1500 billion in 1929—an increase of 265% in eight years.

Past increases in the consumption of natural gas have been due largely to this demand from industry. Now, however, cities are changing to natural gas for domestic purposes as rapidly as the supply can be brought to them. This great potential market has hardly been touched. When the possibilities for domestic development are considered, together with increasing industrial demand, the future of the natural gas industry is tremendously impressive.

* * * *

A prominent place in the natural gas industry is occupied by Southern Natural Gas Corporation. This company already has become an important factor in the industrial and domestic growth of the Southeast. It serves, through a 1330-mile transmission system, the principal cities of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, including Atlanta and Macon, Georgia; Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, Alabama; and Vicksburg, Columbus and Meriden, Mississippi.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THINGS ARE LOOKING UP

WALT, I'VE BEEN WATCHING TO SEE WHAT EFFECT A LARGE LEGACY SETTLED UPON YOU WOULD HAVE. AND I'M HAPPY TO SAY I CAN'T SEE THAT IT'S DONE YOU ANY HARM.
I DON'T KNOW WHY IT SHOULD, MR. WICKER. IT BELONGS TO SKEEZIX AND I'M ONLY A WATCHDOG FOR HIM.
YOU HAVE DONE GOOD WORK FOR THE WICKER COMPANY, WALT, AND ALTHOUGH THIS IS A POOR TIME FOR US TO RAISE SALARIES, I AM INCREASING YOURS FIFTEEN PERCENT.
WHY, THAT'S WONDERFUL! BUT I HAVEN'T INCREASED SALES ANY THIS YEAR.
NO, BUT HOLDING THEM SO CLOSE TO LAST YEAR'S TOTAL HAS BEEN A REAL FEAT. I KNOW THAT IN YOUR CIRCUMSTANCES YOU COULD RETIRE IF YOU LIKED. THIS IS IN APPRECIATION OF YOUR DECISION TO STAY.
THANK YOU A LOT, MR WICKER! THAT RAISE LOOKS MIGHTY BIG TO ME IN SPITE OF THE LEGACY.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 6:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always fast fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Murder by person or persons unknown, is the verdict given at the inquest.

The vicar receives notes from three women parishioners, stating that they have important information to tell him about the murder, and asking him to call.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an impostor and is suspected of the theft of some valuable old silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe. His secretary, Gladys Cram, is also under suspicion and is questioned at the police station.

INSTALLMENT XLIII.
A NEW SUSPECT.

"No refusing about it," Miss Cram said. "You've made a mistake, that's all. You and your meddlesome Marples. I won't say a word more—not without my solicitor present. I'm going this minute—unless you're going to arrest me."

For answer, the inspector rose and opened the door for her, and with a nod of the head, Miss Cram walked out.

"That's the line she takes," said Slack, coming back to his chair. Absolute denial. And of course the old lady may have been mistaken. No jury would believe you could recognize any one from that distance on a moonlit night. And of course, as I say, the old lady may have made a mistake."

"She may," I said, "but I don't think she did. Miss Marple is usually right. That's what makes her unpopular."

The inspector grinned.

"That's what Hurst says. Lord, these villages!"

"What about the silver, inspector?"

"Seemed to be perfectly in order. Of course that means one lot or the other must be a fake. There's a very good man in Much Benham, an authority on old silver. I've phoned over to him and sent a car to fetch him. We'll soon know which is which. Either the burglary was an accomplished fact, or else it was only planned. Doesn't make a frightful lot of difference either way—I mean as far as we're concerned. Robbery's a small business compared with murder. These two aren't concerned with the murder. We'll maybe get a line on him through the girl—that's why I let her go without any more fuss."

"I wondered," I said.

"A pity about Mr. Redding. It's not often you find a man who goes out of his way to oblige you."

"I suppose not," I said smiling slightly.

"Women cause a lot of trouble," moralized the inspector.

He sighed and then went on, somewhat to my surprise. "Of course there's Archer."

"O!" I said. "You've thought of him?"

"Why, naturally, sir, first thing. It didn't need any anonymous letters to put me on his track."

"Anonymous letters," I said sharply. "Did you get one then?"

"If I can help you in any way," I began.

"That's nothing new, sir. We get a dozen a day, at least. O! yes, we were put wise to Archer. As though the police couldn't look out for themselves! Archer's been under suspicion from the first. The trouble of it is, he's got an alibi. Not that it amounts to anything, but it's awkward to get over."

"What do you mean by its not amounting to anything?" I asked.

"Well, it appears he was with a couple of pals all the afternoon. Not, as I say, that that counts much. Men like Archer and his pals would swear to anything. There's no believing a word they say. We know that. But the public doesn't, and the jury's taken from the public, more's the pity. They know nothing, and ten to one believe everything that's said in the witness box, no matter who it is that says it. And of course Archer himself will swear till he's black in the face that he didn't do it."

"It is natural, I suppose, to cling to life," I mused.

"You'd be surprised if you knew the murderers that have got off through the soft heartedness of the jury," said the inspector gloomily.

"But do you really think that Archer did it?" I asked.

It has struck me as curious all along that Inspector Slack never seems to have any personal views of his own on the murder. The easiness or difficulty of getting a conviction are the only points that seem to appeal to him.

"I'd like to be a bit surer," he admitted. "A fingerprint now, or a footprint, or seen in the vicinity about the time of the crime. Can't risk arresting him without something of that kind. He's been seen around Mr. Redding's house once or twice, but he'd say that was to speak to his mother. A decent body, she is. No, on the whole, I'm for the lady. If I could only get definite proof of blackmail—but you can't get definite proof of anything in this crime! It's theory, theory, theory. It's a sad pity that there's not a single spinster left living along your road, Mr. Clement. I bet she'd have seen something if there had been."

His words reminded me of my calls and I took leave of him. It was about the solitary instance when I had seen him in a genial mood.

My first call was on Miss Hartnell. She must have been watching for me from the window, for before I had time to ring, she had opened the front door and, clasping my hand firmly in hers, had led me over the threshold.

"So good of you to come. In here. More private."

We entered a microscopic room, about the size of a hencoop. Miss Hartnell shut the door and with an air of deep secrecy waved me to a seat [there were only three]. I perceived that she was enjoying herself.

"I'm never one to beat about the bush," she said in her jolly voice, the latter slightly toned down to meet the requirements of the situation. "You know how things go the round in a village like this?"

"Unfortunately," I said, "I do."

"I agree with you. Nobody dislikes gossip more than I do. But there it is. I thought it my duty to tell the police inspector that I'd called on Mrs. Lestrange the afternoon of the murder and that she was out. I don't expect to be thanked for doing my duty, I just do it. Ingratitude is what you meet with first and last in this life. Why only yesterday that impudent Mrs. Baker——"

"Yes, yes," I said, hoping to avert the usual tirade. "Very sad, very sad. But you were saying."

"The lower classes don't know who are their best friends," said Miss Hartnell. "I always say a word in season when I'm visiting. Not that I'm ever thanked for it."

"You were telling the inspector about your call upon Mrs. Lestrange," I prompted.

"Exactly—and by the way he didn't thank me. Said he'd ask for information when he wanted it—not those words exactly, but that was the spirit. There's a different class of men in the police force nowadays."

"Very probably," I said. "But you were going on to say something?"

"I decided that this time I wouldn't go near any wretched inspector. After all, a clergyman is a gentleman—at least some are," she added.

"If I can help you in any way," I began.

"It's a matter of duty," said Miss Hartnell and closed her mouth with a snap. "I don't want to have to say these things. No one likes it less. But duty is duty."

I waited.

"I've been given to understand," went on Miss Hartnell, turning rather red, "that Mrs. Lestrange gives out that she was at home all the time—that she didn't answer the door because—well, because she didn't choose. Such airs and graces. I only called as a matter of duty, and to be treated like that!"

"She has been ill," I said mildly.

"Ill? Fiddlesticks! You're too unworldly, Mr. Clement. There's nothing the matter with that woman. Too ill to attend the inquest indeed! Medical certificate from Dr. Haydock! She can wind him around her little finger, every one knows that. Well, where was I?"

I didn't quite know. It is difficult with Miss Hartnell to know where sentences ends and vituperation begins.

"Of course calling on her that afternoon. Well, it's fiddlestick to say she was in the house. She wasn't. I know."

"How can you possibly know?"

"I'd knocked and rung," she explained. "Twice. If not three times. And it occurred to me suddenly that the bell might be out of order."

Good morning!

This picture, adapted from John Erskine's novel "Sincerity," doesn't follow the original very closely, but proves a case where an unfaithful adaptation is mighty alluring. Even the title pleases, and that, I rise to remark, is saying something.

Less expertly acted, less cunningly directed, less tastefully staged, the cinema version might have been disappointing. But, as it stands, fortified by Mr. Erskine's idea and sparkling, trenchant dialogue, "A Lady Surrenders" is screen cream—and you'll love it.

The most notable performances are by Genevieve Tobin and Rose Hobart—both stage favorites. The former you discover as a charming spinster, with high ideals and a warm belief in marriage as an institution, albeit she is, at the same time, a worldly woman, wearing over her genuine sincerity and sweetness a shining armor of sophistication. The latter is seen as a married authoress—brittle, callous, unscrupulous, scornful of matrimony and with neither time nor patience for her thoroughly nice and adoring business man husband, delightfully impersonated by Mr. Conrad Nagel. Smooth as velvet, all three of these performances. Maybe you wouldn't go a long way to see the Misses Tobin and Hobart again, but I would.

The two women are "best" friends and—Mr. Nagel becomes the husband of both of them! How, I would really rather not tell you, as the reason is the strong meat of the tale, which is sympathetically, logically and most interestingly worked out. Technically the piece is a work of art. Minor rôles are splendidly handled.

Perhaps the sincerest compliment I can pay "A Lady Surrenders" is to say that, while the picture is a long one, it seems short.

"CHINA EXPRESS."

Directed by Illya Trauberg.
Presented at the Cinema theater.
THE CAST.

A European	S. Minin
A Girl	San Bo Yan

A Fireman	Chzan Kai
A Coolie	A. Vardul
A General	Chai Wan San
A Merchant	Lian Din Do
Overseers	J. Goodkin, I. Saveliev

I am informed that "China Express" was directed by a pupil of the great Serges Eisenstein, and rise to remark that the student has a long way to go before making even an approach to the master. There is a marked difference between a banquet and an orgy; a forceful lecture, magnetically delivered, and the rantings of a street corner fanatic. An Eisenstein portrayal of conditions takes unto itself the semblance of a searchlight pointing to the stars. The picture at the Cinema is an involved conglomeration, chaotically reminiscent of the railroad thrillers of other days—only not so understandable or interesting.

As I see "China Express," it is soviet propaganda, purporting to reveal conditions in China, where the soviet is supposed to have a strong foothold. Most of the action takes place on a speeding Chinese express train where a carload of downtrodden coolies rise in revolt against the oppressing heel, represented by the first class passengers. Because it is such apparent propaganda I doubt if the piece will make much more of a hit with soviet sympathizers than with those who view the Russian situation with interest if not complete comprehension.

The picture stands up pretty well as far as acting and photography go.

ITALIANS REJOICE IN WINE PRODUCTION; RUN EXTRA TRAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 5.—Festivities reminiscent of the Bacchanalian ritual of the wine harvest regaled the inhabitants of Marino, a town in Roman campana, noted for its vineyards and vintage today when the annual grape celebration was held.

Great hogsheads of the sparkling new wine, potent and fresh from the presses where attached and free drinks were spurted out. Not much wine was lost, as a special train service was organized from Rome, carrying crowds of people.

Methodists Ending Conference Today in Wilmette Church

Sessions of the Rock River annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Wilmette will be closed this afternoon. Bishop William F. McDowell will read the list of pastoral appointments for the coming year. It is understood that the number of pastoral changes this year will be considerably less than last year's meeting which was regarded as "a shakeup conference." It is possible, according to reports, that less than 10 per cent of the pastors will be moved from their present parishes.

Yesterday's services included sermons by Bishop McDowell and Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, head of the Chicago area of the church.

Eight elders, four deacons, and three deaconesses were ordained in the afternoon by Bishop McDowell. The ceremony was held in the auditorium of the new $500,000 Wilmette Methodist church.

Those ordained elders are: Chicagoans—Windham Bonham, Chicago; Mrs. Constance Hazenstab Elms, John Christian Hofstetter, John Capps Irwin, Charles Wesley Israel, Lester Ralph Sprenger; Merrill R. Ashley of Minnesota and Edward Terry of Oregon.

Mrs. Elms is an interpreter for deaf mutes. She was sponsored by her father, the Rev. Philip Hazenstab, a deaf mute who has been preaching to his charges with the help of his daughter.

The deacons ordained are: Chicago and vicinity—James Harold Hagerty, Ralph Kenneth Kofoed, Katheryn Washburne, William Clark Williams.

The deaconesses ordained are Mrs. Daisy R. Driscoll and Mrs. Irma G. Newcomer of Chicago and Miss Margaret Safford of Pennsylvania.

Church Closes Its Doors, and Half Century

St. Malachy's Worshipers March to New Building.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

One by one the lights behind the lofty windows of old St. Malachy's on Western avenue were extinguished at half past eight o'clock last night and through moonlit streets the congregation marched away to the new St. Malachy's on Washington boulevard.

Dark and silent left they the old church whose lights for nearly half a century have meant everything to them, their parents, and their grandparents, and the parting made them sad.

But even while they grieved the chimes in the white marble tower of the new St. Malachy's sang a welcome to them, and then their hearts rejoiced.

With the chimes the people and their clergy sang as they marched along—sang the two stanzas of "Holy God We Praise Thy Name"—the music of which floated over to them from the illuminated tower four blocks away.

Tottering age and joyous childhood marched in that processional from the old home to the new, the old people saying the rosaries, the children singing. Old and young carried lighted candles. From the sidewalks silent people looked on, baring their heads as Father James Callaghan, thirty years beloved priest of this parish, passed by. He bore the sacrament from the altar of the old home to the altar of the new.

East on Walnut street for a block the congregation moved; then south on Oakley boulevard for three blocks, and then a few paces east on Washington boulevard where the new church welcomed them with a great burst of organ music.

Chimes, organ, and people lifted their voices together. The whole neighborhood was tremulous with music—and over all the serene autumn moon.

It was at once the cheeriest and the most solemn housewarming I ever saw, and it meant the close of the annals of an edifice which long has been a church home in a peculiarly intimate way and the beginning of the annals of an edifice which adds an architectural gem to the west side.

The processional was also a bit of pageantry such as is seldom to be seen in this grim town. It was touched with beauty, it was exalted with devotional song, and it was spontaneous. At its head marched Father William Burke, a missionary of the Congregation of the Holy Cross at Notre Dame, Ind., and he carried a massive wooden crucifix. As guard of honor to the sacrament a score of laymen attended Father Callaghan, and if he was not the happiest, proudest man on the west side last night it was not because he had not a right to be. For he has reëstablished in a beautiful and strategically placed home a parish which the inevitable shiftings of population in a growing city seemed likely to extinguish. And so, after 30 years of service to a passing generation, he has squared away for fresh service to an oncoming generation.

But amid his pride and happiness the white haired man was still the anxious father of the flock, and from time to time you could hear his grand voice booming to the children, "Careful, my dears, careful that you don't burn yourselves with the candles you carry—and hold them straight so no wax gets on your clothes—nor on the church floor."

At the old church they said their farewell with the brief service of the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Then came last lingering looks—the old people not concealing their tears—and the march through the moonlight to the flower decked altars of the new St. Malachy's. There Samuel Insull, head of the Commonwealth Edison company; James Gorman, president of the Rock Island railroad; William Sexton, John Nash and Patrick Nash joined the parishioners. They came in remembrance of their departed friend, Roger C. Sullivan, to whom the bells and bell tower of the church are a memorial.

The service—which was not a formal dedication, for that will come when Cardinal Mundelein has returned from Rome—comprised a sermon on perseverance by Father Bernard Malloy of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, a repetition of the office of the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, and the bestowal of the papal blessing.

Pictorially the supreme moment of the ceremonies came when the church was darkened and the congregation, relighting its hundreds of candles from tapers borne by altar boys, lifted high the candles and renewed its baptismal vows.

At that instant the church, as viewed from the choir loft, seemed suddenly to have been covered with a great canopy of flame, and from beneath the glory of it rose the deep toned repetition of "I solemnly promise" as clergy and people joined in the vows.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

TRAILING a few clouds of glory from Gilbert and Sullivan, "Strike Up the Band" brought its reputation as a "smash hit" of New York to the Selwyn theater last night. It is a musical comedy by a group of Broadway modernists: George Gershwin, the famous rhapsodist in blue, contributed a score in a brilliant night-clubby style, and George S. Kaufman, the Aristophanes of Forty-fourth street, N. Y. C., provided the background for the fantastic libretto. But they went straight back to the revered classics of the G. and S. repertory for their general technique.

Triple rhymes were pattered off briskly; such words as "ingredients" and "expedience" were mated in verse with Gilbertian deftness. "Chorus repeats" were frequent in the song festivals, and Mr. Gershwin's music, although an inspiration for tap dancing, was sonorous with serio-comic quotations and ornate melodic parodies in the grand style of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

All of which was decidedly refreshing. More than a generation has passed since musical comedies imitated the Gilbert and Sullivan frolics—and in those quaint old fashioned days the imitators were a dull lot of hack librettists and one finger composers, playing the sedulous ape to their masters. But Gershwin, Kaufman, et al. are up to the job. They adapt rather than imitate; they put up-to-date frills on the old style, and have ideas of their own. They are satirists in their own right, and cleverly blend the spirit of modern "razz" with its concomitant jazz.

The "typical self-made American" in one of his ponderous business aspects is the target of this piece of light hearted japery. It contains a song in his honor, chanting the story of his rise in humorous solemnity. It goads him into a gaudy dream, where he finds himself stirring the nation into war against Switzerland because of duties on chocolate bars. In general, "Strike Up the Band" is a gay travesty upon the habits and methods of our impressive industrial magnates and super-Babbitts.

At times I wondered if its harpoons were not flying over the heads of the average musical comedy audience. They seemed to be aimed at that smaller and more select clientele who devoutly read pessimistic and ironical "journals of opinion." There is, in fact, in "Strike Up the Band," a strain of American Mercury that would effectively poison any show that didn't have a score by that genius of boop-a-doopery, Mr. Gershwin.

And, of course, no vein of humor can remain highbrow while Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough are jumping through the hoops of their crazy line of comedy. These always mated zanies are the stars and form a gorgeous antidote to subtlety. They are doing their familiar line of tricks. Clark still plays tag with his fugitive cigar and McCullough is the silent familiar spirit in eccentric suits of clothes. But as a night-marish caricature of Col. House, Clark makes a new kind of comic whoopee, with gleeful results.

The others are merely the others, competent enough; the costumes are pretty, and the dancing girls win themselves the customary hand. The pseudo, patriotic march which closes the first act [and bears the title of the show] is a gallant piece of music, worthy of addition to the permanent brass band repertory.

Princeton Plans Alumni Rally on Large Scale

Sessions Will Be Held in Chicago.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 5.—Details of the meeting of the National Alumni association of Princeton university which will be held in Chicago on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 were made known here today by Thurston J. Davies, secretary of the association.

Princeton alumni from all parts of the country will attend the meeting, the principal sessions of which will be held on Friday afternoon and evening. The Chicago-Princeton football game will be the main feature of Saturday's program.

Following a luncheon on Friday at the Stevens hotel, the headquarters of the association, Princeton alumni in attendance will hear a discussion of Princeton affairs by a member of the board of trustees, a member of the faculty and an undergraduate.

The speakers on this occasion will be David Lawrence, '10 of Washington, D. C., an alumni trustee of Princeton, president of the United States Daily and the Consolidated Press association, Washington correspondent and author; Dr. Robert Russell Wicks, dean of the university chapel at Princeton; and Nelson P. Rose, 1931, of Columbus, O., chairman of the Princeton undergraduate council, the campus governing body, and chairman of the Daily Princetonian. Walter L. Johnson, '97, of New York City, President of the National Alumni association, will preside.

The University of Chicago will share the program with Princeton at the dinner meeting of the association Friday night. Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago and vice president of Swift & Co., will speak at the gathering, as will President John Grier Hibben of Princeton.

A buffet luncheon will be served Saturday before the football game and that evening a smoker will be held.

The Chicago meeting of the National Alumni association has been designed to further the primary purpose of the organization which was founded in 1826 "to promote the interests of the college and the friendly intercourse of its graduates." The association, which had for its first president, James Madison, of the class of 1771, fourth President of the United States, meets annually in Princeton on Washington's birthday and elsewhere on other occasions. In 1922 it met in Chicago when Princeton scored its 21 to 18 victory over Chicago.

The national committee arranging the Chicago meeting is composed of Walter L. Johnson, '97, of New York City, chairman; George J. Cooke Jr., '22, of Chicago, secretary; Frederick H. Scott, 1900, of Chicago; Calvin Fentress, '01, of Chicago; Charles H. Mathews Jr., '05, of Philadelphia; Robert H. Jones Jr., '06, of Atlanta; William M. Armstrong, '07, of Los Angeles; John H. Nutting, '09, of New York City; Thurston J. Davies, '16, of Princeton; Lewis N. Lukens Jr., '17, of Philadelphia, and James H. Douglas Jr., '20, of Chicago.

Arrangements are being made in Chicago by the following committee of residents: Frederick H. Scott, 1900, chairman; James H. Douglas Jr., '20, vice chairman; John Stuart, 1900, in charge of reception; Howard C. Phillips, '90, in charge of registration; William S. Warfield III., '10, and Louis E. Tilden, '22, in charge of entertainment; Robert C. McNamara, '02, in charge of publicity; Ralph A. Bard, 06, in charge of tickets, and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, chairman of the ladies' committee.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

Loveliness Means Attention to All Details of Dress

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

On one of the belated mid-July afternoons which dotted September with some discomfort for those of us who'd thought summer was over, there was a chiffon dressed woman at a certain affair. The dress was a pretty enough pattern, but the upper back of it was a revolting sight—greasy, grimy. You know how the upper part of a dress can get if the cleaner or the tub never gets a chance at it. Perhaps its wearer thought anything would go on as hot a day as that. But the impression is one that is planted in my mind, at least, about that woman—that she is not clean.

We all have our bad days and our good ones—days on which we feel we are able to pass the minutest scrutiny, and days on which we have an idea a back street might be the safest course. With most of us, however, the real reason for the hangdog psychology is not actual untidiness or uncleanness. We just don't feel up to scratch.

We do not put on soiled dresses or soiled underthings. It would seem, too, that there is no excuse for a single woman appearing in dresses that are not clean. Nowadays, one can wash silks and chiffons with such success that perpetual cleanliness is possible on a small income.

Those first impressions—and most lasting ones—are so important to a woman that she should never put her foot out the door unless she is sure she is not going to be pigeon-holed for life as a careless one. She does not have to look as smart as she can look on especially careful occasions, but she must never give rise to an impression of slovenliness.

I recall a clever woman who had an accident which resulted in a blackened eye. She was invited to a dinner party before the discoloration had gone out of the eye. She would not go. She said: "Those new people at the dinner would always remember me on account of my black eye."

So much for the value of first impressions. And, of course, when one sets out one never knows just who or what one will run into in a day abroad.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Young Woman's Request.

"I am badly in need of clothing. My father has been out of work for almost six months and my mother just got out of the hospital. There are five of us in the family, so you can readily see how hard it is for me to buy clothing. I wear size 40 in a dress and coat. B. C."

I am sure there are many of last year's garments you do not want to wear again. If they are in fairly good condition won't you donate them to this young woman?

Austrian Envoy, Chicago Wife Visit Her Mother

BY THALIA

The presence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gruenderger for their week's visit here with Mrs. Gruenderger's brother, Arthur G. Cable of Hubbard Woods, doubtless will be made the occasion for much entertaining by the former Miriam Cable's friends.

It is the first visit she has made to her home town in many years. Since her marriage a year ago on Sept. 21 and previously she has resided in various European capitals. Mr. Gruenderger formerly was a foreign minister of Austria. He now is envoy to France, but is on leave. After their stay here the Gruenderger's are going to New York City. There Mr. Gruenderger is to speak before the council of foreign relations next week. Shortly thereafter they will return to Paris.

The Chicago Drama league is holding its first meeting of the season this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Drake hotel. A discussion by "Æ"—George W. Russell—on "Some Personalities of the Irish Literary Movement" will be followed by a tea.

Members of the board who will assist at the tea include Mrs. Walter F. Reaun, Mrs. Carolyn Barr Dillard, Mrs. George S. Haskell, Mrs. Lewis C. Jessup, Mrs. Hugh McKay, Mrs. Frankin M. Miller, Mrs. Catharine B. Osborne, Mrs. Robert E. Peacock, Mrs. Harold E. Shipley, Mrs. Mortimer H. Singer, and Mrs. L. Oetigan White. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. Lewis Louer, and Mrs. Townsend McKeever are to pour, and Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., president of the league, will preside.

Society will be represented tonight both at the opening of the New York Theater guild's production of Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart" and at the Dramatic league's "Topaze." Season subscribers for the Guild include Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Augustus S. Peabody, John T. Pirie, Alden B. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Richard T. Folsom, Mrs. Leroy Goddard, Mrs. Bertz Wrenn, and Mrs. Cyrus Bentley.

Miss Helen Drake is in Lenox, Mass., for a visit with Miss Kate Buckingham at her place on Bald Head mountain. Mrs. Robert Metz gave a luncheon on Friday at Fernbrook, and Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs is to give a luncheon for her tomorrow before the meeting of the Richmond Garden club at Riverbend, Pittsfield. Miss Drake is to give a talk on the convention of garden clubs of America, held last spring at Seattle, at the meeting. Walter B. Smith is spending a few days as Miss Buckingham's guest also.

Other Berkshires news . . . Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury returns this week from a visit to Rumford, Me., to close Tor Court at Pittsfield and go to New York city for a short stay before coming to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwin Ross have come on to Chicago after a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Metz. Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr. was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Blossom Walker. Mrs. Frederick A. Preston of Lake Forest, Francis S. Swift, Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart and her son, Arthur, and Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter of 1545 Astor street have made recent stays in the Berkshires.

Mrs. George McK. Schieffelin, the former Louise Winterbotham, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Peggie Phipps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps of New York, and J. Gordon Douglas Jr., which took place Saturday in the east and was one of the most fashionable of the fall nuptial services.

Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers Jr. and her two sons have returned from Prides Crossing, Mass., where she has been with her mother, Mrs. Francis Lee Barnson, for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., who have been at the Deerpath Inn this summer, have come into town and are at the Ambassador hotel for the winter.

Mrs. Charles S. Frost of Lake Forest and her daughter, Virginia Frost have returned from the Frosts' summer place, Up-Away, at Northeast Harbor, Me.

Wise Man States His Theory of the Perfect Home Life

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Dr. John B. Watson, psychologist, behaviorist and a few other things that entitle him to newspaper entry when he has something he must get off his chest, says, "Business is only an escape for woman. Marriage is a woman's best job. . . . The woman who leaves her home for eight hours a day in an office and $25 or $35 a week is lacking in imagination. . . .

"Making a success as a wife is no slight task. What does a husband want when he comes home from a busy day? He wants to come home to a wife who is fresh and charming and restful in a pleasant and well ordered and beautiful home that she has created. If she hasn't enough to do during the day she can at least sleep, so that she will be fresh and radiant in the evening."

Obviously the good doctor has not been reading the late census reports on "woman in gainful occupations," the word "gainful" being used to distinguish the ten million employed in jobs with some weekly stipend attached from the twenty-eight million of women registered as housekeepers, the latter engaged in the working of keeping their own homes.

Between the ages of 16 and 64 are the ten million girls and women in "gainful" occupations.

The average man's wages in various industries in the most prosperous times were $23 to $26 a week. On this weekly wage earning basis, without taking into consideration the risk of illness and unemployment ensuing to men wage earners, the picture of "the pleasant and well ordered and beautiful home, to say nothing of the fresh, charming and restful wife," is what you might call no-end incongruous.

What Dr. Watson will have to do before the dream-girl, dream-home situation can become anything more than a pretty little pipe dream, at least, to the working classes, is to figure out some nice behaviorism principles so that our economic situation will function more agreeably. The census bureau points out that the great difference between the old and the new order for wage earning women consists in the fact that in many cases marriage, instead of bringing women the economic security formerly attached to it, frequently adds new financial responsibilities upon the wife so that she is forced to contribute to family support. Nobody more than she would like to have the leading feminine rôle in the moving picture autographed by Dr. Watson and presented above—but where is she going to get men with enough capital to play the indulgent Daddy?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Show Some Initiative.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl used to write letters telling me to meet her at certain places, but doesn't any more. What will I do? CHARLES."

It's time for you to make some of the suggestions. You can't expect her to continue indefinitely.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Trees injured by insects this year have shown more damage than in other years, especially among the elms, because dry and hot weather killed the injured leaves more quickly than would ordinarily be the case. An investigation has been conducted by Dr. E. P. Felt director of the Bartlett Tree Research laboratories.

The elm leaf beetle has been feeding later than usual, according to the latest charge placed against this European pest which is becoming widely distributed. Loss in individual trees can be estimated by the loss in vigorous foliage. Dry weather last year is said to have enabled more of the insects to winter over and infest the elms that comprise one of the most general types of shade trees in the country.

The expert advises tree owners that they can protect their elms from ravages by spraying with arsenate of lead in the spring, preferably before the leaves are more than half developed. It is too late to apply poison this year and therefore not advisable to spend time and money in attempting to destroy the grubs and golden yellow pupae now numerous on the trunks and around the bases of many trees.

Feeding the weakened trees at present is a valuable aid in enabling them to regain their vigor, Dr. Felt reports. He asks that spraying be undertaken next spring in sections where the injury is most apparent. Browned trees of this year may thus regain their vigor if the season in 1931 more nearly approaches normal in rainfall and temperatures.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover returned this afternoon from the fishing camp on the Rapidan. She went yesterday afternoon to make a short visit to her elder son, Herbert Jr., who is reported to be improving. Mrs. Hoover left tonight with the President for Boston. President and Mrs. Hoover yesterday issued invitations to the White House for Thursday afternoon, Oct. 9, at 5 o'clock, for a reception to the sixth congress of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams are spending the week-end at Locust Valley, L. I., with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Morgan, to make the acquaintance of a new grandson, born there last week. The child is also the sixteenth grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the secretary of agriculture, left today by motor for their home in Trenton, Mo. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hall. The secretary will join her at home later this month. He is on a campaign speaking tour.

Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of the attorney general, is spending the week-end at the cabinet lodge on the Rapidan.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The American minister to Sweden and Mrs. John Motley Morehead are arriving, Thursday on the Bremen and will go to Blandwood, their country home in Rye, N. Y., to remain until they return to Sweden in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Daingerfield and Miss Gwendoline Daingerfield have come from their summer home in Blowing Rock, N. C., and are at the Gainsborough.

Further Using of Credit Asked to Aid Business

A more extensive use of consumer credit and installment selling was advocated by Julian Goldman, chain store merchant, in an interview yesterday as a positive means of hastening the return of prosperity through the stimulation of business.

Mr. Goldman, who is making a tour of the country speaking before numerous civic and commercial organizations in behalf of his plan to stimulate business, asserted that if each American family would purchase $100 worth of merchandise it really needed and pay for it on a sound partial payment plan, it would mean about $3,000,000,000 in new business for all branches of industry.

The basis of this credit, in face of the widespread attitude toward depression, Mr. Goldman said, would be the earning power and character of the purchaser. He stated that life insurance company surveys have shown that if a man earns $3,000 a year he is worth approximately $112,000 of capital assets, measured by his ability to earn. Mr. Goldman said that the merchants must be prepared to grant credit on this ability to earn, "a credit basis experience has shown to be sound and seldom abused."

Cathedral Cost Over $20,000,000, Says Bishop of New York

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Bishop William T. Manning, announced this morning in a sermon at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine that in a little over five years, or since he started the campaign to complete the cathedral the sum of $13,000,000 has been contributed, and when that cathedral is finished there will be standing room for 40,000 persons. He said the cathedral was visited by 200,000 persons last year. He added that to complete the structure one of the three chief cathedrals in the world, at least $10,000,000 more will be required.

German Society Helped by Opera Performance

The Deutsche Gesellschaft, or German Aid Society of Chicago, will benefit from the proceeds of the German operetta, "Die Fledermaus," presented last night at the Chicago Civic Opera house by the Teutonic Players of America. The work is by Johann Strauss, and was given in Chicago last season under its English title, "One Wonderful Night." Lya Beyer, who recently came from Vienna to this country, appeared in the leading feminine role. Ruth Page, internationally known danseuse, was in charge of the ballet used in the production.

CHICAGOANS SAILING

New York, Oct. 4.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson of Chicago were among the passengers sailing for Europe on board the White Star liner Adriatic today. Other Chicagoans on the day's sailing lists included Mrs. M. R. Dombreski, Edward Henry Domroski and Charmaine Mary Domroski on the Lapland of the Red Star line. Alwin Clemens Carus of Chicago returned from the other side on the Statendam of the Holland-American line.

Courage of Puritans Urged as Tonic in "More Playful Age"

"Our milder and more playful age" is apt to regard the Puritans as "sanctimonious hypocrites," according to Dr. Samuel A. Eliot of Boston, who opened the 24th season's services of the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall last night.

The son of the late Charles W. Eliot, for many years president of Harvard and the compiler of a famous set of books, Dr. Samuel Eliot declared that "there was in Puritanism a moral virility and a spiritual intensity that ought to be more at work today."

Dr. Eliot came to the Sunday Evening club as the president of the Boston Church federation. He asserted that the Puritans had brought to Massachusetts shores the seeds of civil liberty, and he indicated that their enterprise was intended to be profitable alike for body and soul.

"We live in a time," Dr. Eliot said, "when it is rather the fashion to regard our New England antecedents with amusement or kind of contempt. We are given to understand that the Puritans were just sanctimonious hypocrites, given to endless sermons and doleful psalm singing.

"There is no evidence that to them their religion seemed like a darksome restraint. Rather it was a victorious experience which gave epic dignity to their otherwise insignificant lives. They did not study life as a problem; they mastered it as an experience. So every new venture, every migration to alien shores and scenes simply renewed their passion for the changelessness and timelessness of God.

"The founders of New England further differed from all the other colonists in their exceptional love of learning and in their belief that the welfare of a free state must rest upon the education of all the people. No community in the world, then or now, ever contained so large a proportion of highly educated men. Among the first comers to Massachusetts there were no less than one hundred and seventeen university graduates.

"Massachusetts was indeed established by a commercial company whose members combined in themselves the two not incongruous elements of religious enthusiasm and business sagacity. They meant that their enterprise should be profitable for both body and soul, but the religious impulse was always paramount."

Equality League Vanishes.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Oct. 3. — "Equitas," the world league for the rights of men, an organization which had its headquarters here and a membership made up of Europeans and Americans, has disappeared. Whether it has gone to the ground before the victorious advance of all-conquering woman or merely as part of the world economic depression is not clear. At all events, it has given up its offices.

More Than 3,000 Women to Aid Salvation Army

Acceptances have been received from more than 3,000 women who have agreed to help raise $79,521, the quota of the women's division of the $379,000 budget for the Salvation Army. The announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. Charles King Corsant, president of the women's division. She is ill, but despite that has directed that work.

Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Conference of Club Women, who is chairman of tag day, Oct. 20, said yesterday that due to the coöperation being received from various women's clubs the women's division of the army should have little difficulty in raising the quota.

The fund raised by the women's division will be used to continue the work of the Salvation Army at the Women's and Children's hospital, the Women's Emergency lodge, and the Fresh Air camp at Camp Lake, Wis.

Students from Over 40 States at Dental School

Eight foreign countries and more than 40 states are represented in the registration of students at the dental school of Northwestern university, according to a report of the registrar yesterday. All told, 450 students are registered.

Three are from Sweden, and one each from Argentina, Norway, Mexico, Australia, England, Africa, and Greece.

Among the students are Geoffrey Kerfoot, who was shipwrecked on the steamer Tahiti while voyaging from Australia; Miss Faith Sandberg of Chicago, Mrs. Maria B. Beevar, wife of a Chicago dentist, and Miss Sophia Wojniak.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Occurred in Holland.

My most embarrassing moment occurred while traveling through Holland with a friend.

On a street car in Amsterdam I was reading a copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Next to me sat a stranger who always tried to read what I was reading. I was getting tired of this and commented to my friend on the other side, "What's he sticking his nose in my paper for?"

Imagine my embarrassment when the stranger said, "Pardon me. I am sorry I did not let you know that I am an American also." I felt less than the nickle THE TRIBUNE sold for.

Customer Service.

Practically every time my employer goes out to lunch he returns with a bag of candy or some fruit for me.

One day a lady customer came into our office and after she left I found the familiar looking bag of candy on my desk and, of course, I immediately proceeded to eat it with much relish.

Imagine my embarrassment when she returned a few minutes later for her bag of candy, which she had forgotten, to find me hastily disposing of it.

Paris Launches Tuck-In Blouses for Evening

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special Correspondence.] —Inside blouses are growing rarer in the Paris daytime mode, giving way before the onslaught of tunic blouses and peplums, but they are not to be entirely routed, so they have entrenched themselves in the evening mode. The very latest evening fancy is a separate blouse and skirt and, if you will achieve the highest degree of chic, your blouse should be darker than your skirt. This fashion, by the way, offers a practical way of rejuvenating a passé evening gown, or creating a new one by the cunning grafting of two of last season's favorites—and what with the price of new materials this smart possibility is welcome to everybody but Mrs. Croesus.

The Paris couturiers, however, probably never thought of anything so practical when they launched this new fashion. They just did it to be smart.

Yvonne Carette designed the evening blouse and skirt sketched above. The blouse is of black velvet trimmed with bands of green and gold chiffon lamé like the skirt, which has a fitted hip yoke buttoned up the left side. It gets its fullness in the smartest manner by unpressed plaits, stitched down a short distance and then hanging free to the ankle. The lady is wearing green and gold lamé slippers to match her skirt and black velvet gloves to match her blouse.

Food Talk.

As a rule there is no practical value to a discussion of rare foods, but now and then it is well to consider a few, especially those that have been used in pleasing ways for generations. The quince is a rare fruit with a long history. Its ancestry can be traced back to the time of Greek and Roman civilization. In sweetmeats it has always been popular and has the distinction of being the original "marmalade" fruit.

Today, however, this fruit has sunk into partial oblivion and many people have never heard of a quince, much less tasted one. The fruit varies in form from round to pear shaped. Ripe quinces are a rich yellow or greenish yellow with a rather strong but sweet odor. The best varieties for use are the "apple" [or orange] "pear" and "Portugal." The first is the finest as the flesh is especially tender and the flavor is excellent. The "Portugal" is the largest.

Quinces must be carefully handled. They are easily bruised. Bacteria and molds quickly attack these bruises which develop rapidly into dark brown discolorations. If the fruit is stored in a cool dry place and wiped with a dry cloth occasionally, they may be kept a considerable length of time.

Quinces are not eaten raw in America or in Europe, although in certain portions of Asia the delicacy of the fruit is so enhanced by methods of cultivation that they have a high rank among table fruits. They are generally made into jam, jelly, sauces, plain boiled with sugar and stewed with apples. They also make delicious desserts.

Quinces are now in season. Why not try making a few glasses of the old fashioned conserve for special occasions at your house when you want something unusual?

QUINCE CONSERVE.

3 large tart apples.
1 cup seeded raisins.
½ cup maraschino cherries.
¼ lb. prunes, stoned.
¼ lb. dried figs, cut.
4 cups sugar.

Peel quinces and apples and cut into thin slices. Add raisins and cherries cut fine. Mix all ingredients except the sugar and cook slowly until quinces are tender. Then add sugar and bring slowly to the boiling point. Let cook steadily until thick and clear. Pour while scalding hot into sterilized jars and seal.

QUINCE CUSTARD.

10 eggs yolks.

Peel and core the quinces and cut them into small pieces. Put them into a sauce pan with enough water to cover. Simmer slowly until they are very soft. Pour off the juice, reserving one pint and strain the quinces through cheese cloth. Add the sugar and juice while still hot. Stir in the yolks of eggs well beaten. Add them gradually. Pour the mixtures in a double boiler and stir until it thickens. Pour into glasses or custard cups and set aside to cool. Garnish with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Most Youngsters Hate Piano Lessons; Parents Puzzled

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A list of books to read to children and by them will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

After the entertainment at which a boy of 11 had played the violin, I said to one of his friends: "Does John like studying the violin?"

"O, gosh, he hates it! But his mother makes him practice—and all summer, too."

This hopped into my mind the other day when I received five or six letters with a trend like the following:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I enjoy each of your articles so much, but have never seen any dealings with the, to me, big problem of a child's piano practicing. My boy, 11, seems musical, but it's almost an impossibility to get him to put in the required three-quarters of an hour each day. He has some homework, of course, and I do want him to get his outdoor play in, but I find myself just 'ragging' each day to get that piano work, without which the lesson each week is of no value.

"I would be glad to hear any little suggestion from you which would make it easier for both the boy and me. I find myself getting nervous over this condition and it's too bad, as the boy is a good little fellow and still I want to develop his musical tendencies."

This is a theme on which different parents hold strong opinions, as do also teachers of music. So no matter what one says, one is sure to be stepping on somebody's toes.

As a matter of fact, there are a good many sides to the question—I realize that. There is the musician's point of view. There is the point of view of the parents of a genius. There is the educator's point of view—he who has a perspective on children and their creative activities. They can't all be gone into in detail here.

But one fact about this matter of practicing stands out and it is this—that most studies of a musical instrument by a child are begun today because the parents waht their child to "play something," and not because the child shows special talent, or because he or she expresses a desire to play. Most practicing is forced upon children and at an age when their enthusiasm is for active play with other children. Often, too, it comes during the years when they have much homework and this, added to the practicing, leaves them little physical freedom. One wonders what is best for just the average child.

This subject will have to be continued tomorrow.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Jane was in the first grade and was doing excellent work. One day when she was talking with her daddy about school, he asked: "Jane, who is the brighest girl in your room?"

She looked up and then: "There are three of us." G. J.

Miscellaneous.

MEN
$973..One Day
HERE ARE 8 MEN WHO EARNED $973 in One Day Last Month. Average $121.62.

BERGEN	$230.00
BERGEN	$230.00
BOKE	262.00
CAMPBELL	150.00
HUNTER	62.00
COOPER	115.00
DEREK	63.00
NYMAN	48.00
BAREN	73.00

Some of these men are new in our business. The above are correct names and correct earning figures of straight sales commission—just the same basis of compensation as given to every man.

Furthermore, it was a business day in the middle of September, not the closing of contest period. These same men doubtless will make even larger earnings again. There is real money in this business.

Don't pass up the past, present, and future possibilities of this opportunity because of fear, prejudice, ignorance of the true nature and quality of this kind of work or delay and neglect. There is real money in this business and we can train a worthy man how to make it. Investigate.

It costs you nothing but your time. We are increasing our force. This may be just the work for you and you may be just the man for us. No harm done either way if we do not get together. You will see a business that is breaking our past records right in the middle of the so-called "business depression," and you will see a product that is revolutionizing a great market and one of the most straightforward, truthful, interesting, astonishing, and convincing demonstrations that will ever be your delight to witness.

If you are competent to sell or to learn how to sell, we can instruct you to make a success of this wonderful product. The work is permanent, agreeable, honorable, steady, and of very exceptional future possibilities.

This is a business of the very highest rating—the largest of its kind in the world. Therefore this new product has stability and experience and resources back of it—and back of you when you represent it. It is a genuine service enterprise, and we can accept only men of good character and habits, of courtesy and service.
